Foreword

Here is the world of ufology as you never thought of it before, a world where aliens in a UFO toss hoops over the Eiffel tower in a playful game, or musically pluck high tension wires with a huge, six-fingered hand. It's a look at how aliens might interact with us. We see them add an alien face to Mt. Rushmore, joining the hallowed American presidents carved there. And we find them hovering over Stonehenge in England while making off with an ancient slab for a mantelpiece on some distant planet.

It's all here, even fun poked at the serious side of ufology — what do you do when an alien gets stuck coming through your living room wall? How dangerous is it for humans to eat at an open rooftop restaurant in this age of alien abductions? What kind of close encounter is it when a scuba diver encounters an underwater UFO? It's a comic vision of the greatest enigma known to human-kind, and it's one that skewers its way through various aspects of the UFO phenomena to find humor in the unthinkable. An Olian cartoon may not be how most of us think about ufology, but it is definitely how we would like it to be, if it has to be.

Helen Olian is a published cartoonist whose work has appeared in UFO Magazine for the past several years. Her other work on more mundane themes, notably "The Chefs," an internationally syndicated single panel cartoon, has been visible both in the U.S. and overseas. Her qualifications to create computer-generated cartoons about aliens include a stint as editor for a junior encyclopedia on aviation and aerospace, plus experience gained from producing animated films in Chicago, one of which is a social commentary on war entitled "Battle."

Helen has exhibited a long-term commitment to the UFO mystery and an unswerving devotion to the human effort to solve this mystery and discover its cosmic core. Now join her on a hilarious tour of the greatest mystery of all time...The Aliens!

The Clear Translation in English and German

German translators: Eduard "Billy" Meier and Isa Rashid. English translators: Julie H. Ziegler and B.L. Greene. It may be the true testament of Jesus (Jmmanuel) that led to the Gospels of Matthew and Mark. A UFO story, and perhaps one of the most important books of the century. Not to be missed in any case!
