Character
HellOnEarthIII
Pripyatory
Jason
Gallery 3
Library
Worlds
Links
Comments
Favorite
Ownership
Report
Block

Jason

HellOnEarthIII

Created	1 month, 1 day ago ()
Creator	HellOnEarthIII
Favorites	0

Profile

Canadian Obnoxious Gangsta-Wannabe

Jason is a Canadian resident for Pripyatory

He is a resident in Pripyat Purgatory. Jason is impulsive, brash, and wholly committed to projecting the "gangsta" persona he idolized in life. A product of the urban music scene and its more commercialized stereotypes, Jason leans heavily into the aesthetic of street culture: flashy clothes, braggadocious slang, and petty criminal antics meant to bolster his street credibility. His confidence borders on arrogance, and his humor is often cutting to the point of being offensive..

PERSONALITY

- Obnoxious
- Loudmouth
- Vain
- Social Butterfly
- Pot-Head
- Criminal

Jason is a loud, unapologetic embodiment of the clichés he embraces — quick to talk big, quicker to act without thinking. He thrives on provocation, often stirring conflict just to see the reaction, whether it's baiting strangers or teasing his brother until Jim's patience runs out. While he's lazy and often shortsighted, Jason has a certain streetwise charisma that makes him magnetic in small social circles. He is fiercely rebellious and almost allergic to authority, instinctively dismissing anyone who tries to lecture or guide him. His misogynistic views, casually labeling women as "hoes" or "bitches" reveal a shallow, transactional understanding of relationships, one shaped more by music videos and peer influence than genuine experience

JASON (LEFT)

GENERAL

FULL NAME	James Joseph
NICKNAMES	Jay, J-Unit, J.J, Jasonator
GENDER	Male
AGE	21

LIFE

Despite his bravado, Jason is highly impressionable, easily manipulated by promises of money, status, or adventure, often to his own detriment. Beneath it all, his swagger masks a deep insecurity about his place in the world, but he'd rather die (again) than admit it.

BACKGROUND

Born alongside Jim in Toronto, Jason grew up in the same environment but responded to it in starkly different ways. Where Jim sought knowledge and political awareness, Jason sought style, status, and the validation of his peers. He was a mediocre student at best, more focused on impressing friends with daring antics than on schoolwork. His teenage years were marked by minor run-ins with the law — shoplifting, graffiti, joyrides — not from necessity, but for the thrill and the reputation it brought him in his small circle.

Jason's obsession with "urban" culture was fueled by the late-2000s rap and hip-hop scene, particularly the flashy, materialistic strain that prioritized image over substance. This influence shaped not only his fashion and speech but his worldview, making him dismissive of any lifestyle that didn't match his idealized vision of "the streets." His relationship with Jim was complicated: though he respected his brother in moments of quiet, he openly mocked Jim's seriousness, political lectures, and abstinence from "fun".

DEATH

after a hockey match, Jason loudly insulted a beloved goalie in front of an intoxicated crowd of Dixon City Bloods, triggering a mob attack outside the stadium that killed them both. True to form, he didn't back down, firing verbal jabs until fists began flying. Jim, unwilling to leave his brother behind, tried to pull him out of the fray, but the crowd's fury escalated too quickly. The brawl ended with both brothers fatally beaten, a senseless death born out of Jason's inability to keep his mouth shut and his tendency to pick the wrong fight at the wrong time.

AFTERLIFE

In purgatory, Jason hasn't learned much from his death. He gravitates toward other wannabe gangsters and troublemakers, finding a second life in perpetuating the same impulsive antics that defined his first. His antics often drag Jim into conflict — sometimes unintentionally, sometimes for Jason's own amusement. He still dresses in the trappings of his "gangsta" identity: oversized hoodies, chains, snapbacks, and sneakers, all in sharp contrast to the more subdued residents.

BIRTHPLACE	Toronto, Ontario, Canada
DEATH	Muder, Beaten
ETHNICITY	African American (Bahamian roots)
JOB	Unemployed
RESIDENCE STATUS	Eligible for Hell – Case pending

PLAYLIST

Ying Yang Twins - Salt Shaker (feat. Lil Jon & The East Side Boyz)

?</>

His slang-heavy speech and habit of casually dropping the N-word. While his brother spends time working in the library, Jason spends his days scheming petty hustles, telling exaggerated stories of his “glory days,” and poking his nose into trouble.

Trivia

- Both Twins are a homage of boondocks protagonists: Huey and Riley Freeman
- Both Twins where firstly designed for a completely different project.
- Jasons is a fan of the Horror movie "Friday the 13th", sporting a gold necklate of Jason Voohrees, his personal hero.
- His side of the room is completely desorganized, with clothing, trash and Hip Hop posters.
- Jason is constantly bullying René, either manipulating his innocence or dropping sarcastic remarks.
- The texture of his tattoos are full sets of "Gangsta LooneyToons"
- He loudly claims to have Cherokee ancestry, something that Jim constantly reminds him he does not

SHOW/HIDE RELATIONSHIPS

APPEARANCE

- Height: 178 cm (5'10")
- Hair: Dark
- Eyes: Dark
- Build: Athletic

Jason wears a Camouflage bomber jacket with ribbed cuffs and waistband, Grey hoodie with a large black-and-white graphic print on the chest, Grey sweatpants with white side stripes. He has a White silky durag tied at the back, Multiple gold chains around the neck; one features a gold hockey mask pendant and Earrings. He only difference with Jason is his left brow scar and multiple tattooos

Recent Images

