are exciting and the writings candid. It is such a pleasure to look through personal classified ads where uncuts are the rule rather than the exception! Delights from the Premiere Issue for me included: the cover stud (a real man), the photos of cocks joined together, "The Lace Curtains of Taorima," and the layout "Hung, Blond & Uncut"—keep up the good work and you certainly will keep mine up!

I started seriously stretching my skin last fall after reading your book, Foreskin; although it is not as thick and long as I hope it will be, it is responding nicely to my loving, persistent stretching. Big Daddy Joe's foreskin is certainly an inspiration and incentive for me to keep stretching.

SKIN (REST) STOP

Life in this remote part of the country has picked up since FQ came my way. Men passing through on vacation, and calls, like I never experienced. Thanks a bunch and keep up the good work.

WOW!

When I joined the USA, one of the things I was looking forward to was the newsletter. However, in all honesty I did not get my hopes up too high. But wow, was I pleasantly surprised when my first issue of FQ arrived last November! I could hardly put it down and concentrate on anything else. I found the photographs and articles just too stimulating for me to describe in words.

MORE WOW

Just received my first two issues of FQ—wow! I practically pop a load every time I open the cover.

I'm really glad to have found an organization and a publication devoted to foreskin. Unfortunately I was a child of the 50s, brought up on Dr. Spock, and lost my phallic flap at birth. I've been searching for another one ever since.

EAGERLY AWAITING

I enjoy reading and looking at the pictures in FQ very much. I am eagerly awaiting the next issue and hope it is as filled with photos as the past ones.

Hopefully you will have more articles on foreskin reconstruction, with photos showing the methods that can be used, along with information on devices used in foreskin stretching and results.

(Editor's note: Be sure to see the "Donald Duck" in Items & Events and read the article on Foreskin Reconstruction through stretching and surgery in this issue.)

SKIN: NON-GAY MEN

I happened to be going through New York City on my way back from Germany and ran across your publication. The articles are interesting,

WANTS TO SEE

I would like to see you do a study on how uncircumcised young men handle their foreskin while pissing. I have made some observations in the past, and found that the variety of foreskin handling techniques is almost endless.

RESULTS

Thanks to FQ and the classified ads, my phone is ringing off the hook. I have gotten an average of two calls a day (6 calls on weekend days!) and while I am driving from San Francisco to New York next month—have already made contacts in Los Angeles, Austin, San Benito, Memphis, etc. Not to mention the response I got from New York City! A whole month of sampling the "skin of the land."

GRATS, NATCH...

Congratulations on FQ! It's a great magazine, down-to-earth, informed, uninhibited, and really interesting, with none of the pseudo-sophistication or chip-on-the-shoulder attitude which plagues so many efforts these days. I thoroughly enjoyed the fiction, and Mark Beaumont's article on masturbation is super. The photographs are wonderful. What a master Joe Tiffenbach is with a camera!

I've always envied guys with uncut cocks, though I never worried much about it. But seeing those pictures and reading about the delights of having foreskin made me almost ready to think about restoration. Circumcision should be a matter of personal choice.

NOTHING BUT...

I have nothing but praise for your publication, FQ! The photographs many of which I read during my layover in New York, and which led me to write this letter.

I plan on keeping my foreskin. Both my wife and I like the way the excess skin bunches at the mouth of the vagina when I am having sex with my wife. My head is super-sensitive when its curtains are back. It is hard to keep from coming when I've been without sex for a while, and then slip my root into my wife. I think that nature planned a foreskin on a penis to make the head very sensitive and responsive.

I have read that men who are cut have as sensitive a penis as their uncut colleagues, but I don't believe that. You can't strip the protective sheath of the penis head off without destroying a substantial portion of the delicate "touch" of the penis.

SKIN: WOMEN

My husband brought your magazine home, and since I am the letter writer in this household, I am taking my typewriter in hand to encourage more women to write letters and articles for your magazine. You may be underestimating your silent female audience.

I for one have been turned on by the sight and touch of cock for as long as I can remember, and sucking comes to me as naturally as breathing. My greatest thrill is a long, slow suck—and my tongue would feel like it was missing something if there wasn't a foreskin to play with. Without it, sucking cock would be like playing the violin with only one string.

The foreskin gives me more chance to artistry and more control in holding back my husband's climax. His foreskin is a beauty. It is long, loose, and delicate—fitting neatly over the bulging cockhead, or sliding back like a sleeve until every fold vanishes.

With suction, I pull it out full length to tickle the tip and roll it under my tongue before slipping my tongue between the skin and the head for some side-to-side motion. Then I press the skin halfway back to work on the head and the skin at the same time. When I am really hungry, I push the skin all the way back to slurp on the red plum, but I do not do this very much until I am ready for jism.

I forgot to mention that I also like to slide the smooth skin back and forth with my hand to watch the cock smile at me. However, I get the most out of sucking.

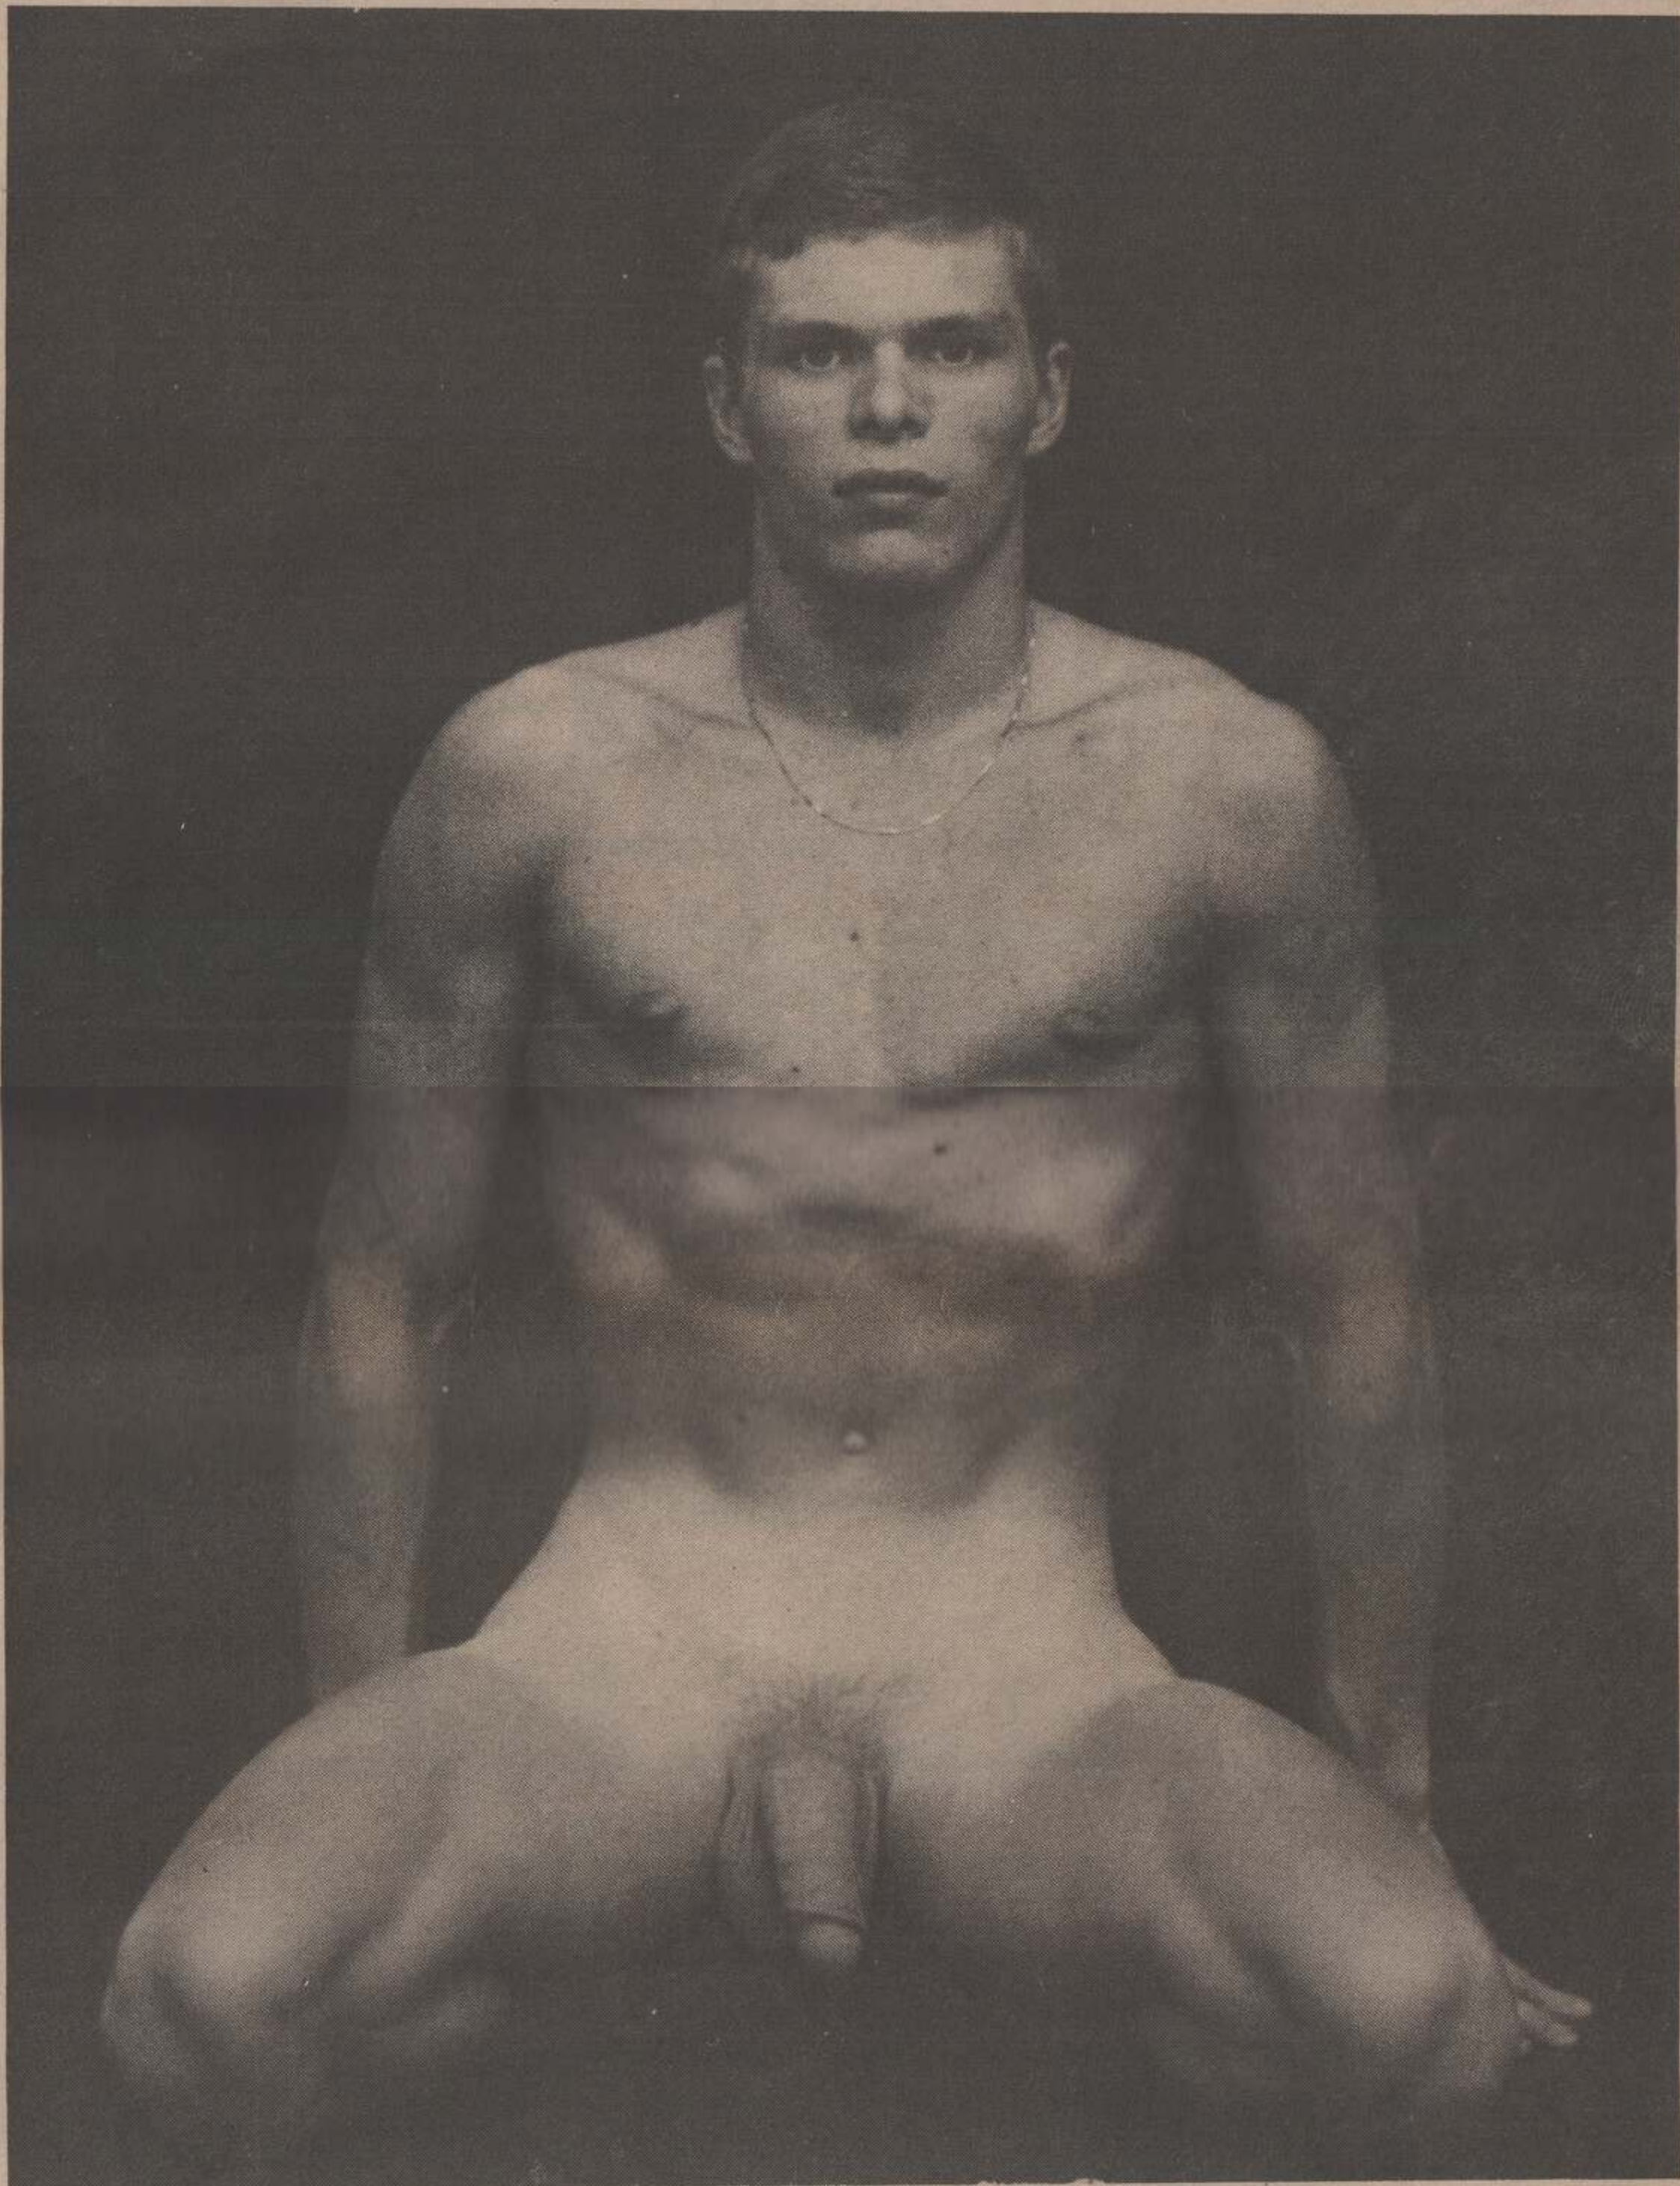

Men, being born with cocks and taking them for granted, can not imagine how interesting a cock can be in all its changing moods. (Editor's note: Not quite true; gay men can and do understand exactly how interesting a man's cock can be.) If you're as crazy about them as I am, you can come just from sucking.

Let us hear from some other women who want their cocks complete with foreskin.

PISSED AT SARGE

I saw the first issue of FQ at a friend's house and went out and bought the second issue myself. Keep up the good work.

I am so excited by all those uncuts. Unfortunately, my folks had me cut at birth, and I never understood why my brother wasn't circumcised.

He has two boys, both intact. When the first was born, the doctor tried to get his wife to sign circumcision papers. She didn't. Seven years later the second boy was born and the same doctor suggested not doing it, and admitted that his own thinking had changed. Thirty-five years too late for me, however.

Get rid of the Sarge column—it really pisses me off!

REVOLUTION

Congratulations on the book Foreskin and on the first two issues of FQ. This is really revolutionary stuff and couldn't, for example, have been printed in the legendary 60s. (Cock consciousness stops the war machine?!)

FORESKINS IN THE NEWS

CIRC CLINICS OPEN

Circumcision Services, Inc., the brainchild of a physician's wife, who is also a market research specialist, has opened in Houston (Texas) to both praise and condemnation from the medical community.

It all began as a joke by a resident physician at the Texas Medical Center, where circumcisions are not performed on newborn infants, that a clinic could be operated at a profit if all it did was perform the operation.

The wife of one of the Texas Medical Center physicians, who is in commercial marketing in the Houston area, gathered a group of investors (and $22,000) to form the for-profit corporation.

The group rented a small building near the hospital and began advertising their services. Infants from three-days-old to 3-months could be circumcised for $45. The fee was also set based on marketing research (it is high for such a minor-procedure office operation), based on the fact that the public views medical fees as indications of quality. The group advertises through a brochure that is part of a "gift pack" given to new mothers by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, adding a bona fide "medical" patina to the purely money-making scheme.

Nothing succeeds like success: Circumcision Services, Inc. is about to start franchising across the country.

But not all the reports for the clinic have been glowing. In a letter to the American Medical News (Feb. '85), Dr. Gallo E. Grijalva wrote: "It is with shame that I have read the news about the 'circumcision clinic thriving in Houston'. No wonder the 'malpractice climate' is deteriorating in this country, where for '$45 a head' a group of residents—who already hold an M.D. degree—mutilate the penis of unfortunate babies whose parents need to be educated in the 'absolute not medical need for routine circumcision,' as stated by the Committee on Circumcision of the American Academy of Pediatrics and endorsed by the American Academy of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and the American Academy of Urology.

"Furthermore, they are planning on franchising the operation. Would it not be more profitable to franchise in performance of the nasal septum with insertion of a large bone, or 'scientific tattooing,' or any other barbaric procedure that eventually may catch the fancy of the 'general public?'"

CIRC ENCYCLOPEDIA

INTACT Educational Foundation, in association with Bergin & Garvey Publishers have issued Rosemary Romberg's Circumcision: The Painful Dilemma.

Directly challenging the traditional medical thinking that advocates routine circumcision, this book could stand as one of the more moving social documents of our times. Its range is exhaustive, delving into the historical, symbolic, and religious significance of circumcision.

Profusely illustrated, the book runs a staggering 480 pages. Information on single copy purchases is available from: INTACT, Box 5, Wilbraham, MA 01095.

CIRCS IN CINEMA

A new film from The Philippines

CIRCS IN CINEMA
A new film from The Philippines, Boatman, directed by Tikoy Aguiluz, and which is about the life of a sexual performer in Manila's gay red light district, includes a ritualized circumcision. Already a scandalous ticket among audiences in Manila, the conservative government has refused to allow the film to be shown outside the exhibitions in the censorship-free Manila Film Centre. Local critics have heavily praised the work, which looks at the life of a sexually-exploited boat man. So far there has not been any interested expressed by American film distributors to import the movie, although it could surface at American film festivals.

DOUBLE JEOPARDY

Sean Hickey, a 35-year-old British man, has had double bad luck when he was circumcised. He went to a Chinese doctor to have his foreskin removed but immediately complained that the doctor cut off too much. He had problems functioning sexually, and his girlfriend disliked the doctor's work so much that she left Mr. Hickey for another man. Sean then had a second operation to try and restore his penis to a more workable form. He now has a cock that had been described as shaped like "a bell" or "a pear". His new girlfriend doesn't care for it either.

You already know the moral to this story!

HOLLOW VICTORY FOR SEX-OP BUNGLER

Sean Hickey, the 35-year old driving instructor in England who had his penis mutilated during a badly performed circumcision was awarded $15,000 in damages from the courts. However, Mr. Hickey described it as a "hollow victory", since his sexual abilities have been so limited. (See related story.)

UNCUT ITEMS & EVENTS

THE DONALD DUCK FORESKIN STRETCHER

FQ readers and USA members have been writing to us seeking a mail order supply of the Donald Duck. The Donald Duck is that stainless steel medical gadget that was designed to be a vaginal speculum, but is sold at some "adult" outlets as an ass spreader. Some doctors, especially in Great Britain, use this instrument to loosen the tight foreskins of teenagers. USA members, now that long overhangs are in fashion, have been adding inches by stretching with the Donald Duck. Steady stretching with the gadget also adds bulk to the foreskin...and every cock wants all the bulk it can get! Well, men, we have found a mail order supplier of the Donald Duck and, you guessed it, the supplier is a member of the USA. SANDM-UTOPIA SUPPLY COMPANY catalogue BB (11/84) lists the Donald Duck (Stainless Steel Ass Spreader) as item number BA-SSAS. The cost is $19.75 plus $1.50 shipping and handling. Sandm-utopia is a division of Desmodus Publications, Inc., and they have a very complete set of catalogues, very complete set of catalogues which will interest most of you. They also publish the DungeonMaster newsletter. To obtain these catalogues, or to purchase the Donald Duck, write to: SANDM-UTOPIA SUPPLY CO., Box 6592-BB, Chicago, IL 60680.

FORE•SKIN/SMEGMA T-SHIRT

Talk about originals! This beautifully produced t-shirt reads: "FOR•SKIN (— Skin) N: A fold of skin covering the head of the penis. :see also/n. SMEGMA". Risque Business of SF offers this bold and artistically lettered (white letters on a black t-shirt) eye-popper, guaranteed to bring you new friends when wearing it to the same old bar. We found one in our mail box just as we were going to press and didn't have time to get particulars: price, etc. Our own USA member, Rick (CA95) is the producer. Write to: Rick, 178 Church St., #3, San Francisco, CA 94114. This little guy is a winner...in more ways than one!

TONY BRAVO: YOU SAW HIM HERE FIRST!

Latest FQ-Man-Makes-Good story: Tony Bravo, the "Unskinned" image from FQ2, has gone through the roof of the rising new models category: a film debut in the much-touted Return To Aspen from Falcon (a sequel to the infamous The Other Side of Aspen), and a lush centerspread in the July issue of Advocate Men. The latter says Tony Bravo is "worth a standing ovation" and we couldn't agree more. Next? Another layout from Advocate Men photographer Fred Bissonnes is in the works (and rest assured you'll see Tony as one of the subjects of Bissonnes coming coffeetable tome), and the film and video offers are stacking up. Deep Dish: Tony Bravo was actually asked by Drummer Magazine if he'd like to try on some leather for their pages.

Which just goes to show something we've been saying all along: FQ knows a good man when it finds one!

MARINE FORESKIN

We have found another series of GREAT foreskin photos...this time the skin is on Marine cock! USA member CA132 has produced this dramatic, graphic and erotic-as-hell series, showing such things as a slippery wet head sliding out of an overhang, smegma, fully covered and fully retracted military meat. Well produced in clear, high quality photos. The photo sets are offered as follows: 6 5x7 "Marine solo jackoff" color prints at $14.00, or 6 5x7 "cheesie smegma" photos at $14.00, or 1 400" "Marine Super 8 Jackoff" at $18.00. Mail your orders or inquires to: Military Photo Series, Box 773, Guerneville, CA 95446. Please send money orders only with your orders. Big, healthy foreskin on this one!

TRUE TALES OF FORESKIN & CIRCUMCISION

SOME STRAIGHT SKIN

I went to my favorite local source of recreation—a straight porn theatre—yesterday. When it isn't too crowded, it's a real playground. Yesterday was a feast: A tall, rangy cowboy, about 6'5", with a cock as big around as a silver dollar when it was soft, his foreskin was thick, sort of tough, and just begged to be nibbled, chewed, and sucked. When it got hard, it didn't get much bigger around, but it did stretch out to a full-length 9" beauty with a completely covered head.

I sucked on this Texas-size meat for a full 30 minutes. When the cowboy unloaded his balls, he let me know that he had just experienced the blow job of his life.

My next treat was dressed in a suit and had a crew cut! He stood up and dropped his slacks down to his boot tops and opened his shirt, exposing his chest. He stretched back in the theatre seat so I could get down between his legs and work over his uncut cock. As I licked from his hairy belly to his drooling cockhead, he rubbed my face and whispered, "I'm all yours, baby. Make it feel good." After about 15 minutes, he told me to get him off, because he had to meet his wife somewhere. I did.

My third uncut was next, a young blond dude with six inches of uncut cock and the softest, most lush foreskin I've had in a while. He was so hot it only took him about three minutes to get off—although he did come back about an hour later for a second sucking.

The next one had a nice, hard, cut cock—but a three-week load he had been carrying around.

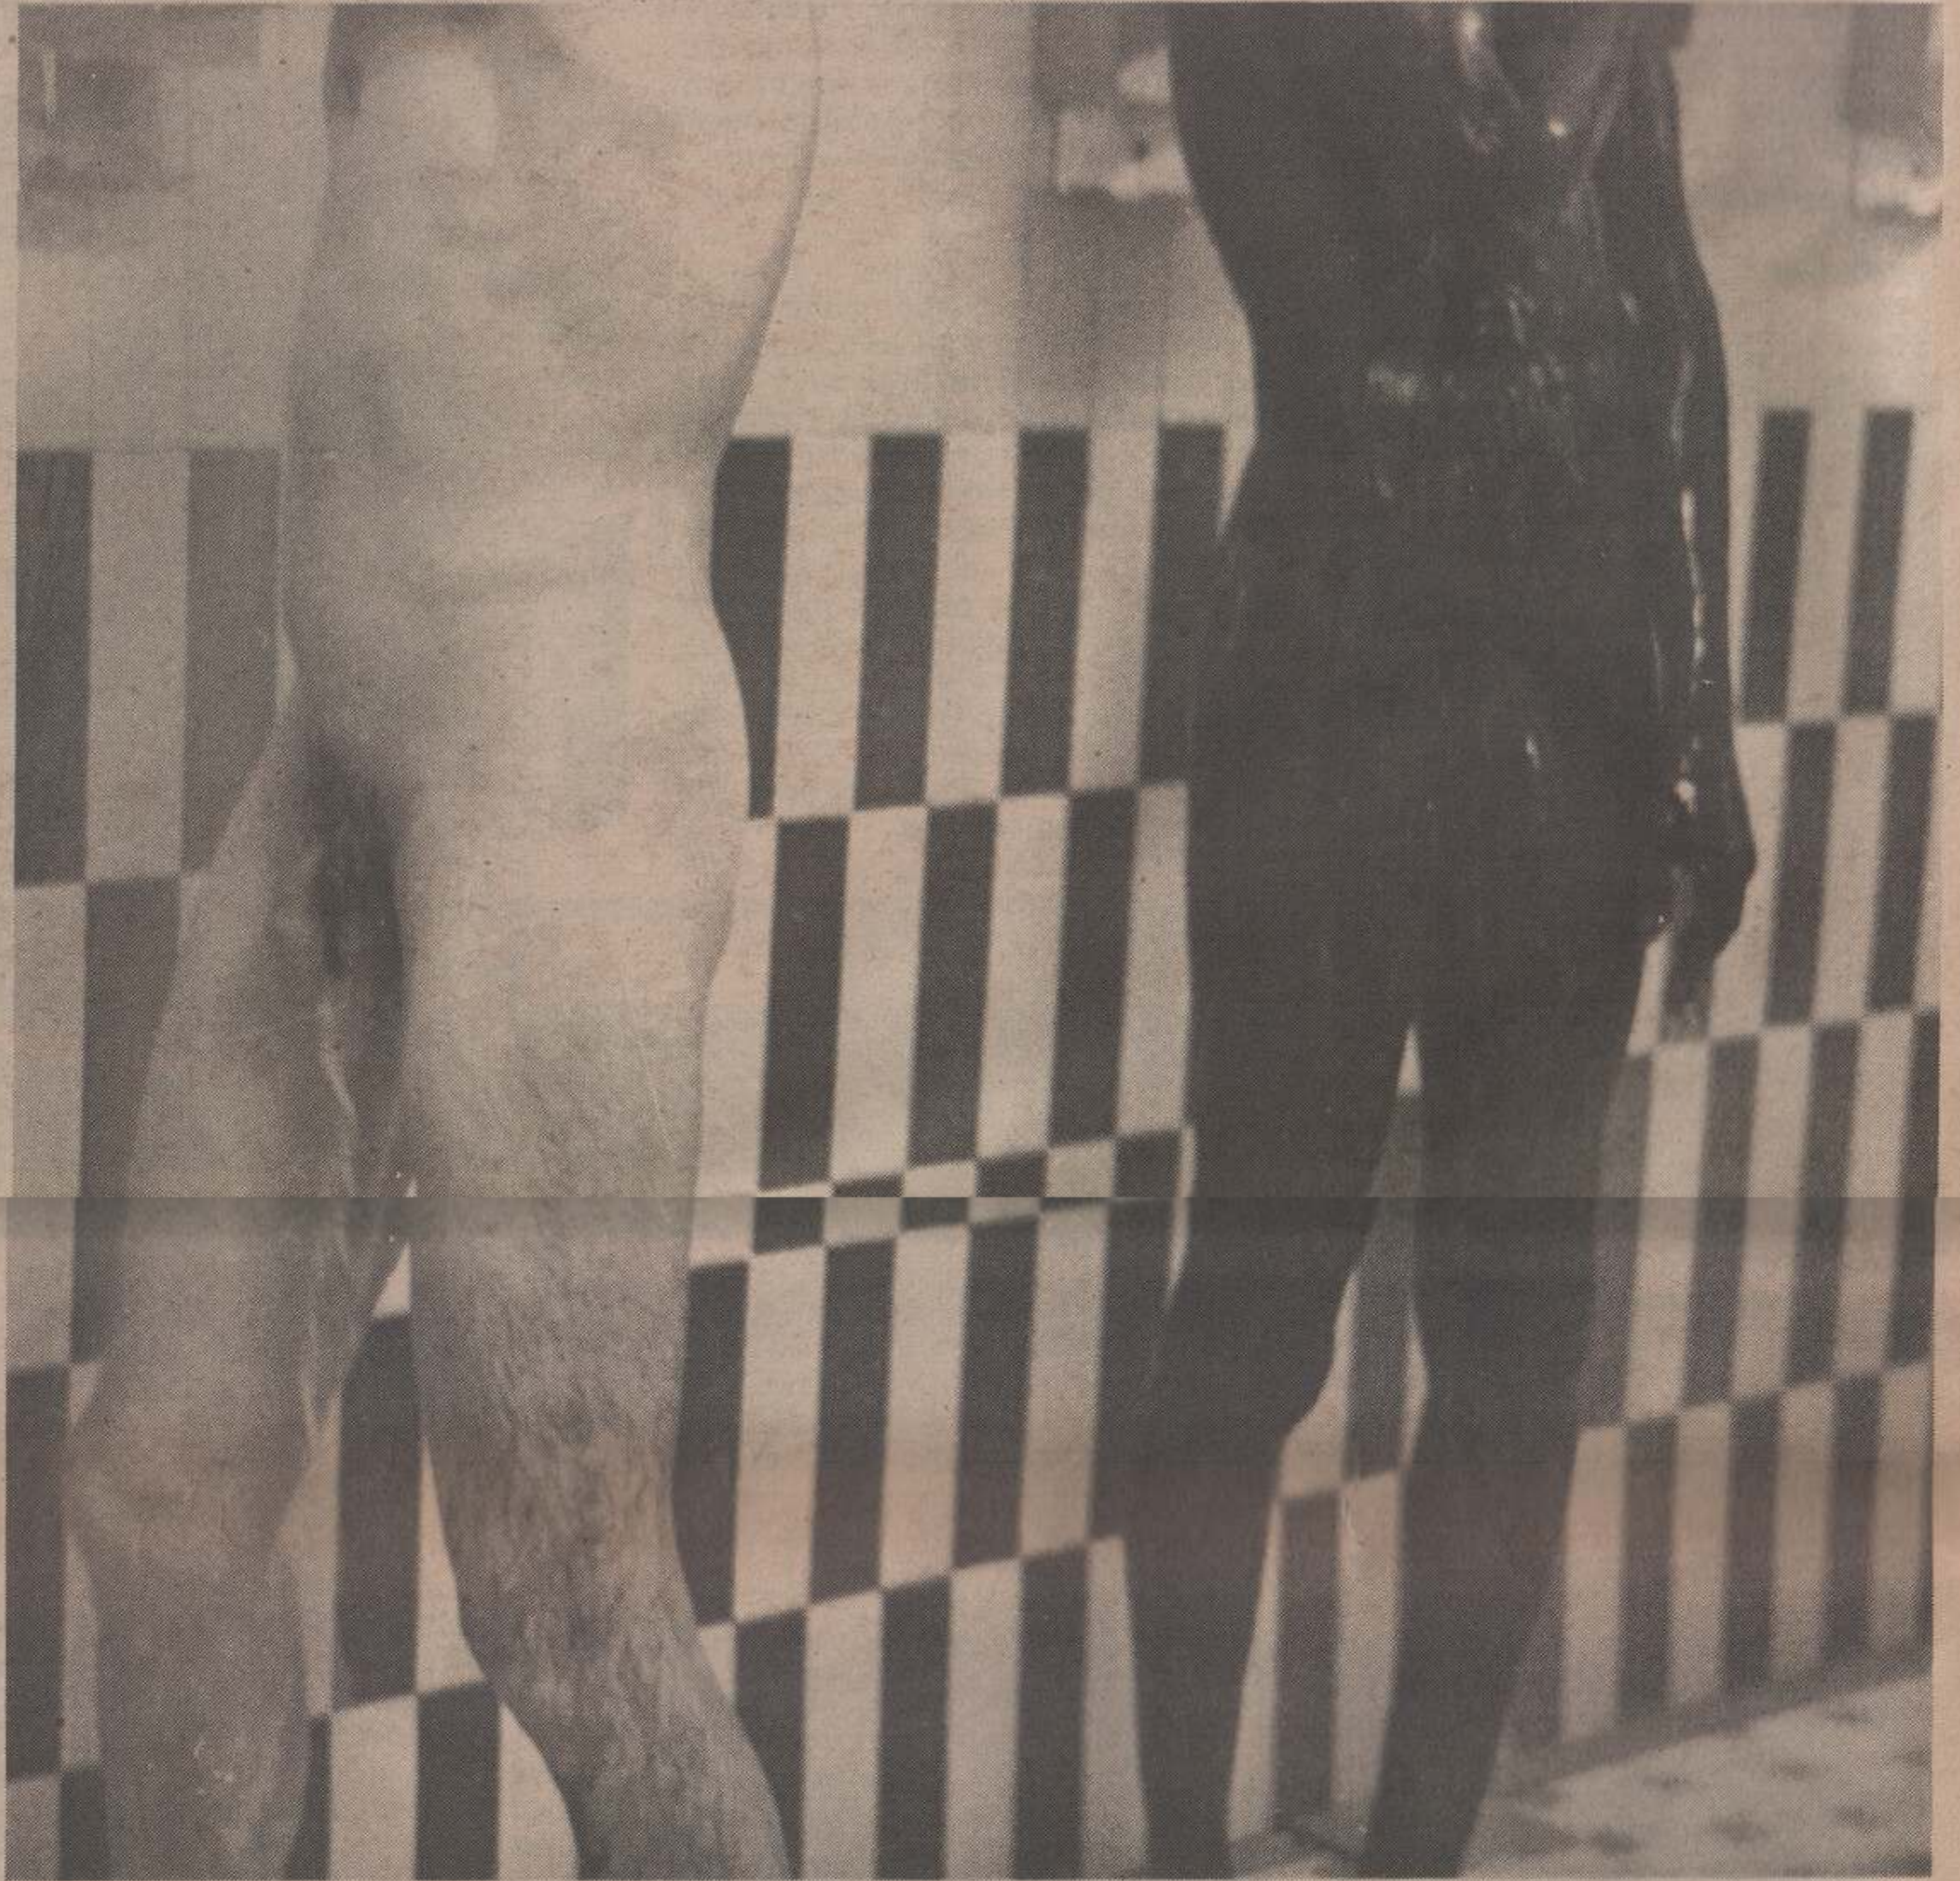

In the parking lot, when I was getting in my car to leave, I saw a guy just sitting in his company van. I made sure I pulled up next to him and started a conversation. He asked me how the movies were—and I told him there was probably more activity in the parking lot than there was inside the movie theatre. He said, "Not so far." He invited me to come and sit in his van, which I did. He already had his cock out and what a cock! A very fat, seven-inch uncut beauty with a big drop of fluid in its slit just begging to be kissed. For a good half-hour I knelt between his thighs and sucked and nibbled, and chewed, and worked on that fat rod while he just sat there and watched the cars come in and go out of the parking lot. Finally, his balls jumped up and slapped my chin and he unloaded a thick, sweet load.

He said his name was Weldon and assured me he felt "well done."

SHOCKED THE LOCALS

I was on vacation in Israel this past November and met several gay Israelis. As you know, for religious reasons, they are all cut.

I was in Jerusalem when I met a local Israeli who had never traveled outside his country, nor did he have much gay sexual experience. We went to my hotel (he lived with his parents) and had some Israeli wine. When we got undressed and got in bed, he was amazed to see my foreskin.

We had spent the afternoon drinking, and were already into some heavy necking. He went for my cock...you should have seen the look on his face. We lay in bed together, side by side, and he played with my foreskin like it was a toy...all afternoon. We ended up balling for most of the evening, and I'm sure it was my uncut cock that made it all so interesting for him.

I'm sure that if most guys had a choice, they would not want to be cut.

S-T-R-E-T-C-H

Discovery Number One: Skin yourself and lay a tablespoon inverted over the head, then pull the skin forward over it. It stays in place. If it doesn't, use a bigger spoon. It spreads the skin, but the spoon also acts as a weight. Further stretching can be obtained by rolling the underneath skin forward with your fingertips and then taping it forward on the handle of the spoon.

Discovery Number Two: Strips of surgical sponge, soaked and then dried between blotters held down under weights dries flat and small. Once placed under the foreskin, water can be introduced (got a turkey baster?) causing the sponge to refill and swell.

A Portable BB Shot Foreskin

Weight: Take a plastic vial from your contact lens enzymekit. Fill it with metal pellets from your pellet gun (never use actual BB's because of the noise factor). Tape a small amount of cotton for complete compactness. Place filled vial over the tip of your head (your cockhead), pointing slightly up. Roll foreskin forward over the vial, completing the operation by rolling (with the fingertips) the underneath skin outward to its fullest length, which will retain the vial in position. The combination of the weight and the force of gravity will take a lot of the pucker out of the end of the foreskin—if the kind of foreskin you really want is the smooth, long kind.

Footnote 17: The inverted stuffing spoon trapped under the foreskin—will the edge of the spoon cut or cause damage? Hey! We're talking sterling here, not cheap nickle alloy!

Footnote to "The Portable BB": For the purposes of urination, masturbation, or a blow job—the vial is easily removed and replaced. A significant factor in relieving the anxiety of this, our security blanket.

Or: One can go to an antique shop and purchase a small (or big) round weight formerly used on balancing scales in grocery stores. Tape it to the vial before putting it in place. Now we're talking swinging!

INTERNATIONAL SKIN

Last summer I joined the crew of a rich man's yacht. Besides myself, there was a German, an Argentine, and two English crew members. All were uncut except, of course, for me. The boss was really into women. I mean, really voluptuous babes all over the boat. We crew members didn't dare approach them. So, in our cabins at night, by ourselves, we started getting into jack-off sessions. At first we talked about the women on the ship, but later we got into cock talk. I was fascinated watching these uncut men masturbate. They, in turn, became fascinated by my big, fat, cut peter and how I handled it while jacking off.

One night they all pushed their foreskins back and masturbated as if they were circumcised. They got bored with it and returned to pumping their skins, all except one of the Englishmen. He went wild jacking off this new way and shot all over the cabin. He said, "As usual, you Americans know how to do things best."

"Oh yeah? Well, I'd trade dicks with you anyday," I replied.

SAILOR SKIN

My gay neighbor friend in my apartment building and I were having a drink in a local straight bar one night when a young sailor got friendly with us. He was getting drunk and was obviously having trouble holding his booze. The bartender was worried about him and, when we got up to leave, said to me, "Why don't you take the guy home and let him sleep it off on your couch?"

I agreed, but on the way home the sailor got sick and threw up all over his uniform. When we got to my apartment we stripped him and threw his clothes in the washer. He passed out on the sofa, stark naked. Between his legs hung about 6 inches of US Navy Prime with at least 1½ inches of luxurious foreskin overhang.

My neighbor made the excuse that he didn't have his keys with him and would need to wait until his roommate came home. I figured, what the hell; I said he could wait it out in the livingroom and went off to bed. A little while later I heard the front door open and got up to see that everything was okay. My neighbor was leaving, and the sailor's foreskin had been pushed back, revealing a head covered with smegma. I laughed and asked my neighbor, "What's wrong, can't you handle cheese?"

He said, "What's wrong with the guy? He has that white stuff all over his cock!"

I shooed him out the door and said I'd explain about it tomorrow. I went over to the sleeping sailor, placed my index finger on his naked glans, and then pushed his foreskin down over both my finger and his cockhead. Then, I ran my finger around inside, scooping up the smegma, carefully pulled my finger out, and went to bed with a scoopful of rare American cheese.

We took turns rolling his bone for a good two hours or more and I swear he cracked his nuts at least 10 times. He came back after that so we could experiment on him some more.

P.O.W SKIN

I was just a kid during World War II. We lived in a small Southern town and on the outskirts there was a huge Army installation. My parents told me to stay away from it.

My buddy and I were curious and got braver by the day, until finally we climbed through some barbed wire and hid in some bushes near a wooden fence. We peeped through holes in the fence and saw some strange-looking men sitting around. Two of them got up and walked toward us and we could hear them talking as they got closer. We couldn't understand anything they were saying.

"Germans!" my buddy whispered, and he ran away.

I stayed and kept looking through the hole. Right on the other side of the fence from me were these two tall, handsome men. They both pulled out their cocks and began pissing. I couldn't believe my eyes!

Piss was coming out from these strange looking cocks. Loose skin was hanging where they should have had round heads like mine and my buddy's dick.

I ran home and studied my dick in the mirror in my room. Then I decided if these men were Germans then they must have different looking dicks than Americans. My buddy said he wouldn't go back there. These were POWs being stockcaded until the war was over.

I returned every day after school to watch them piss. This fence seemed to be their favorite place to piss. I had wondrous fantasies about these handsome men and their strange cocks. I lay on my bed at night and my little circumcised pecker stood straight up as I imagined each German sticking his cock through the fence, one at a time, for me to examine.

Then one day, while watching them piss, I saw one pull back his foreskin and realized that they had cock heads like mine under their skin.

The war ended, the Germans disappeared. But I noticed a new boy in school who had a dick just like theirs. I asked him if he would piss while I watched. He giggled and did it. What really confused me was that he was American and not German.

Nowadays I take every opportunity to watch an uncircumcised man piss and I still fantasize about inspecting uncircumcised penises up close. However, realize that I am not gay—and I don't know how to go about asking a man to let me examine his foreskin.

COLLEGE SKIN

Last September when I arrived at school I learned I had a new roommate. On the first day, when we settled in, he didn't realize I was lying on my bed reading a book when he walked out of the bathroom. He quickly covered himself with a towel. I laughed and told him he didn't have anything I hadn't seen before. "Well, I'm not so sure about that," he said.

Curious, I asked him what he was talking about.

"Well, you see, I've never been circumcised,"

I jumped up off the bed and yanked out my own uncut dick and showed it to him. Can you imagine this large midwest college managing to get what turned out to be the only two uncuts in our class in the same dorm room.

We laughed, he dropped his towel, and we compared foreskins. Retractions led to erections, erections led to rooting, and before we knew it we were on the beds rolling our skins up and down our poles. It was a real friendship. We began experimenting with our skins. We docked them, taped them together, and played tug-of-war with our cocks. I learned how to grab his overhang between my index finger and thumb and roll it back to turn it inside out. He really dug that!

Then he would lock my dick together in his flat-out palms and begin rolling my meat like crazy. Have you ever had your meat rolled? It's wild! My loose skin spun faster than the cock inside it and it was a fantastic sensation.

We really got into our experiments and decided to write a joint term paper titled "1000 Ways to Screw Around with Prepuce."

My roommate spotted another uncut jock on campus and we plotted to get him into our room. He was on the wrestling team so we figured he wouldn't be too adverse to close physical contact. He went to outrageous extremes to make sure that no one would see him come into our dorm. We got him naked quick. He was embarrassed and said he had never had sex with anyone before. I believed him. His dick stuck straight out stiff, right up against his belly. He was husky and his cock was short, but real fat, and had a good inch of overhang.

We started down our list of "things to do" on his dick and he just stood there, not saying much. When my roommate got around to "rolling" his meat, he yelled "Keep that up! Don't stop! Shit, man, where did you learn to do that?"

FARM SKIN

When I was a six-year old boy growing up on an isolated farm in Indiana I never paid much attention to the fact that I had a cock and thought about it only when I had to use it to take a piss. Now and then I noticed that it got quite a bit bigger, stiff and hard but I really didn't give it much attention. Soon it would get soft and I would simply tuck it back in my pants.

One day a cousin who was two years older than me came for a visit and we set about to explore all the corners of that farm which was as big as the world to us. We were out in the middle of a big field and we both had to take a leak the worst way. As we were finishing he asked me if I wanted to take a look at his dick and, being full of boyish curiosity, I told him I did. It was the first time I had ever seen another boy's cock and little did I realize that what was about to happen would have a profound effect on me for the rest of my life.

"I'll bet you can't do this," my cousin said as he took firm hold of his cock and slowly started pulling the skin back revealing the reddish, purple head that was hidden inside. I was simply dumbfounded. When he asked me to try it too, I was shocked, amazed, scared and curious all at the same time. "Just try it" urged my cousin, "skin it back like this." I didn't know whether mine would work the same way his did or not. It was like opening up part of my body and looking at the raw flesh inside. So, with a trembling and still innocent hand I started pulling back my own foreskin for the very first time. It worked—oh, how it worked! It feels so good as the skin rolled back that first time and I could not believe what was happening.

A whole new world was opening up for me. I was not able to pull back the skin all the way since a thin membrane of skin was attached between the corona and the shaft of my cock and it hurt when I pulled too hard against it. (It was not for several more years that the membrane finally gave way to my constant tugging on it, broke loose and I got my dick skinned back all the way. Another day of personal triumph and celebration!)

Over the next few weeks I couldn't wait to try pulling back the skin on my pecker again and again whenever I got the chance. I had never before played with my cock but I sure did make up for lost time. I soon found out that my cock would get stiff and hard whenever I played with it in this way. I would hold my cock with two fingers on the bottom and the thumb on top and pull the skin over the head of my hard member. And then quite suddenly one day I made another discovery entirely to myself. When I pulled the skin up and down rapidly several times in succession, I would get the most wonderful feeling all through my groin and abdomen and up and down my legs. I would go into a series of pleasant little jerks and spasms. It felt so good, I did it again and again just about every day.

Later, a friend told me that this was called jacking off and he showed me his own full-fist grip which he learned from his older brother. This allowed stimulation of the whole shaft as well as the head and the foreskin moved up and down covering and uncovering the head. Another great leap forward!

In just a few weeks I had gone from an innocent virginal lad to a dedicated jack off artist who also became a celebrated missionary among all the other boys in my class. In no time, I had then all jacking off and now we considered ourselves quite grown up little boys. And keep in mind, this was several years before any of us could shoot our loads.

A few years later I was taken to a county fair where the largest number people I had ever seen at one time had gathered to celebrate the harvest festivities. When I had to take a piss, I went to one of the men's rooms which was also well-populated with guys standing in line to get to the urinals. I found a place at the end of the urinal, one of those old-fashioned porcelain troughs which could accommodate eight or ten at one time—the kind of urinal one seldom encounters these days. Being small, I had to stand on my toes to direct my stream into the trough. And there, to my right, were more cocks than I could possibly imagine. A whole line of at least ten others all pissing merrily away into the growing yellow river flowing along the white porcelain. Big cocks, smaller ones, one or two that had been circumcised and then that big one on the guy standing next to me. He kept pulling his foreskin back and forth after he had finished pissing to squeeze out the last few drops. Quite a sight for me who had seen only a few cocks, one at a time, up until that county fair. I was absolutely enthralled by all this display and I think it made me a urinal voyeur for life!

In early high school I got to see a lot of cocks in the shower room after gym class when all the boys and the teacher took showers together. I had become interested in the tremendous variety of cocks, their sizes and different shapes. Some were short with the tip of the head peeking out at the end of the foreskin; some were long and loose. Only a few boys in our school had been circumcised.

I soon settled down to some daily mutual masturbation sessions with a buddy who had lost his foreskin. The first time he showed it to me I thought he had just skinned it back all the way, but I soon learned differently. It was the first time I had got to handle a cock that did not have a foreskin and this was yet another new experience for me. We played in a big barn after school where we built tunnels and secret rooms in the bales of hay stored there. We always ended up jacking each other off in one special room that only we knew about.

My buddy really enjoyed playing with my foreskin and I think he was trying to make up for not having one of his own. I was with him there to share with me the first time I finally got that thin membrane between the corona of my cock and the shaft to give way and I could pull my foreskin back all the way. And from then on, we celebrated with new jackoff techniques pulling the skin jackoff techniques pulling the skin all the way back with each stroke. On the other hand, we usually had difficulty getting my buddy to come since he had no foreskin to work with. This handicap bothered both of us a lot and we did a lot of experimenting with his circumcised pecker. We used lubricants, rubbed his cockhead, pulled the skin down tight and bumped what skin he had left up against the corona until he reached climax. We met almost daily all through high school and all in all we must have pumped out quite a few gallons of hot, young semen back in that old barn.

I still enjoy playing with my cock and having other guys play with it. Feeling the foreskin roll back slowly over the bulbous head is one of the greatest sensations a man can have and, if done by a caring friend, can be a real thrill. Although I have had many guys play with my cock and learn how to pull back the skin I always cherish those special sessions in the old hay barn. But I am still sorry that my buddy never got to experience the feel of his own foreskin sliding back over his throbbing cockhead. I think it is for that reason that I continue to search for ways to help my circumcised brothers find ways to enjoy masturbation and other kinds of sex even though they have lost one of nature's great gifts.

The innocent and durious little boy was left behind in that big field on the Indiana farm. Instead, another boy walked toward manhood out of that field. And that man, still with boyish glee continues to enjoy his foreskin, either pulling it back slowly in a teasing way or rapidly as in the final stroke of a great jack off session. Having a nice big cock with foreskin still intact is like having one's own special treasure within arm's reach right there in my pants.

The ACORN Society is very gratified with the response our articles have generated in the previous issues of FQ. We wish now to thank the FQ editors for giving us this opportunity to make our existence known because, as our mail suggests, there is a need for us in the lives of many men. As previous FQ readers know, we are a and a Gathering of the ACORNs is in the works. If your penis responds to any of the above message it is telling you it wants to join up with ACORN. Write to us at: ACORN, Box 542, 633 Post Street, San Francisco, CA 94109

Dear Acorn No 1:
The first and second columns

I hopefully will soon travel to get my initiation which I trust would include the SIRcumcision of someone who desires to uncover his acorn during the rites.

I have always enjoyed seeing the male organ. Most men I have seen (in gyms, men's rooms, and occasionally good friends) have already lost their foreskin, but once for SIRcumcision. I think about circumcision every time I get off. I have hesitated going to a doctor because to me circumcision is an erotic event and I must have male comaraderie with me while I watch my foreskin being cut off. What a great relief to hear about ACORN at last! One more thing, I read in Drummer a few months ago about a Foreskin Anonymous secret society whose members enjoy one or all of the following: A men whose penis was circumcised while he as a youth or adult and wants to share that experience; a man whose penis has not yet been circumcised, but he is erotically turned-on by the thought of having it circumcised; a man who is fascinated by the art and practice of circumcision; a man who enjoys erotic circumcision fantasies; a man who has talents as a circumciser and wishes to demonstrate them during an ACORN SIRcumcision; a man who desires to contribute his foreskin to a SIRcumcision; or, a man who idolizes the beauty of the all-American, clean-cut circumcised cock. Thanks to your responses, we now have a line-up of about an equal nubmer of SIRcumcisers and SIRcumcisees, which seems natural and normal, from ACORN in FQ were very interesting, and I have wanted to write to you and others who worship the big, proud, manly circumcised cock, in the hope that, despite the distance between California and Texas, you will consider me as a candidate for initiation into the ACORN society.

Unfortunately, I cannot offer myself for a SIRcumcision, because I was circumcised as an infant. But I am very turned on by the thought of watching or participating by assisting in one of the ACORN demonstrations.

In my case, I assume that the initiation would include my baring my manly ACORN for the other ACORNs to see, touch, feel and bring to erection. Of course, I would welcome this and other features of joining a secret group of males who are proud of their uncovered acorns.

in a while I have seen an uncut penis and am fascinated by the difference, and I would like to have the opportunity to talk to an uncircumcised man and discuss frankly the difference in our sensations during j/o and sex. Alas, I am not involved with the gay lifestyle and such discussions have not happened very often. I hope ACORN gives us the opportunity to talk about the male organ and all that goes with it.

I have a special fantasy that I make a special friend whose penis is uncircumcised. Then I watch him get SIRcumcised and stay with him for several months thereafter sharing with him the intimate changes his penis is making as it adjusts to being an acorn. That would be nice.

Dear ACORN,
I am submitting my penis to you

new circumcision procedure used by the Nazis on prisoners in which they cut the excess skin off the base of the penis instead of around the end of the foreskin. Then when I asked you for membership into ACORN, your packet included a diagram of a "reverse circumcision" instrument patented by a Japanese inventor. That is the type of circumcision I want done when we get together. My cock is very long and so is my foreskin. When I pull my skin back tight the inner lining of my foreskin stretches back flat at least half way up my shaft. I want it to stay there because with my sensitive inner lining pinned back my shaft is superhot. I am trying to obtain this new instrument and will bring it to the next Gathering of ACORNs so one of your SIRcumcisers can use it on me. Can't wait.

We're on your side, buddy.

FORESKIN TOUR of the WORLD

Foreskin watching, like bird watching, takes patience...especially in the United States. Indeed, some USA members can count on one hand all the foreskins they have ever seen. Yet to spot that rare American prepuce can be an unforgettable experience. But, with the strong U.S. dollar, why deprive yourself? Why not travel to those distant sands this summer where every man still has his foreskin dangling and is willing to show it off?

Foreskin watching, at some choice destinations, can become an absolute orgy. At a single "stakeout" you might spot over a hundred intact sex-skins in one day! Where? Well, we checked the travel brochures for nude beaches, checked the gay guides for the accessibility of the local males, and considered the practice of circumcision and non-circumcision in certain countries and have come up with the following itinerary for the prudent foreskin-watcher. So, grab your binoculars and your log book (to record your foreskin sightings) and off we go!

Yugoslavia is destination number one. Despite its communist government and its part-Moslem history, Yugoslavia is a foreskin heaven and they are very visible! Yugoslavia leads the world in the nudist travel business, officially sanctioning large stretches of Dalmatian Coast beach areas as "clothing optional" as early as 1960. Today, the area has become "one great nude beach" according to the tourist director of Slovenia province.

So, let's start our foreskin odyssey! We find ourselves in Croatia, the Yugoslavian province on the northern Dalmatian Coast. Homosexuality is legal over 18 years of age here and, according to the Spartacus Gay Guide, is becoming "the best gay resort area" in this corner of Europe. Most important, the region has 2,400 hours of sunshine a year, among the highest rates in Europe, and foreskin from Germany, Scandinavia, Italy, Eastern Europe, as well as from other Yugoslavian provinces, flock to its nudist beaches in an unbelievable display of manskin.

We go next to the Istria Peninsula, just across the border from the Italian city of Trieste. Here we find the small fishing village of Porec, which explodes with sunbathing Europeans during the summer months. Strolling from the Hotel Delfin we walk for twenty minutes up to the official nude beach, entering our foreskin "sightings" in our logs as we dig our way through the rows of foreskin baking in the sun, until we reach a grassy clearing and in the nearby bushes find additional foreskins waiting to be sampled. A gay nudist beach!

The Istrian Peninsula is studded with nudist beaches and as we travel south we enjoy many successful "stakeouts" before reaching the southernmost city, Pula. No rest in Pula...there's lots of available skin here, too.

Short ferry rides now take us to the nudist islands in Kvarner Bay, where we head right for Rab Island and the town of Rab-grad. Taking another ferry from town we reach its official nude beach and once again we find ourselves digging our paths through tons of straight foreskin until we reach (in about 20 minutes) a beach which Spartacus says is "an all-gay paradise." Don't forget your log book!

After Rab-grad we travel down the Dalmatian Coast, leaving the sexy Croats behind us and, taking every opportunity for more "stakeouts", we find ourselves in Dubrovnik. No trip to Yugoslavia should bypass this ancient city, which remains today as it was at the end of the fifteenth century. After a tour of the city's most ancient treasures we travel to nearby Lokum Island (the Island of Love) to sample modern treasures at its nude beach. Once again, counting straight foreskins along the way, we come to the far end of the beach and what do you know...another gay beach! The modern Yugoslav, historically orientated towards Eastern cultures, is very comfortable with bisexuality. But he will probably be surprised at your fascination with his foreskin. Foreskins are simply taken for granted here (although they certainly had their problems keeping them during the Turkish invasions). These men are shy, easy going, and can be extremely handsome. They we say goodbye to Yugoslavia.

Hungary is next. Can you believe

Budapest? Did you ever think you would have the privilege of counting the foreskins on Magyar men...the ancient race of blonde warriors? Well, the fun-loving Hungarians are currently enjoying a resurgence of their high-styled night life, with their communist government looking on benevolently. After checking out a couple night spots, we head fro Palatinus Strand, a huge complex of swimming pools, gardens, hot springs, and nude sunbathing (on the roof). Homosexuality is legal over the age of 20, but we need practice discretion. We are behind the Iron Curtain, after all. We stay at Hotel Gellert (gay-friendly) and spend a few hours on its roof, too, counting Hungarian skin...and head for freer fields!

Germany! Volumptous German foreskins have long been a target for prepuce-hungry Americans. The Germans are the world's foremost nudists. We will count German foreskins on every nude beach from the Baltic Sea to the Indian Ocean. It all started in 1904 when German author Richard Ungewitter wrote the book Die Nacktheit (Nakedness). The book nurtured an organized movement for social nudity worldwide. Banned by the Nazis, the book and its author resurfaced in the late 40s and German foreskins have been waving in the breeze ever since, in both West as well as East Germany.

We are in West Germany, where homosexuality is legal over 18 years of age and the gay community is now enjoying a freedom previously unknown here. Even male prostitution is legal. Every large German city is loaded with gay bathhouses, bars, cafes, etc; but we must proceed with our foreskin count!

The most surprising "stakeout" we find is in the heart of West Berlin, in Grunewald. It is in a forrested area in this large and crowded city and on the shores of its own lake, Grundwaldsee. On the opposite side from an historic hunting castle we can get our eyes full, but not much more. No public sex, please.

In Munich there are nude-zoned areas in its huge city park, The Englischer Garten. Yes, it translates to The English Garden.

But we head for the nudist heartland—the north German coast!

For pure, raw-boned, nature-loving foreskin hunting there is nothing like the myriad of German FFKs (official "clothing optional" areas) on the Frisian Islands and along the North Sea coast. German, Scandanivan, Dutch, and other European foreskins in their natural element...chilly! Yes, be prepared for some chilly "stakeouts" at such places as Borkum, Helgoland, Pellworm Island, Amrum Island, Gammeldamm near the city Geltring, beaches around Kiel Bay and Lubeck bay...all well worth the shivers!

So, before leaving Germany, we take our log books inland to a few gay beaches. One is Puplicer on the river Isar, near the town of Wolfratshusen. Another, billed as a "wild and good place" by Spartacus, is Baggersee Kirchentellinsfurt near the town of Tübingen. And then we head for warmer sands.

The Canary Islands. Maspalomas Beach...a huge sand dune area near the city of Las Palmas is one of the most active gay nude beaches in the world, complete with a full range of international foreskins to be counted and logged. And sampled. Spanish law prevails on these islands off the West African coast and Spain is currently undergoing a sexual "liberation" which includes a newfound tolerance for gays. The natives, descendants of the Moors, are beautiful but with a mixed tradition of Catholicism and Islam; we might not find foreskin on every Islander penis. Nonetheless, our fellow vacationers will be Spanish, English, Brazilian, German (of course), etc. Maspalomas is hot, rugged, but easy to get to...just bring lunch. And don't forget your log book!

Before the leave the African area, we have some optional excursions. For an exotic and surprising adventure we could go to Tunisia. Tunisia? Yes, this mildest of Arabian nations contains Jerba Island. Jerba has been a prime vacation spot for centuries, lying on the crossroads of civilizations and, believe it or not, it has a nude beach. You won't see many Arabs naked (they wouldn't have foreskins, anyway), but they will see you! If you happen to be uncut, you will find your foreskin the target of attention. Arab men, almost universally bisexual and very promiscuous, are fascinated by uncut penises. You could even be asked to demonstrate your jack-off methods to some sultry-eyed, incredibly handsome tribesman. Of course, let him make all the advances and suggestions. His megamacho background demands that he, not you, institute sex play. You, after all, are just his conquest...so enjoy it! However, you'll find plenty of foreskin on the beach among the other international visitors, so keep your log book with you.

Another option...an African Safari by 4-wheel drive vehicle. We could head for open bush country where we encounter tribesmen who very often greet us totally naked. And this is our opportunity to count some magnificent, long, black foreskins. Some tribes will expect us to take our clothes off, too. After all, we are their guests. We could encounter both circumcised and uncircumcised tribes. We could also encounter a local circumcision, so watch out! This is no place to suddenly become hospitalized should you decide to partake of this custom. Maybe we should head to safer sands!

Thailand, "A gay and tourist paradise" according to Spartacus. Thai men are some of the most delicately handsome in Asia, extremely free and open with their sexuality, and they all have foreskin. Homosexuality is not illegal here because the Thais simply don't think in "gay" or "straight" terms. It's all just sex. And if you can tear yourself away from the golden temples and pretty boys of Bangkok, we will head for Thailand's two nudist beaches.

Kata Beach is near the old Portuguese trading port of Phuket where we find young hippie-type Dutchmen, Englishmen, etc., swinging their foreskins through the palms. Then we head for Samui Beach, on the Indian Ocean. Exotic is the word for Samui; a place to go for "clothing optional sunshine, surf, and cosmopolitan quiet." Ahh! We finally relax under the swaying palm trees and open our logs and add up the foreskins we have counted and dream the time away.

And, if you're not satisfied with your foreskin count, and want to go off on your own, here is a list of foreskin habitats around the world: all of Europe (except for areas of the Balkans and the British upper class), Quebec, Puerto Rico and the entire Caribbean, all of Latin America, some Pacific Islands (some, however, practice ancient forms of circumcision, and others, like Hawaii, fell under the hand of circumcising missionaries), all of Asia except for The Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia, Bangladesh and Pakistan. There are also foreskins in modern Black African nations with Catholic background (we already know the diversity of native tribes from our tour). In the Middle East you will find foreskins only on the Christian minorities of Syria and Lebanon. Few, it's true, but on such superb-looking men that we must not count them out! Of course, you need to make the acquaintance of such specimens in places other than their homelands, at present.

And where will you find me? On the Isle of Bali (the only non-Moslem, uncircumcised part of Indonesia). I shall be on Legian Beach, near the town of Kuta, where (according to the Nude Guide), "As you lounge beneath the trees, natives will offer you fruits, sarongs, drinks and, if you wish, even a coconut-oil massage." See you later, men!

MALE INFIBULATION

by Bud Berkeley

The classical Romans all had foreskins; senators, soldiers, gladiators and slaves. Foreskin was a mandatory adornment at the baths, in the games, and in the bedroom. In fact, the Roman looked upon a penis without a foreskin as something atrocious to behold; circumcision was something to stamp out in those regions of the Roman Empire in which it was practiced. But, besides admiring the beauty of the uncircumcised penis, they had a very practical use for the foreskin. They infibulated it.

Infibulation, according to the Oxford Dictionary, means, "The fastening up of the sexual organs with a fibula or clasp." Webster's Dictionary says, "The attachment of a ring, buckle, or the like, to the organs of generation so as to prevent copulation." The earliest reference to infibulation in English may be in Bulwar's Anthropometamorphosis (1650, pg 202) where it says the art of infibulation is "buttoning up the prepuce with a Brasse or silver button." However, it is in the work of A.C. Celsus (De Medicina, 1478; published in Florence) that we actually find a description of infibulation as a procedure:

"First of all the prepuce is drawn forward and marks are made on either side of it in such a way that, when it is released, these marks do not return over the glans. If this is tested and it is found that the marks are free from the glans (being on the overhang instead) then these will be the places where the fibula will be applied. After the prepuce is marked in the right places, holes are drilled with a needle and thread (much like ear piercing), and the two loose ends being tied together and run through the holes daily until these are healed, leaving only two little orifices on either side. The thread is finally removed and the fibula or clasp is attached, which should be light in character."

Why did anyone want to infibulate a penis? Well, let's start with the early Romans. Say they you were powerful senator, or maybe even his wife, daughter or son. You were watching the games, and two hunky gladiators were straining their powerful bodies in physical combat for your entertainment, when you happened to set your gaze on a particular handsome brute whose genitals were in full view as he grunted and groaned. You just couldn't get your eyes off that solid sack of balls and that imposing cock. Your magnificent gladiator is the victor; everyone cheers as he and his naked manhood stands triumphant in perspiration and victory. You've got to have him! You find out who owns him, make your purchase, and then send him to your favorite physician to have his foreskin champed shut. Why? Because you are always busy in the senate, or you already have many, many slaves, or you're not yet tired of your wife; you want to save your gladiator for later, and you want to make sure that no one else gets to sample his favors. So, to make sure that you and only you have access to his virility, you make it impossible for him to fuck; he even has difficulty getting a hardon. And anyone who has a foreskin knows what happens when your foreskin is tied shut and you start getting hard.

Early archeologists discovered that the people of Attica "infibulated" their penises by tying up their prepuces with a band of ribbon, as represented on many of the ancient Greek vases we see in museums. However, as E.J. Dingwall pointed out in his book, Male Infibulation (1925), the word was wrongly appropriated here, as the Greek custom was not meant to inhibit fornication, as was the Roman custom. The Greeks, like the Romans, couldn't stand the sight of a naked penis glans in public. So, in their gyms and at their games, they simply tied their overhangs with a ribbon to insure that their audiences would never be offended by the sight of their cockheads. This practice was called Kynodesme (from kuon - prepuce and desmon - band for fastening).

Another reason for "infibulation" comes to light in the early Epigrams of Martial in which he writes of a young male slave and his mistress and the latter is asked how it is that her servant is accustomed to wearing a bronze sheath (theca) when he is bathing. It is asked whether it is that she does not wish other bathers to see his member. In order to avoid jealousy, the woman is advised to have his sheath taken off, whereupon it became clear that the fibula was worn to conceal the young slave's circumcised penis. Several nations which fell into the Roman orbit practiced male circumcision (including both Israel and Phoenicia) and, while slaves were valued from these parts (some of whom became athletes and even free citizens), the Romans just couldn't accept their circumcised cocks. The earliest forms of foreskin restoration were practiced on these would-be Romans, as described by Celsus.

A particularly cruel form of infibulation was used on other slaves whose sexual favors were not particularly desired by their masters. Galley slaves were sometimes infibulated with large rings which were permanent, and they were secured at their position on the galley by a rope strung through the ring and the rings of other slaves. Captives of war were sometimes thusly infibulated and led through the victor's streets pulled by a rope through the ring. Today's museums are full of Roman statues and paintings depicting such a fate, suffered by many who dared to oppose the Roman legions.

Male infibulation continued to be practiced in Rome long after the fall of the Empire, as described in A.C. Celsus' work, published in 1478. It not only remained a useful practice, but it became quite fashionable for certain types of men. The reason for the operation at this time, according to Celsus, was that "it had an effect on the voice and on the state of health." Celsus gives no indication whatsoever just how the voice is thus affected, but it assumed that performing infibulation on pre-puberty boys was thought to slow their sexual development and preserve their soprano voices for the Church. It is supposed such sexual "castration" was considered healthy in a society in which celibacy was sanctified. For that very reason comic actors and "cithara" players began to wear the fibula during these times, for such a gadget on their penis was a symbol of their "purity." Of course, in reality, Celsus admits that such an actor wearing a fibula may be more able to sell his sexual favors. The love of the "virgin" penis remained a Roman preoccupation from the days of the gladiators to the days of the troubadours.

Thus far in our history of the classical foreskin, we have uncovered four reasons for infibulation:

(1) The preserving of the voice. This is mentioned by such classical writers as Martial, Juvenal, and Celsus.

(2) For the purpose of preventing copulation. In this connection we meet with the idea that carnal intercourse was considered harmful to the voice.

(3) For the purpose of concealment, as mentioned in Martial's Epi-grams VII and XI.

(4) For the purpose of enhancing the sexual attractiveness of the wearer (indicating the presence of a virgin penis). This is mentioned by both Martial and Juvenal.

In later Europe, the account of infibulation left by Pierre Dionis (Cours d'op de Clair, Paris, 1714) illustrates how the original meaning of the practice began to denigrate as Dionis describes how the operation should be performed and then, "Speaking of its practical value, this buckling up of young men so preserved their generative power that they may become healthy and prolific parents of a race of children destined to be of service to the Republic." Following this degeneration, we find E.J. Dingwall (1925); "It may be convenient if we discuss the question of male infibulation as a means of checking masturbation. There is no doubt that the practice, often self-inflicted, of tying up or constricting the penis, as a means of checking seminal emissions and preventing masturbation, has been known for many centuries; and there is considerable medical literature on the subject and on the harmful consequences that ensue."

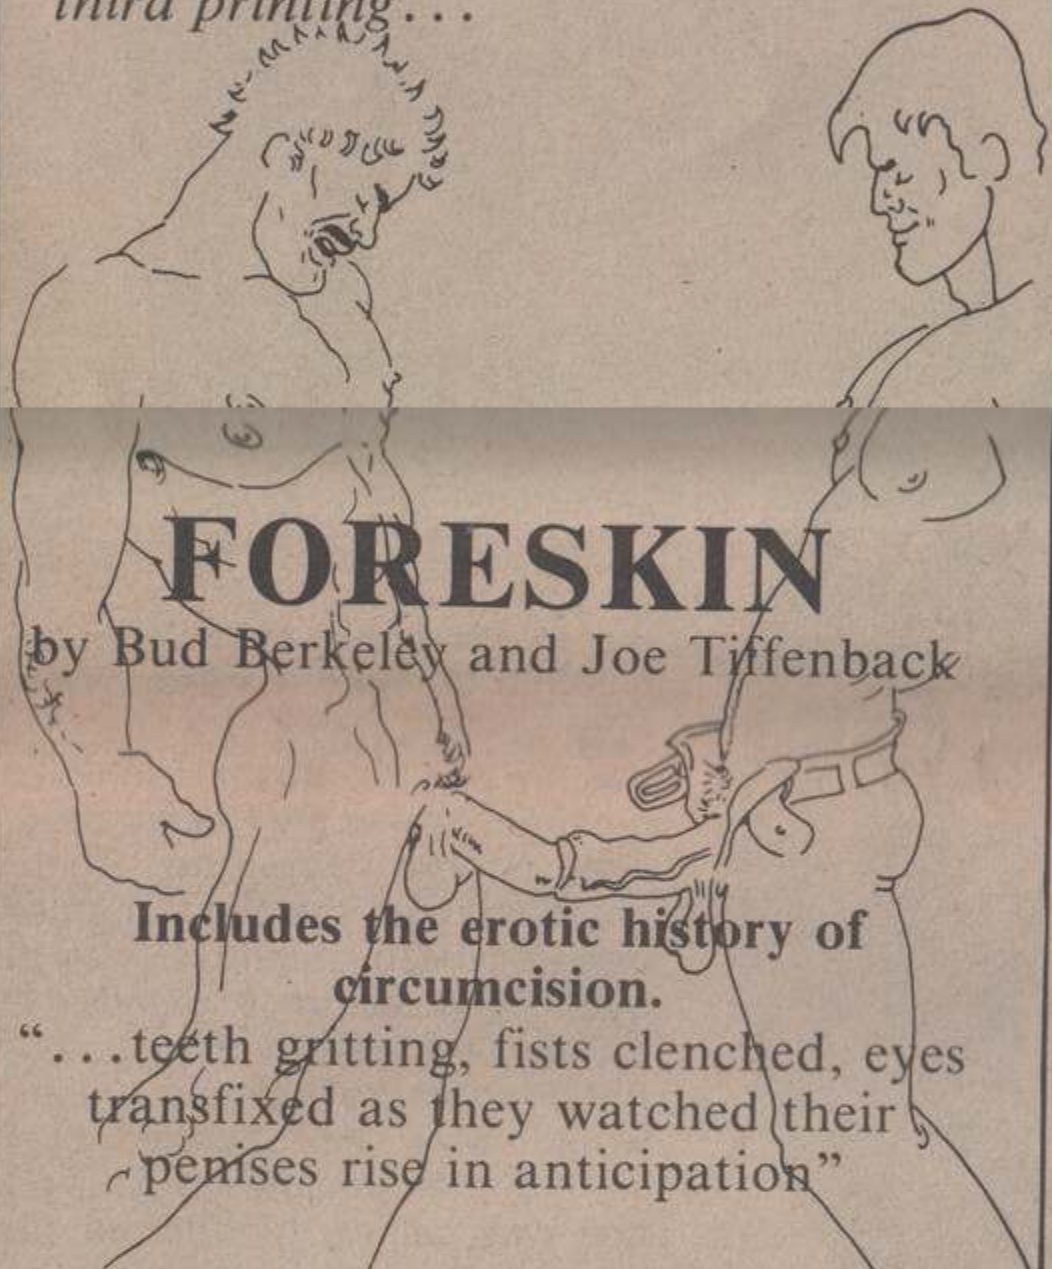

Quoting from the medical literature to which Dingwall refers (S.G. Vogel; Stendal, 1786), "All these means are sometimes not sufficient to damp the devilish fire of passion, which, when it bursts forth in full fury so inflames the natural instinct as to lead direct to masturbation. All warnings, all vivid stories of death, the devil and eternal damnation are the devil and eternal damnation are lost upon the soul of such a slave of lust, just as a drop of water upon a glowing coal. How shall we meet this unspeakable misery? There is one way which I indeed do not know from personal experience, but which witnesses declare to meet with the desired results, and which I advise urgently in doubtful cases. This method is infibulation."

The final distortion of truth about the prepuce once so admired by the infibulating Romans came when the British medical establishment decided nothing would stop masturbation, not even a ring through a teenager's foreskin, except (you guessed it!) circumcision. The blow came when the president of the Royal College of Surgeons, Dr. James Hutchinson, wrote the paper, "On Circumcision as Preventative of Masturbation" (1891) which led to routine infant circumcision in Britain and eventually to the maternity wards of 20th century America.

Today, for those men who still have their "virgin" penises (complete with foreskin), infibulation can become a fascinating hobby, as many USA members can attest. Replicas of elaborate Roman fibulas, infibulation needles, etc., can be found. While this article does not mean to promote such activity, and it certainly warns of self-infibulation without medical advise, it does point out one more use for the wonderful foreskin. And, rings or not, it also points out that the infibulators (and circumcisors) were right: there is nothing like a healthy, loose, uninfibulated foreskin with which to enjoy "the devilish fire of passion."

GERHARD POHL has long been known as a purveyor of the most masculine images in male nude photography in Europe. And in the last few years his striking men have graced the covers of a number of American magazines and periodicals. Based in Hamburg, Gerhard travels all over West Germany and the rest of Europe capturing a variety of men on film. But it is his native subjects that bring the most response. Here's a look at a few reasons why.

THE TRUCK STOP JOURNALS

by Michael Endicott-Ross

Rose's Texas Cafe is in Arizona, along the side of a highway, near a state-operated rest area. The cruising in the rest area has never been good; too many midwest families with two parents, two kids and two dogs stopping to refill the thermos, empty the canines' bladders, run around between the rocks playing a quick game of tag, and checking the tires. But Rose's Texas Cafe and its separate toilet out back, built like a small brick shed, is a cocksucker's paradise.

As far as anyone around here can remember, there has never been a Rose, just the Mexican family that runs the cafe: a father, two sons, a daughter, and a wife named Yolanda that stays home in Costa Mesa.

I always stop in the Cafe for a cup of coffee before checking out the toilet; it's like paying a small admission fee to visit an amusement park.

These are entries from my journal, meticulously maintained one summer, each day's affairs noted afterward, in the quiet reflection of my hotel room some twenty miles away.

June 12th/Saturday

You'd think there would be a lot of traffic on a Saturday morning, but the first four hours (8am-noon) passed very, very slowly. Only one trucker (not worth noting) and almost Eduardo, the older son. He came in and pissed in the trough, and checked me out sitting in the middle stall—but he didn't show his meat or linger long enough for me to give him any sign that I was interested. I've wanted that Mex meat ever since I first saw him in the Cafe three summers ago. But nary a taste. At this point, I'd be happy just to see his dick. But I've never been in the end stall next to the trough to peek through the pencil-sized hole when he was there. If he ever took a dump, at least I'd have a fair shot at seeing his dick from the equipment-sized holes on either wall of this, my favorite booth. But not once.

I've tried to imagine what his hose looked like from hearing him piss. It's a loud, hard-hitting, steady stream. Is his cockhead covered with dark skin, to match the rest of him? Does he pull it all the way back, or just half-way, to let his bladder go? It was something to think about for the first four uneventful hours; that and wondering if I was going to get hemorrhoids again this summer from hanging my butt in this toilet for so long each day.

This summer I had a goal: 100 cocks in 30 days. That breaks down to 3 and 1/30th cocks a day—give or take a 30th. But I'm figuring it will even out to a clean 100.

And the game rule (I always make a rule about these things) is that if I hit 100 cocks before the 30 days are up, I'll call it quits. A winner. If I don't make the goal, I'll not stay one hour past my self-imposed limit. I'll admit I've failed. (Only to myself; not that I'd admit anything to anyone, under any conditions, ever).

The trucker was the morning tidbit: a thin wrangler in a plaid shirt and jeans and boots (just what you'd expect) but not nearly tall enough to qualify as a wet-dream trucker and not nearly hung enough to really remember, and cut, and fairly quick to come. But that's my experience with truckers, for the most part. It must have something to do with the vibration of the engines on the trucker's balls all day—truckers come faster than anyone else I know.

The afternoon had a better catch: six. But only two were memorable and worth committing to my journal.

The first was fairly soon after I came back from a hamburger at the Cafe, around 1 or 1:30. I think he may have been in the Cafe, but I make it a habit (or Rule Number 2) never to try to seduce someone out of the Cafe. Anyway, I was in my usual middle booth and he came in, walked past me, checked me out (I had my jeans down just past my kneecaps), and went into the next stall. I turned to look through the glory hole and watched him slowly unzip his jeans, unbuckle his belt, pull his waistband down over his hips, pull his BVDs down to meet his pants, and saw his cock bounce out: nice, long (about 6" and swelling), thick, and sporting a full head of skin that ended in a nice, loose rosette. He just stood there and it started rising up and out, swelled to about 7 or 8 inches, but didn't get any fatter. It was almost perpendicular when I heard this low voice say, "Want some?"

I grunted a in the affirmative and he turned around and walked into my stall. What I hadn't seen was his balls, which hung down so low they looked to be almost as long as his cock, nice round orbs in a thin-skin bag. He walked right up and aimed for my mouth, which I opened quickly—swallowing about three-fourths of him in the first gulp. I heard this long, low groan and I knew I had hit just the right nerves with the back of my throat.

I eased up to get a taste of his cockhead. He must have thought I wanted to relax my throat, because he pulled out a little—which was fine, I dug the tip of my tongue under his skin and rooted around for cheese (very little) and was glad to see that the skin hadn't pulled back over the head. It wasn't so tight that it wouldn't go back, either, because my tongue was causing it to retreat.

I went for the crotch: one long draw and I had him burried down my throat. Another moan from deep in the man's chest. I stayed impaled on it for a bit, working my throat muscles around the shaft, and listened to the quick intakes of breath coming from above. He knew he was getting a prime blow job and he was enjoying it.

He steadied himself by holding on to my shoulders with his hands (strong hands with tufts of hair on the back), then pulled about half-way out, then slipped back almost all the way in, waited a second, then went all the way, my lips crushed against his crotch hairs.

He must have figured he had a real fuck-hole of a mouth to work with, because he started a steady pace of pulling almost all the way out, nice and slow and steady, quickening up about every fourth stroke, then slowing down for a few strokes. I relaxed and went with it, matching each depth-plunge by opening my throat and letting him slide all the way in.

I reached up and held on to his thighs, then slipped my hands around and held on to his ass cheeks as he pumped my face. He had nice, round, hard, muscular, working cheeks with a fine coat of hairs. I would have gone for fingering the crack of his ass, but I was concentrating on his pistoning of my throat, not wanting to miss a single counterstroke.

Although he kept it up for a good three minutes, by this time his cock was swelling for the load and his pace increased. I gripped his ass tightly in my hands and began pulling him to me as he poured on the beat for the homestretch, pounding his cock in and out of my mouth in measured, deep strokes, his breathing now ragged and quick.

Then, it was all over. One slam of his crotch against my face, his cock jerking and pumping his come down my gullet, his ass muscles clinched like steel mellons. One long, deep, low sigh when his dick stopped shooting. A moment of complete silence as I relaxed my death-grip on his buttocks. He steadied himself, let go of my shoulders, and began to pull his cock out of my mouth. I watched it slide out, still nearly hard, until the come-coated skin-covered head was poised just outside my lips. I grabbed the shaft, turned the end up towards me, and washed off every trace of his load and my throat juices with my tongue.

"Whew! That sure was good!" His voice was friendly, deep, only a little jumpy (these straight guys don't always know exactly what to say to a cocksucker after the fact, and thank you sounds so... queer).

"Yeah," I cleared my throat, "I sure enjoyed it." I tried to sound as good-old-boy as I could. "Well, maybe we'll run into each other again." It was a 'so long', not an invitation to make a date. That's something I've learned about the trade in Rose's toilet (or most toilets, for that matter): view everything as a one-shot, expect no future assignments.

He hiked up his pants and waved goodbye and was out the door.

The next two came in together, and were obviously out cruising together looking for some head. Probably local college guys from Costa Mesa, at least that's the impression I got. Anyway, they weren't cops; too young. There are no cops out here, at least I've never seen anything cop-ish, except for a speeding Highway Patrolman. And, I figured they weren't trouble. Trouble has a way of making a lot of noise when it walks in the door. These guys were shyly quiet.

They must have realized that they hit pay dirt, because one walked past my doorless stall and went into the next stall, while the other stayed by the urinal. I've developed a good sense of hearing from all my cock-sucking in this particular john.

Jock number one unbuckled his slacks and whipped out a short, stubby, cut cock that was already hard. He wasted no time in shoving it through the glory hole and I wasted no time in swallowing it down to his soap-smelling pubes. I always figure it's best to get the ones you don't want out of the way as soon as possible so you can go on to the ones you do want. About 35 seconds of concentrated cocksucking and he was unloading his thick, innocent, sweet load. Soon as the last dollop dropped, he pulled back, zipped up, cleared his throat, and walked out.

Jock number two took his place. He glanced at me as he walked past, then stepped into the same stall his buddy has just occupied. This one looked like the real treat of the pair: tall, broad shoulders, nice scrubbed face, blonde crew cut. He unzipped and dropped his pants down to his ankles. A thick blonde patch between his thighs framed a very thick, but very circumcised cock that looked as tight-skinned as a drumhead. It was almost too thick for the hole; when he shoved it though it filled the complete diameter--which meant I couldn't get a lick on his ballbag, which looked like it might be worth lapping. I swallowed the shaft, and it filled out my mouth. A few lubricating strokes and I pulled off.

"Come over here so I can get it all."

He pulled out faster than a jack-rabbit and hopped over, pants jumping around his shoes. I grabbed a muscled flank in each hand and guided his fat poker into my mouth. Two strokes and he was shooting hot, fast, short jets. A goan, one last jerk of his cock against the roof of my mouth, and he was out of there. I never even got to give his balls a single lick.

The fifth cock of the day isn't worth recording: a wimpy cock on a wimpy man. It was the sixth one that sent me home, petered out.

I was thinking about calling it a day, grabbing some dinner, and then heading for a movie house in Costa Mesa (Rule Number Three: any cocks sucked outside this toilet don't count) when in walked a loud pair of boots.

The boots walked up the the urinal trough. I heard the distinctive sound of a metal zipper coming up. Then it sounded like someone had turned on a garden hose. Either this guy had a bladder the size of a washtub or a cock like a fire hose. I wasn't going to let this one walk out unrevealed!

I jerked up my jeans, flushed the toilet (to let him know I was coming), and walked past the first stall near the urinal with my head turned in his direction.

He had heard me coming. He turned to look at me, grinned, and turned his body toward me (enough to piss on the floor before he realized it and turned slightly back towards the trough) and said, "Howdy!"

A black cowboy! A six-foot-plus, hunky, muscular, hung, uncut, grinning black cowboy--making sure I saw his equipment. I stopped right where I was, looked straight at the long, thick, rubbery cock hanging over the end of his hand, and said, "Hi."

Then neither of us said anything. He just kept pissing. I looked up at his face. He was still grinning. He stopped pissing. He didn't even shake it, he just turned to face me, still holding that black uncircumcised sausage, and let it dribble on the concrete floor.

"Ah shure would like to get mah pecker serviced." He even had a drawl!

I took the two steps over to him and squatted down (I didn't really want to kneel on the pissy floor) and took it in my hand and contemplated the wrinkled bunch of skin covering the head. I could just barely see the tip of a pink cockhead inside. I darted out my tongue and dug into the center of his rosette, tasting cheese and urine on the way. I slid my tongue under the foreskin and tried to swab the cockhead, and immediately realized this was going to be one ripe piece of meat.

One of my favorite things to do with a cheesy cock is to get the whole covered head in my mouth and wash it out with my tongue. I wrapped my lips around about three inches of his pole and went to work, darting and swabbing my tongue under the skin, licking out every grain of cheese. He was getting hard, and before I was really satisfied with my cock-cleaning, he was trying to slip some more of it into my mouth.

I backed off a bit and readied myself for some shaft swallowing. I didn't think I was going to be able to get all of it in my mouth (this was, after all, monster-sized meat), but I was going to give it the old never-say-die try!

It looked to be a steady 10 or 11 inches (I had both hands wrapped around it and there was still more of it sticking out, facing me, including a very fat head), thicker around than a silver dollar. I dove for it and got about half way down on the first gulp. That wasn't nearly enough for the cowboy.

"Can you take it all?"

I mumbled and went for a deeper dive, easily three-quarters of the way down. It had gotten real stiff now, with a fleshy coating and loose skin, but solid unbending muscle underneath.

On about the fifth try I was nearly to his groin, but I could feel the strain in my throat. The problem was the position (sure it was, sure). I really needed to be on my back on a table, with my head hanging over the edge, and him standing there fucking my face upsidedown. But this toilet had no such accommodations.

He moaned and rotated and pumped and I held onto his legs for all I was worth and rode his prong. Sometimes I slid halfway down, other times I nearly hit base, but I couldn't get every inch and he wasn't letting me back all the way off.

"Ah shure would like to put dis up youre pritty white ass," he crooned.

Now I know a lot of guys who would have stripped and up-ended themselves on the spot, but I'm not one of them. I like to eat my meat, not sit on it. I mumbled as much of a negative "Nuh-uh" as I would manage with my mouth full and went to work, faster, greasing his pole with my throat juices. He got the message.

He grabbed my head in his calloused hands and started grinding my face. I relaxed my jaw and throat and just went with it, trying to swallow as much cock as I could and still breathe. We worked out a stroke for ourselves and I actually started to daydream.

I imagined Eduardo was standing in the nude in the kitchen with only his white cook's hat on, frying hamburgers; his long Mexican cock swaying between his legs and his balls rising and falling with every balls rising and falling with every movement.

My black cowboy was crooning and breather deeper and pumping faster. One lunge and... I had all of it! All the way down my throat!

I concentrated on not gagging and on staying loose. He started pumping faster, drew it almost all the way out, then plunged it all the way in. I thought my windpipe would crack. He held my head fast and pumped out his load, which I could feel running down my throat as I held my breath.

He knew what I was doing was humanly impossible, because he started easing his staff out of my battered throat while he was still pouring out the liquid; eased it slowly until he could hear or feel me take a breath through my nostrils, but no further out. I wondered if his balls held as much come as his bladder did water, there seemed so much of it.

When he finally pulled his rubbery tube completely out of my mouth, it flooped down and sprang up and slapped me on the underside of my chin. I dove for the head, my tongue scraping under the foreskin and lapping at the slip for the last of his load.

"That shore was good!"

I realized that he would be perfectly content for me to stay there on my knees and work his fat sausage over all night. And I might have, except that my knee joints hurt, my shoulders ached, and my throat was on fire. Besides, I had come all over myself while I was sucking his cock.

I stood up, tried to smile (you know how hard it is to smile when your lips have been stretched that far for that long?), and muttered something that sounded like "I have to go."

If this first day was any indication of the summer to come, my journal stood a good chance of overflowing.

FORESKIN RECONSTRUCTION

DAVID'S STORY, PART TWO

After college I accepted a job that allowed me to indulge my passion for travel. Throughout my travels I have discovered that it is we, the circumcised Americans who are the oddity among the male populations of the world. Other than the Jews, the Moslems, and certain tribes in Africa, the other nations of the world have the common sense to leave their male population uncut.

In 1978 I met a woman with whom I thought myself in love, and made what turned out to be a fatal plunge into the sea of matrimony. I was adamant that my sons, if we had any, would remain uncut. She tried to change my mind with all the cleanliness baloney arguments passed onto her by her mother. The problem was resolved long before we had any opportunity to begin a family. She began sleeping with some character from her office. Following my divorce, I obtained a European assignment from my company and went to live and work (from) Amsterdam. In the twelve months I lived in Amsterdam I learned more about my own sexuality from the Dutch men and women than I had in all the years of growing up believing that sex was something to snicker about, and that the circumcised cock is the only "clean" cock.

During the very bitter cold winter of 1983 I came down with the Hong Kong flu, and visited a Dutch physician. After examining me and giving me instructions about bed rest, fruit juice and all the standards, he inquired if he could ask me a very personal question. I was surprised at the request, but said certainly, ask. He wanted to know if I had been circumcised. I was shocked, but said yes, damn my mother's doctor, I was. He wanted to know why it was the majority of American men were "subjected to such a barbaric custom." Finding someone else interested we launched into a discussion about the subject. Subsequently we became friends, and it was he who loaned me the BUFF stretching material. He told me of certain physicians in the States who were perfecting restoration methods procedures via surgery.

After reading the BUFF material I found that I had been left with enough skin that I could begin with the taping ring (pulling the skin forward over the glans and taping it in a ring). It took me about eight weeks to learn how to tape myself to accomplish the stretching without injury.

A personal interjection here—since beginning the taping I learned about four weeks into the stretching that my cock became a great deal more sensitive. My climaxes became more intense, and more fluid. The glans did turn pink and moist, and I even began forming smegma (cheese) if the tape were left in place for three or four days, and all this bullshit we hear about there not being any difference in the sensitivity of the penis is just that, bullshit. I'm sure circumcision fanatics out there will say an orgasm is only part physical and part mental. I possess a masters degree in psychology, so they won't get any argument from me. But I felt the climaxes were better—mentally and physically.

The initial stretching technique worked reasonably well for me. The advanced stage is what gave me problems. While it may work for others, I had problems with the Phase III, and made the decision that I did not want to wait any longer. I contacted my Dutch physician friend and asked the names of the American doctors who were performing surgical restorations. The telephone call to him must have been prophetic, because I received word the following week I was being rotated back to the States.

The urologist I contacted in Los Angeles is the least known of the doctors performing the procedure, and his procedure is quite different from those most publicized. He began surgical restorations in 1949 in response to men who had suffered massive burn accidents.

And least you think he was selling his technique, read on.

The first three sessions were spent in his office with him probing my reasons for requesting such procedure, rather than probing what was left of my foreskin. Once he had satisfied himself I was serious he brought out all the blood and gore photographs of the procedure and showed me step-by-step what would be done. Once he determined that I was still interested he then went into all the possible negatives, and I must admit the possible complications could be unpleasant, but the finished product—via his method—is a wonder to see. The penis looks exactly like nature's own construction. No surgical scars or color differences in the areas.

I asked to speak to two of the men he said would be willing to talk to me. Both of his former patients were very happy to talk to me and were extremely pleased with their results. Both said they felt increased sensitivity and were much happier. So were their sexual partners. One was gay, one was recently married. I learned that the unpleasant results of surgical restoration as described in the BUFF publication were simply not true with this technique. Much to my surprise, Blue Cross will pay for 80% of the procedure, but that is not a blanket endorsement by Blue Cross to pay for foreskin restorations on a wholesale basis. I asked for statistics from the doctor. He provided me with the facts, and those are that of the last twenty procedures he has performed, eighteen have been a total success.

His next request was that prior to being accepted for surgery and that I visit a psychiatrist for a consultation.

I asked him what could be accomplished. Certainly some shrink is not going to be able to make an objective statement about someone in one hour. He asked me to put aside my objections even if they were valid and see Dr. Gold.

Need I say more. Dr. Gold (not his real name by the way) is Jewish and very anti-foreskin, as I learned in my first session with him. He challenged my reasons, telling me being circumcised is "normal." I interrupted his monologue by asking him, "Normal for whom?"

During that hour, and the two other sessions that followed he hit me with every bullshit argument he could and I countered with my could and I countered with my reasons. He wanted to talk to my ex-wife, and my current sexual partners, male and/or female. I told him to suck diesel fumes. He wanted to interview my family, I said no. We went in circles, and honest to God, I think if I weren't such a determined, strong-minded Taurus son-of-a-bitch he would have worn me down. His last tactic was to tell me that he didn't think he could recommend surgery in my case, and refused to tell me why. I very firmly, but with some malice in my voice, told him that he did not have the right after only three hours out of my thirty-three years of life to make such a decision for me that would affect me forever. I would simply go elsewhere if the doctor followed his recommendation. He thanked me, and then the bastard had the nerve to send me a bill for $500.

About two weeks later the urologist told me (with somewhat of a grin) that Dr. Gold had approved me for surgery, and I told the urologist I couldn't care less, because even if he didn't I had made my decision. The doctor said it wasn't necessary for me to go elsewhere, he would do the surgery.

Surgery may not be the panacea for circumcised cocks nationwide, but I can tell you from being cut, and then beginning the procedure to recover my glans with foreskin—being covered is a hell of a lot more fun. The sensitivity has increased by what I determine is 66%. Yes, there are minor inconveniences, but it is worth it.

As I finish this segment, I'm awaiting a surgery date.

TELL IT TO THE SARGE

"Still Uncut?", the ad in Drummer reads. Running for several months in Alternate Publishing's magazine, Sarge has been offering his special brand of circumcision for anyone who qualifies by sending him their circumcision fantasy. As you have read in previous editions of FQ, Sarge is a genuine prepucephobe and is happy to admit it... and even happier when he is "taking care" of Skinheads.

Well, Sarge is temporarily unavailable for his services, having received duty elsewhere. He has allowed FQ editors to accept his letters, include our "Tell It To The Sarge" column and to promote the cause of circumcision for those who are seeking it for erotic reasons. If you have such fantasies and want to share them with FQ readers, please send them to the editor (Bud Berkeley, PO Box 26011, San Francisco, CA 94126). Your confidentiality is safe and anonymous letters gladly accepted. At this time, successful letter writers will not commit their foreskins to Sarge's talents (contact the ACORN society for such commitment, address elsewhere in FQ). We feel that uninhibited self-expression of our reader's sexuality is an important ingredient in FQ's message. All letters will be forwarded to Sarge.

SIR,

I am writing to you, Sarge, in answer to your ad in Drummer magazine. I have often fantasized about getting "cut." In my fantasy, I have been bound, rendered immobile, beaten, verbally abused, hooded and gagged so that I was completely helpless, branded into slavery, and finally, as the climax of it all, was "cut" by a master. My dick is 6", has a tattoo of a rooster on the foreskin plus a tattoo of a fly on the head. The fly is hidden from the world because of the foreskin—so cutting me would liberate the rooster and bring the fly out of the closet. Please consider me for your services, Sir!

Dear Sarge,

I am already circumcised, Sir, but my big brother isn't. He's 19 years old and he is a bastard. He keeps slugging me in the nuts just because I am younger. Dad keeps hollering at him to join the Marines. He's a fucking couch potatoe, always watching TV except when he is beating his meat or pestering me. If he joins up, Sir, does that mean you guys are going to cut off his stinking foreskin at boot camp? That's what I read somewhere. That'd give me a laugh. Only thing is that I want to be there and watch. Sarge, where are you stationed? Are you close to Brooklyn? I've got this clubhouse where you could come some Saturday weekend leave and bring your circumcision tools that you use on recruit dicks. Me and my buddies could grab the son of a bitch off the couch and bring him in for you. We'd rip off his levis and hold him on the floor—spreadeagled real wide—so you could get a good grip on his dick and trim it clean. Man, I'd dig watching that! He'd probably go crying to Dad, but shit, Dad's sick of him anyway and wouldn't pay no mind, especially as he keeps stinking up the house with his cheese. He'd probably just tell him to go out and join up! Now, Sir, if you can make it here pretty soon, do you think you could loan me a set of your tools?

Dear Sarge,

I am an ACORN and seeing your ad inspired me to write a series of science fiction stories for my fellow ACORNs. I call them "Space Ageing David" because it is about a new laser beam circumcision gun being tested by the US Navy and funded by Saudi Arabia. The story goes that a war is going on in the Persian Gulf and Allied troops are stationed in Saudi Arabia in huge numbers. The Arabs want this new tool perfected quickly because of all the uncircumcised Allied military personnel (British, French, Italian, etc.) fraternizing with their women, which is contrary to the strict Islamic taboos against "unclean" penises. The Allies want the instrument perfected quickly because of the danger to their uncircumcised men should they become prisoners of the opposing Islamic armies.

The concept of the laser gun is that it has a special wire which can be tied to several dozen penises at once and, when activated, the beam travels down the wire and circumcises all the men simultaneously—quickly and cleanly—so that they can get back to the front. The US Navy has perfected the gun for single circumcisions using their own recruits, but they ran out of foreskins. So, it was decided one large mass circumcision would complete the perfection of the tool.

The governor of California sent out a call for all patriotic men who still had foreskin to volunteer to join the circumcision ship. The Navel vessel left San Diego and traveled up the coast to San Francisco, picking up volunteers along the way. Reaching San Francisco Bay, the ship was greeted by tug boats, fire boats, a waving mob and the media.

My first person character is a Navy medical corpsman who still has his foreskin and hides it from view in order to keep it.

My second person character is you, Sarge. You are a tough old Marine Drill Sergeant who happened to obtain the circumcision gun in error and helped to perfect its use by circumcising your disobeying, uncut recruits. This excerpt from my story finds the two characters arriving at the ship on Saturday morning to get their assignment. The Sarge had asked for a group of tough young punks that the various police departments collected to "volunteer." Sarge was looking forward to an excuse to rough up a few hated skinheads before he took care of their dicks. Instead, they were assigned to Room 900, which according to orders, was full of a group of college students from Southern California. We join our characters approaching Room 900: "Just my lousy luck," the Sarge growled. "Hell, we don't start circumcising until tomorrow morning. They gave us the whole fucking day to explain to the skinheads how we are going to skin their cocks for them. What are we supposed to do with them for the rest of the day? I'd like to rough 'em up even if they are a bunch of snubbed-nose college shits. Goddamn skinheads!"

I kept silent as we walked up the crowded passageway. I wondered what those collegians were going to think of their circumciser. He was used to everyone jumping to attention when he shouted. I wonder how these guys are going to take his bullshit?

We enter Room 900. Wow! What a lot of jock meat! The men were lounging around waiting for us. They were all naked in this small, sweaty room. About 25 all-American specimens—fine faces, well-developed chests, slender waists, clean-cut throughout except for their penises, which we will circumcise quickly tomorrow. Damn, I'm going to hate this! I didn't know there were so many good looking men left with foreskins and here we've got to cut them off. What lousy duty! "Hey, are you guys our circumcisers?" one of them shouted out. Sarge introduced himself very properly and was greeted by a howl of applause, whistles, catcalls, yelling and foot stomping.

"Attention!" ordered Sarge. They either didn't hear him or ignored him. "Hey, Marine, here's my banana. Want to peel it now?" one of the handsome jocks yelled as he waved his long uncut penis at us. "Come and get it, boys. It's waiting for you!" waved another. "How many skins you snippers got under your belts so far?" asked another. "Hey, you old geezer, my old lady's going to be after your balls when she finds out you cut off some of my pecker," shouted a tall, hairy chested stud. More shouts, whistles, stomping. Cocks were waving at us from all directions. I loved it! Sarge was getting angry. Then someone yelled at him, "Hey, Leatherneck, let's see your short arm. I'll bet it's never been docked!"

With that, Sarge opened his mouth wide and roared, "HELLLLL YESSSSS IT HASSSSS! I wouldn't walk around one single day with that ugly, good for nothing, stinking wad of baby fat hanging on my dick like you guys!" With that the men went crazy, waving their cocks at each other shouting, "Man, it's stinking baby fat!" "Yeah, so's this I've got here!"

"HOLD IT!" Sarge ordered. "Hold what, Sarge?" "Did you hear him, fellows? Sarge wants us to hold them!" "C'mon over here, Sarge, you can hold mine!"

"GODDDAMMMITT! CUT THIS SCREWIN' AROUND!" Sarge belted. "Cut! He said cut, men!" "Start with mine, Sarge!" laughed a husky blond as he waved a huge, fat hunk of meat at us, which was covered with a healthy two-inch overhang. Jesus, I thought, I'd like to start with that one myself! "Hey, Sarge," yelled a black adonis. "If you want to screw around, come over here and let your ass feel what it is like coming from an uncut prick while it is still uncut."

That did it. Sarge stomped over to the black athlete, but suddenly realized that he was facing a 6'5", 250 pound halfback. Sarge turned and grabbed the first thing he saw. It was the penis the hunky blond was still waving into the middle of the room. He pulled the blond by the cock to the front of the room.

"OK, wise guys, I ain't waisting no more time here! It's my job today to show you shitheads the way we are going to peel your penises tomorrow with that there laser beam and I'm going to show you by circumcising this here dick right now!"

Silence filled the room at last. The jocks realized that they were about to witness one of their own men getting his penis circumcised. No more jokes—it was the real thing! The husky blond tried to pull away but his meat was firmly locked in Sarge's grip. He turned pale. I prepared the laser gun while Sarge started to stretch out the doomed foreskin. He stretched and stretched until the skin fanned out like a bed-sheet. I wondered what in the hell the Sarge was up to.

He looked directly into the blond's blue eyes and said, "I'm just going to test for sensitivity, see." He picked up a needle and, grinning, he began to drive it through the top lip of the foreskin. He drove it through and then asked, "How's that feel, Skinhead?" The boy stammered, "Uh...er...not too bad."

"SIR! CALL ME SIR, YOU DUMB-NUT SKINHEAD!" The blond looked at him for a long time in silence, then the Sarge began to twist the needle. "Sir!" the boy said. Why that old bastard, I thought, he isn't checking sensitivity at all. He's just venting his sadistic hatred of foreskin on that kid. Sarge then gazed right into the boy's eyes again as he pushed the skin through the lower lip, clamping the foreskin shut.

"Feel it now, Skinhead?"

"Yeah, I suppose so."

"SIR! CALL ME SIR, GODDAM-NIT!" Sarge said as he took a swat at the penis in his captivity. With that the blond's dick began to stretch itself out and began to strain and twist itself around the restricting needle. "That's right, Skinhead," snarled Sarge, "it's getting ready." He took out the needle and the penis pushed itself out a good eight throbbing inches while all eyes in the room gazed at it in silence. There it was, waiting for its fate. Waiting for its circumcision. I handed Sarge the gun and Sarge pointed it at his quarry. He held it up and slowly looked around the room, obviously studying all the throbbing uncircumcised meat pointing at him. Then he looked once again at the husky blond's penis and announced in a triumphant voice, "IT'S TIME TO CIRCUMCISE THIS PENIS!"

(To Be Continued)

Dear FQ,

I was greatly impressed with your published bit about ACORN. I read it carefully (and all that jazz about ole' Sarge as well). I think this is fine. I believe I have been working on the long way around. I am a long time anti-circumcision activist and have been trying to teach against routine circumcision and mutilation in general. You have the right idea. Let the public know the truth, and all this "yak" in favor of circumcision is strictly sexual and nothing more, something I have been saying for years. The ACORNs come right out and tell it like it like it is! This is absolutely the best way to inform the public that those who favor circumcision are just getting their sexual kicks. I became convinced of that during my long WWII stint in the medical corps. I heard the jokes and the bragging on the part of those medics who couldn't wait to get their hands on uncut GIs. I was there! Pointing out the sex involved will do more to stop routine circumcision than all the diatribe I have been writing to editors.

Dear Bud Berkeley,

Where in the hell did the term "lace curtains" come from? I am every inch (7½") a man and that includes my foreskin. I resent people calling my foreskin "lace curtains" because it sounds so feminine. How could any part of the penis be referred to in feminine terms? Sure, some guys might be effeminate, but as long as they have a cock swinging they are men.

ManSkin

Dear Manskin,

I agree. However, "lace curtains" has been the most commonly used term for the foreskin during this century. Another term, "ruffled foreskin" or "rumpled foreskin," was used during mid-century as a derogatory term for the foreskin. The words "lace" and "ruffled" are the keys to your question. It all started in Victorian England when ruffles, frills and lace were in style...even the English gentleman wore lace and he didn't consider it to be effeminate. Lace curtains adorned every window in London and they hung in a flurry of ruffles. They were so common that whenever someone described an object with ruffles it was referred to as looking like "lace curtains." Well, since the gentleman's foreskin also hung in a flurry of ruffles (yum!) the foreskin became "lace curtains" (ugh!). Personally, I prefer the more recent adaptation of calling the foreskin "shades"...such as in "Hollywood shades" (sunglasses). After all, foreskin has become a glamorous thing to own.

Now, back to mid-century (circa. 1950) when the foreskin was not glamorous and was called "rumpleforeskin" which wasn't nice at all! "Rumpleforeskin" became a term used to describe other things which were wrinkled, dirty and disgusting. Even the old Hippie rag, The Berkeley Barb, ran a political cartoon featuring a vile, anti-social hero named, Mr. Rumpleforeskin. Well, Mr. Rumpleforeskin went to his grave and good riddance!

Dear Sweet Head,

One of "those guys," a USA cheesehound, recently gave me his doctor's prescription for the manufacture of head cheese: "If you're a real cheesehound and enjoy maintaining a ripe head at all times, then stay away from the strong anti-bacterial soaps. On those occasions when you should wash your cock, such as after anal intercourse, it's best to use a mild soap such as Ivory. Make sure you dry real well after washing and by morning you should see the cheese starting to curl."

Dear Mr. Berkeley,

Here's a question from a cut admirer of the "hooded rod." I was cut at age 11 and as such I have no functional memory of my foreskin. I've always wondered how difficult it is for an uncircumcised guy to keep his skin peeled back, both when he's hard and when he is soft. During high school and college I noticed that most uncut guys rolled their skins back when they went into the shower, but that the skins would recover the glans when they got wet and started washing. Also, I knew a guy who wanted a painless "cockring" that would permit him to keep his uncircumcised glans exposed for extended periods of time. Is that difficult to do? Will a "normal" foreskin stay retracted in the flaccid state, or will gravity inevitably prevail? Is it possible to keep the skin retracted inside clothes, or is it easier to do it when naked? Does the (lucky) uncut dude have the choice of running around with his glans exposed all the time, or do the facts of nature's mechanics really commit him to a hooded head? Well, Mr. Berkeley, if you can't answer these questions, no one can.

Silly Questions

Dear Silly Questions,

Ah, yes! The mystery of the foreskin...the ultimate curiosity for many circumcised men, both gay and straight. Silly, you have been doing your homework and some of your perceptions are correct...for some foreskins. First, though, I must say that gravity has nothing to do with pulling a foreskin forward (unless it had weights attached to it...which is not too unusual these days). Each and every foreskin has its own special behaviour and it can be pretty stubborn, as many an uncut can attest! Three anatomical items must be studied when observing an uncircumcised penis in regards to whether its owner will be able to keep its skin peeled back: (1) the frenulum; (2) the glans-penis or cockhead; and, (3) the foreskin itself.

(1) If the frenulum is extremely short, and is stretched tightly, it will be difficult to retract the foreskin at any time, much less keeping it retracted. If the frenulum is extremely loose, and is stretched so loosely that it droops (yum!), then the foreskin might be difficult to keep forward. Most frenulums fall somewhere between these two extremes, so we must look further for our answers.

(2) The glans, or cockhead, on most uncircumcised cocks is somewhat slender at the corona (except during orgasm, when it flares out to its max) compared to those on circumcised cocks. Some uncut cocks, however, are endowed with fat, or bulbous, cockheads and their owners have a better chance of running around with exposed glans...in fact, some of these guys have to tug to get the skin forward. The one rule we have here is that the only possible way to get the skin "out of the way" is to trap it behind the corona.

Some men have used tools, tape, etc., to hold their skins back for periods long enough for the glans to develop a permanently flared corona thus, in essence, effecting a self-circumcision. If the glans is exposed long enough it will go through a change, becoming somewhat less sensitive and less moist. Men with trapped-back foreskins can often wear their naked glans inside their clothes without any discomfort. Most uncut men couldn't bear to have their sensitive these days most uncut men are perfectly happy to abide by nature's mechanics and remain committed to their hooded heads. After all, you can't chew on retracted skin!

Dear Bud,

I dig the looks of a big, tough, circumcised American-style dick which has been peeled back to the balls! Most of the guys I knew as a child had those dicks and I learned how to swing on them. I have long wanted one of my own but I think I have waited too long to get circumcised. I am in my early forties. I understand that they must leave a lot of loose skin on the shaft when circumcising adult to accommodate hard-ons. I would want my shaft peeled real tight! I also know how they stitch up the shaft. Do the stitch marks remain on the dick very long? I know that men circumcised as adults are writing to you. What are your observations about their dicks?

Precircumcised?

Dear Precircumcised,

It's never too late to get circumcised and to get a good tight job, if that is what you want. I am certainly not promoting adult circumcisions except in the context that it is preferable to infant circumcisions. Most medics, hospitals, etc., tell parents that it is better to clip their baby boys quick because it would hurt them too much to get circumcised later. Bullshit! We all know they give anesthesia to adults before they amputate their foreskins, but they don't give infants anything to relieve their pain! I have often wondered what went wrong with the education of these doctors...they seem to work on the assumption that the nervous system doesn't respond to pain until some later undefined age. Truth is that they probably don't give a shit whether they are hurting the infant or not. Okay, off my soapbox for a minute...your question.

Yes, most dicks circumcised as adults which I have inspected do leave considerable loose skin on the shaft. But I have seen several such penises with tight circumcisions. Two recent ones I had the privilege to view were circumcised at 47 and 18, respectfully and they were as "back to the balls" as any neonate job I've ever seen. So, precircumcised?, if it is a tight one you want you can get it, but you might have to shop around for the right circumciser. Stitch marks? Yes, the scars on the penis circumcised as adult does differ slightly than the neonates, sometimes neater and sometimes botched with noticeable stitch marks. The above mentioned 18-year-old job showed only the slightest scar and you would have to get out your magnifying glass to see the stitch marks. Again, choose your doctor carefully!

Hey, wait a minute! What am I doing here? Please don't rush out and get yourself circled on my account, friend, because if you are a USA member, we need your foreskin...besides, you might end up with stitch marks after all!

cockheads rubbing up against their levis (ouch!).

(3) Foreskins range in a wondrous variety of length, thickness, looseness and sensitivity, none of which has anything to do with other parts of the penis. One anatomy researcher came to consider the foreskin to be an organ separate from the penis itself, with each foreskin having its own particular relationship with the penis it was covering. So we have long and loose foreskins on both little and big dicks and short and tight foreskins on both little and big dicks...and everything in between. Retractibility? Most long and thick foreskins pretty impossible to keep retracted (unless the penis has a super-wide cockheads), while long and thin foreskins are more easily retracted (unless the penis has a very small cockhead). Short and thick foreskins are easily retracted if the cockhead is too wide.

During erection some long foreskins stay forward and some find themselves creeping back up the cockhead and down the shaft, while some short foreskins stay in their forward position and others slide back and disappear. A heavily weighted and pointed tip on the foreskin is necessary to keep the long ones forward, while an extra-wide cockhead can cause difficulty and pain while trying to retract a short, thin foreskin.

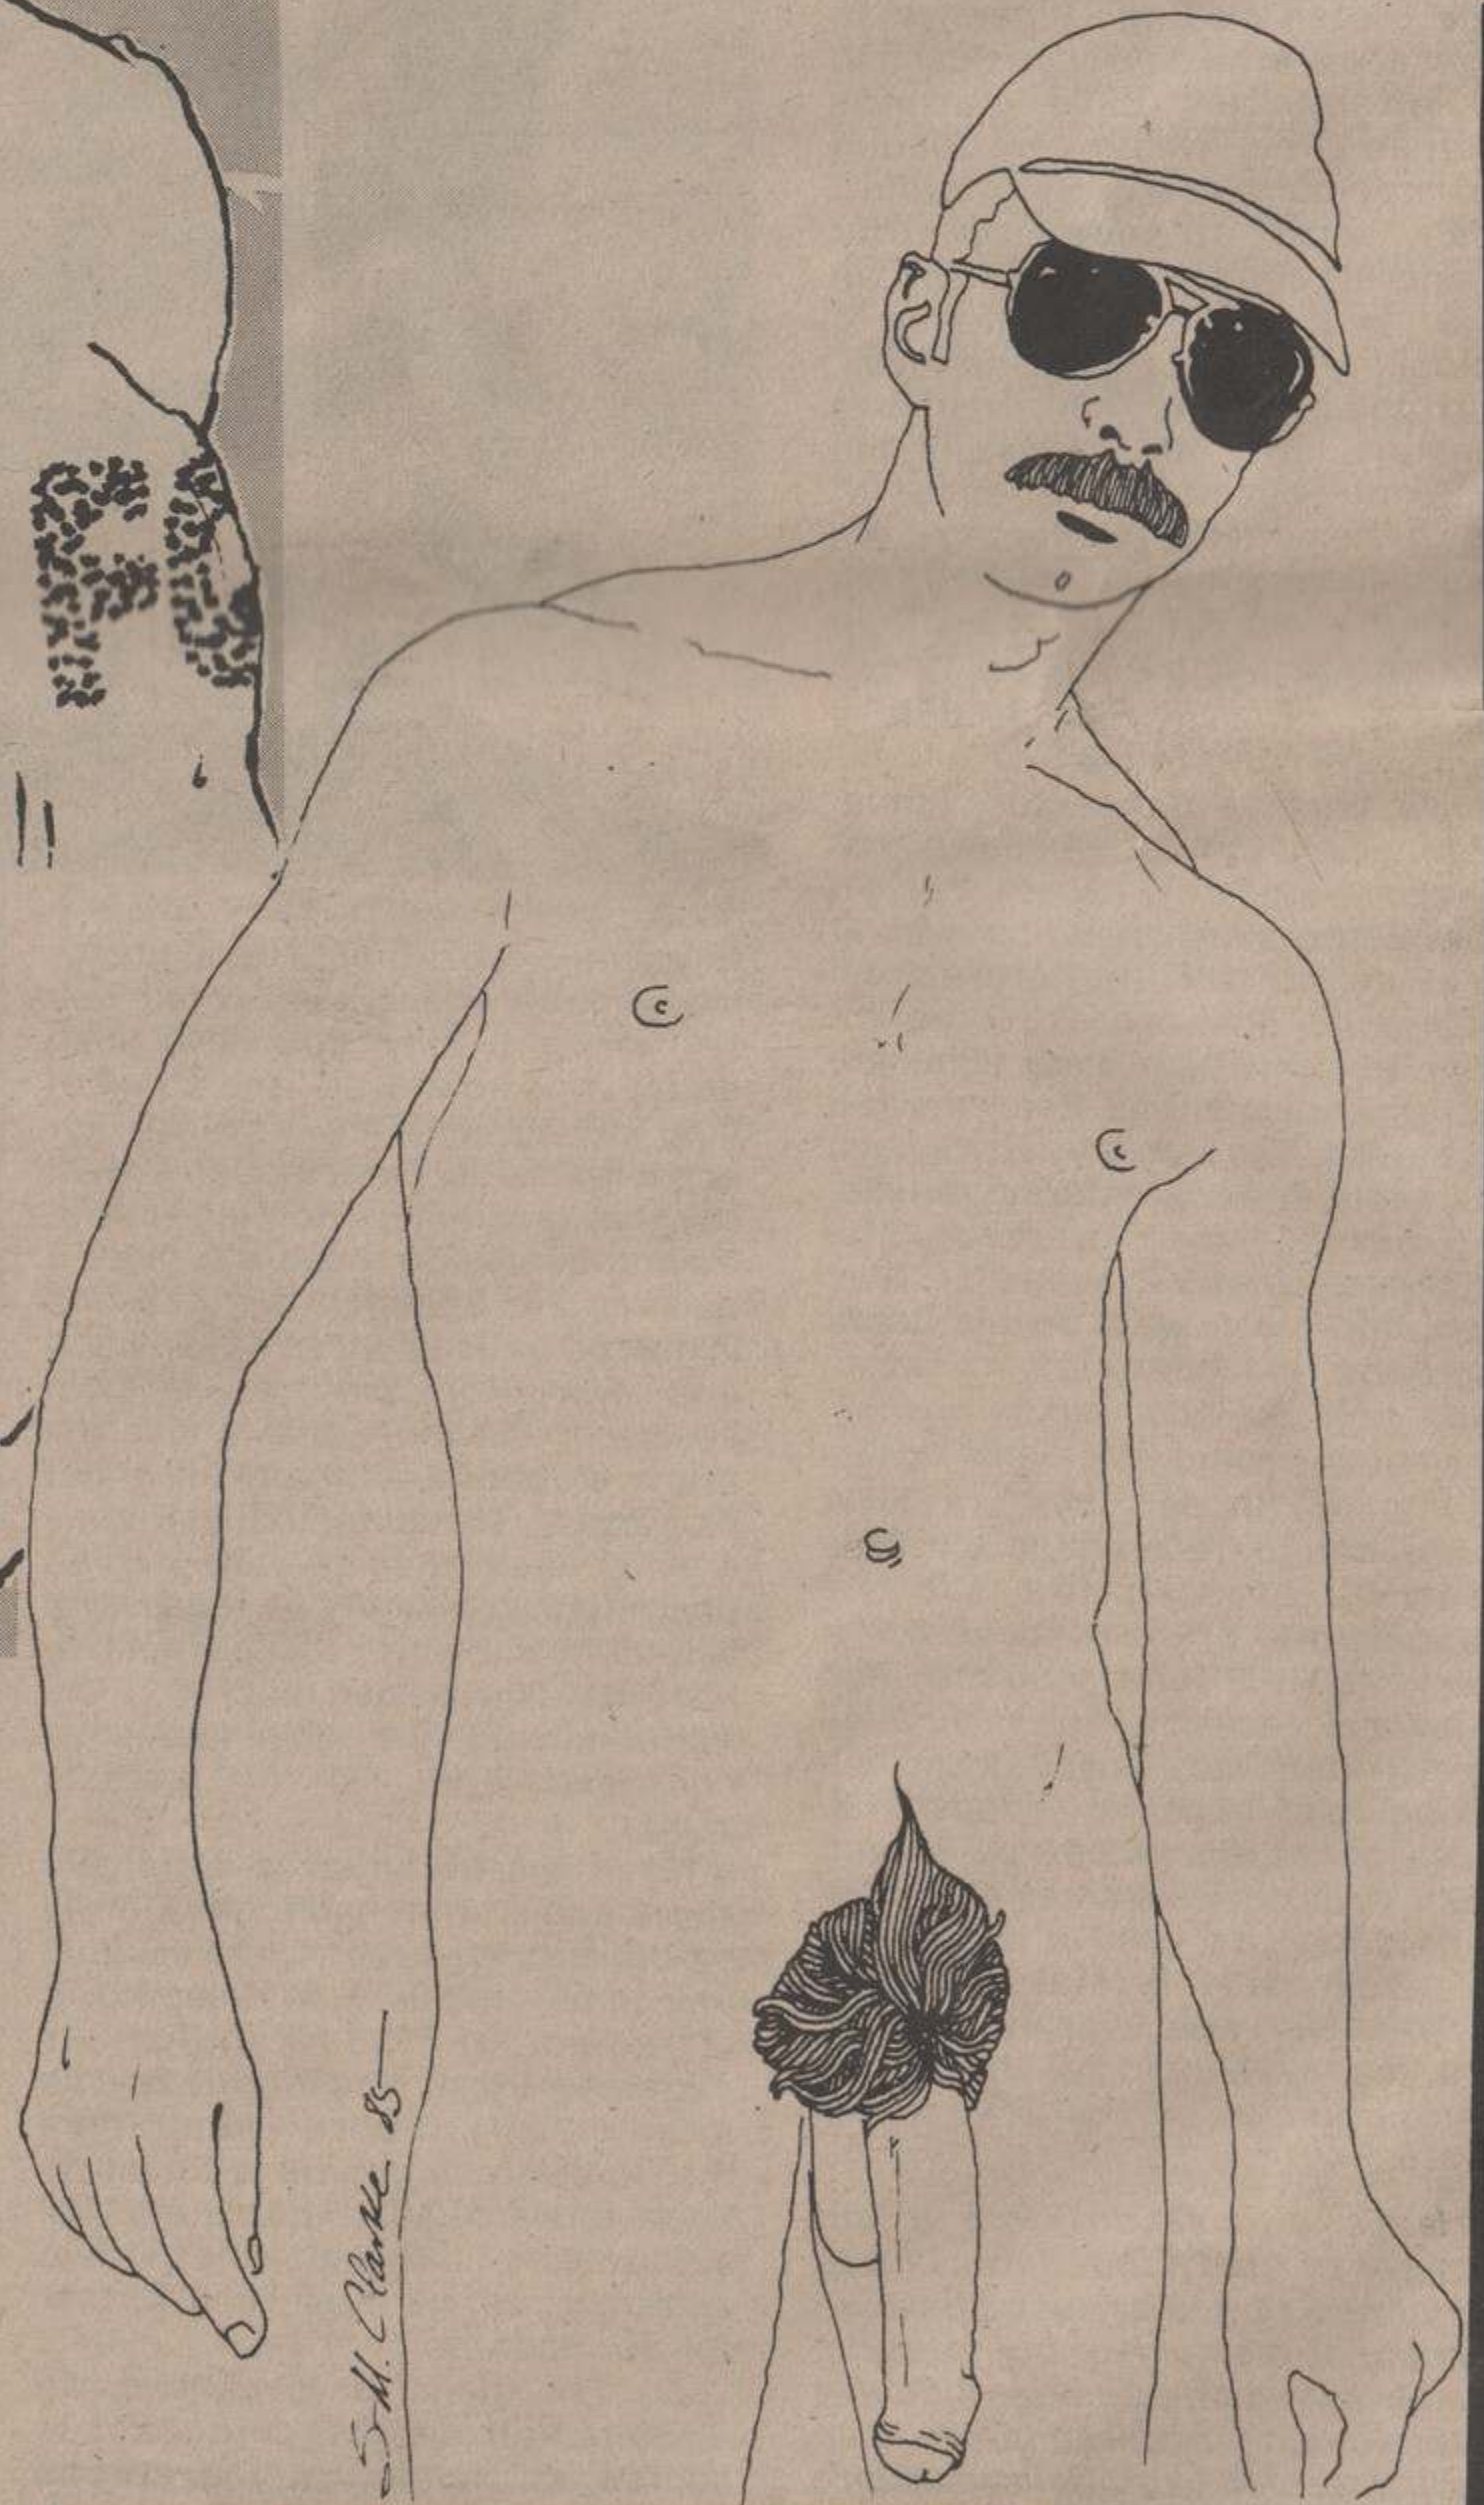

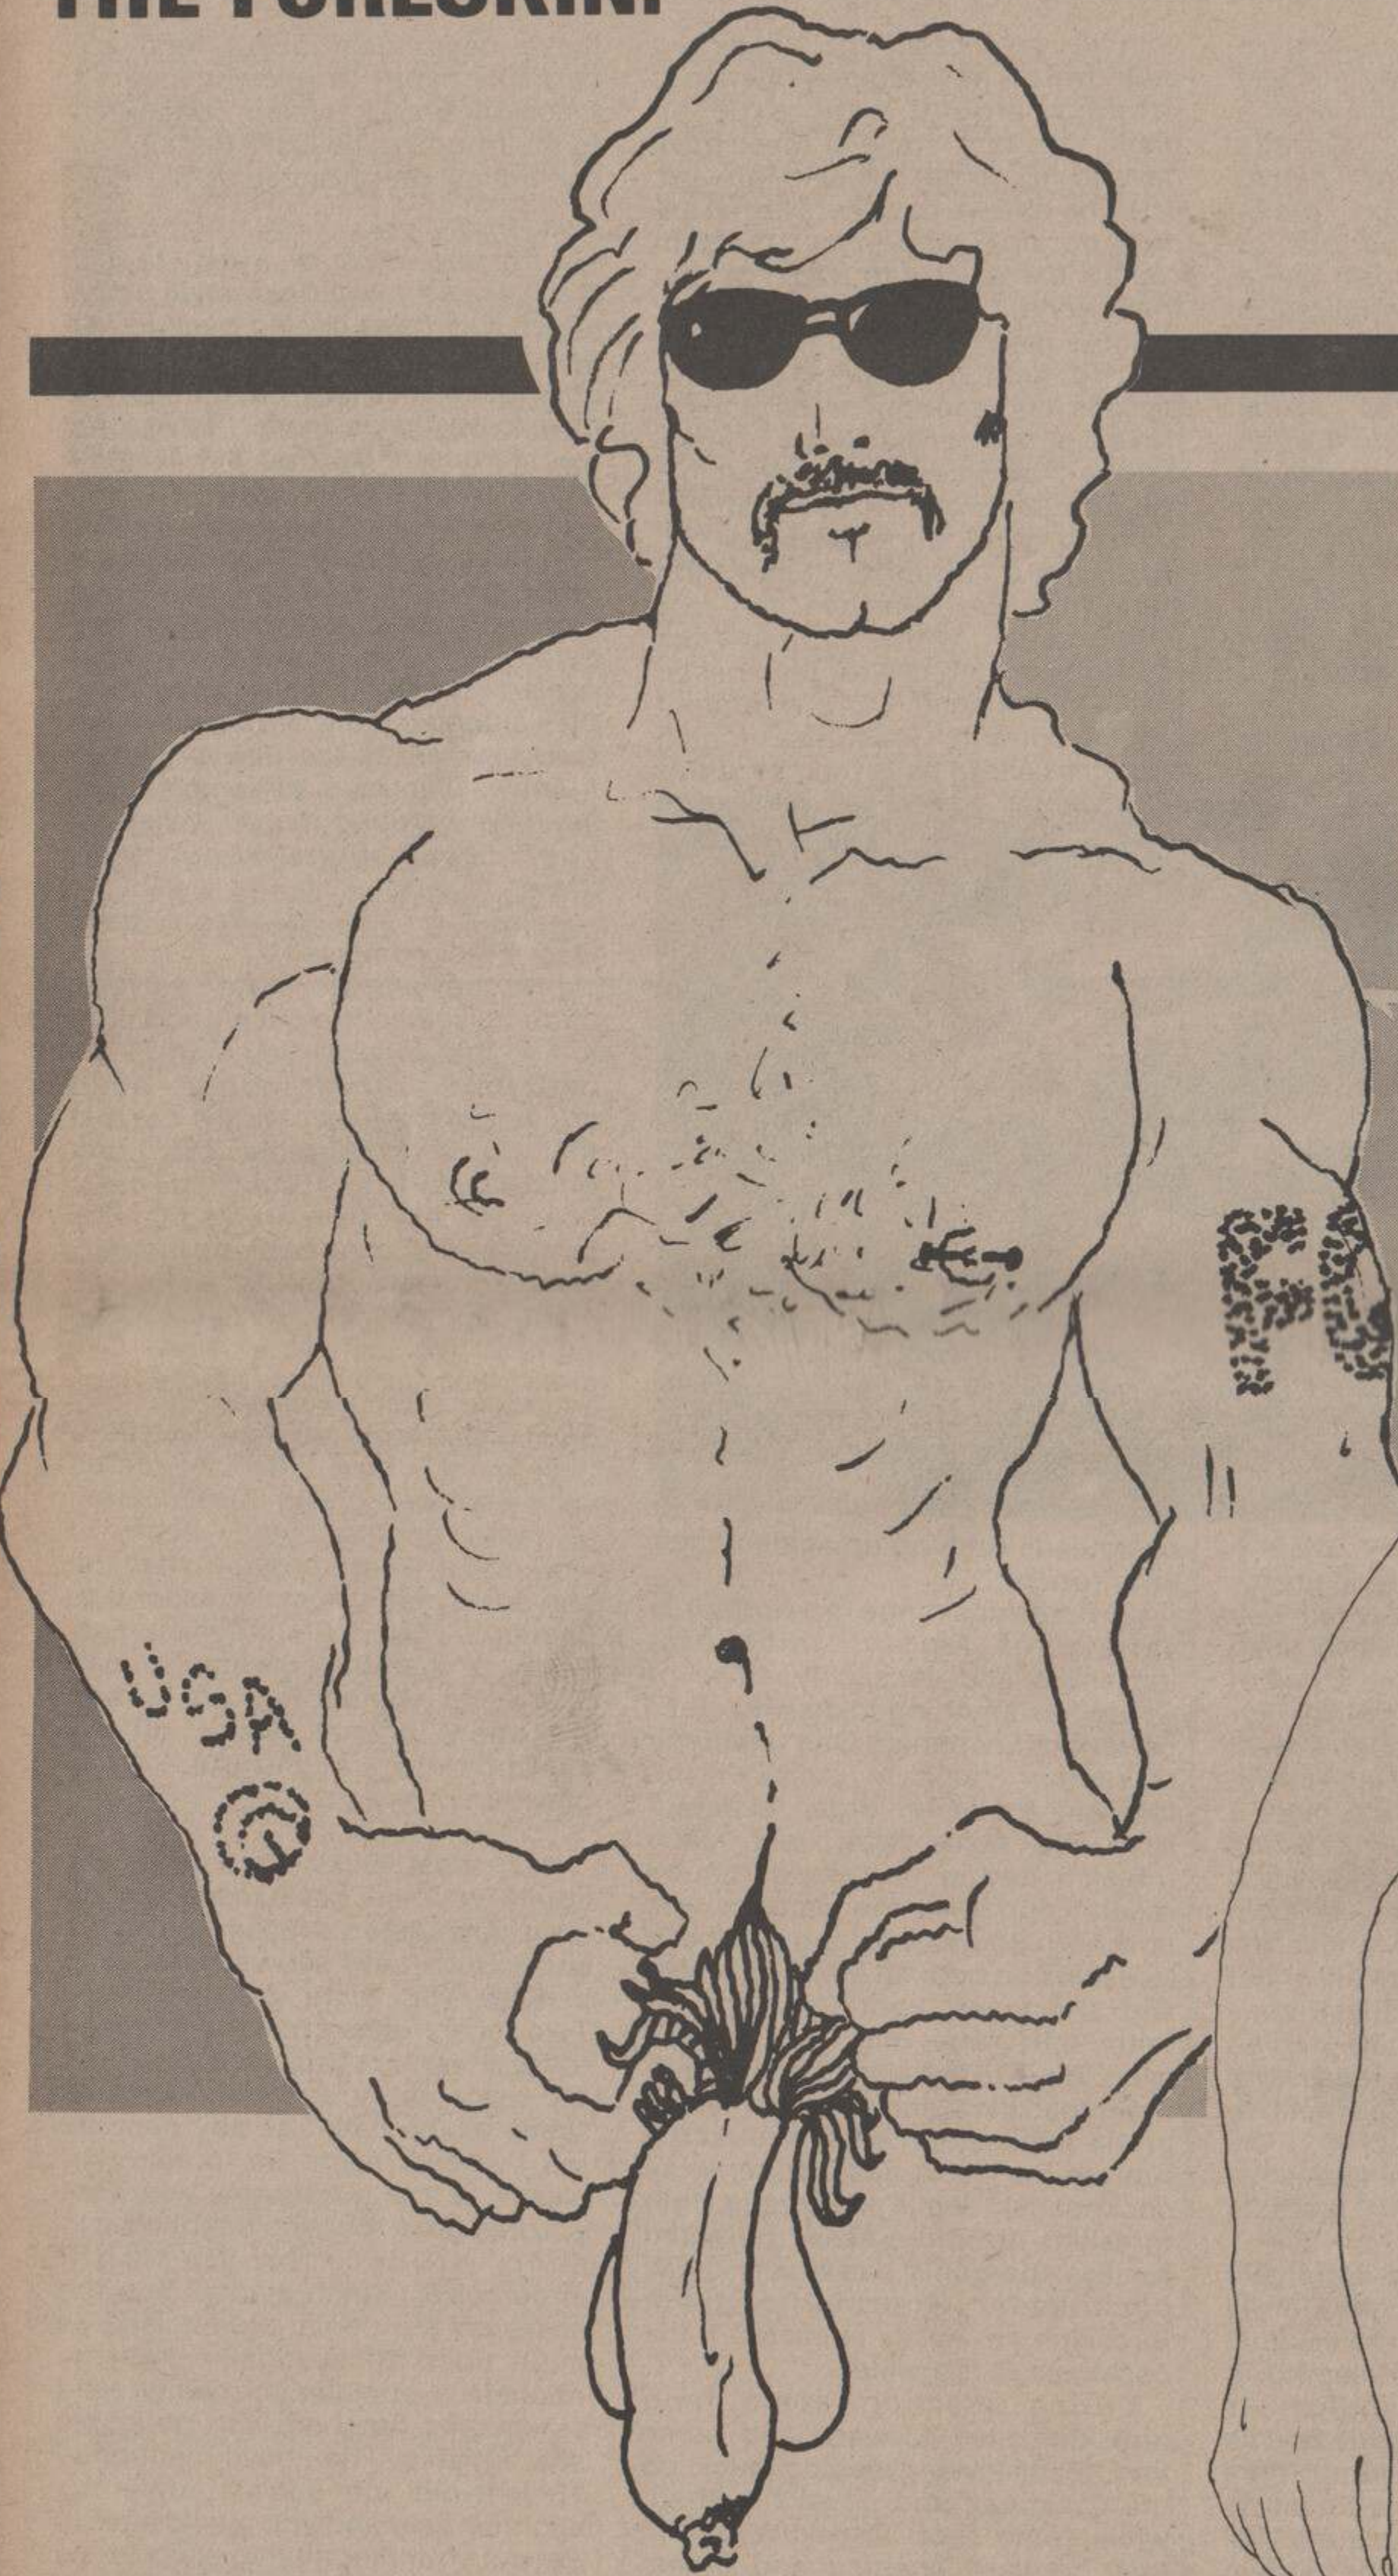

So, you see, Silly, your questions were not so silly, except to say that FQ is pleased to offer you this small selection of caged illusions from this master mythmaker.

Dear Dr. Skinnon,

I've got the wettest, sloppiest fucking dick in the world! My foreskin is very normal, not too tight or too long. But my cockhead is always oozing. I have to change my jock-strap at least twice a day it gets so wet. I've tried to wear my foreskin back, but it won't stay. Besides, my cockhead is too sensitive when it doesn't have the skin covering it. In fact, I can't stand to have my head rubbing against clothing. Some guys dig my wet cock and others want to puke! Well, shit, I don't care about that because if they don't like my dick, that is their problem. But, Doc, it would be more convenient on my laundry bill if I could keep it drier. Not all uncut fellows have wet cocks because I've seen some which are as dry as toast. How can I dry out?

Drooling Dick

Dear Drooling Dick,

A lot of things might "ooze" but your cock isn't one of them. Are you excited all day, causing you to produce "slippery stuff?" Are you dribbling a bit of urine after you shake it? A taste test could answer these questions. Roll your finger around inside your foreskin and lick it. The "slippery stuff" tastes salty. The urine is just a trifle bitter since it's acid. You should be able to taste the difference. However, if your frenum is very wide and flat, you may simply have more material coming from the glands at each side, which produce our natural secretion. In that case, you just have extra moisture, flavor and fragrance. Otherwise, you may simply have a juicy cock—like some people have drippy armpits. In any case, you should be proud of your extra attributes.

Dear Dr. Skinnon,

I am the circumcised father of two uncircumcised boys, ages 9 and 12. Their foreskins have always been a mystery to me and my wife. I have resented my own circumcision as long as I can remember, which is why I was determined that my sons not be circumcised. Both boys seem to have very long and tightly-fitted foreskins. We have never forced them to retract their skins to wash because we are careful not to give them sexual guilts and we feel that those things should come naturally. When my first boy began to masturbate my wife found blood on his sheets. It really worried us. We had read such conflicting things about adolescent phimosis. I asked the boy if he had any sores and he said, "No." Our doctor suggested that he be circumcised to ease our minds. Can you imagine such an attitude? I need your advice. Can you tell me whether such bleeding is normal for an uncircumcised boy just beginning to jack-off? What causes it? In the case of my nine-year-old, can it be avoided by forcing him to retract now? Or are we worrying needlessly?

Confused Father

Dear Confused Father,

Your second sentence is a mystery to me! The foreskin is a natural structure, totally normal. There is no mystery about it, but you and your wife are unfamiliar with it. Chances are your greatest opportunity to start helping your sons is now, some 6 to 9 years late. I urge every father in my office to make his sons comfortable with their sexuality. You certainly have not worried about his masturbating, because you know it is normal from your own experience. You do not know what to do with his foreskin, but you can help him.

Mothers always find pecker tracks, bloody or not, since they do the laundry. If the bleeding is rusty, it is in his semen. At 12, he is a little bit ahead of the crowd. Even so, it's not dangerous. If it is bright red rather than rusty in color, the blood might be coming directly from his penis and should be investigated.

If you haven't seen him naked with an erection, please do so! Just touch his penis and he will surely get a hard-on. Check the pliability of his foreskin and the pulling of his frenum. Teenage phimosis is very rare in this day and age—check with your doctor if you suspect it. Adolescent penises stand straight in the air at the slightest provocation, but do not be alarmed or he will be. If it happens to shoot, just be glad it works! He will thank you forever for your reassurance and your interest. He certainly does not need circumcision on the basis of what you've told me. By the way, check your nine-year-old at this time also.

Dear Dr. Skinnon,

I was the only boy of eight who didn't get circumcised, because my father failed to pay my delivery fee on time, so the obstetrician refused to do it to me. I had no trouble being uncircumcised until high school when I came down with a case of venereal warts. I have many veins on the surface of my penis, more than I have ever observed on any other male. The foreskin has two veins in it the size of a pencil, with branching smaller veins off the largest two veins. The foreskin itself was rather thin and delicate, making the veins appear very prominent. When I developed the warts, my frenulum and surrounding foreskin became very swollen, making me unwilling to retract the skin. It didn't interfere with urination. The doctor treating my warts wanted to circumcise me but my parents couldn't afford it. The warts disappeared until I was 28, when they returned. My doctor told me that a pliable, delicate foreskin and frenulum like mine will never have a permanent phimosis because it is so easily stretched, but that same pliability allows very small tears to develop during intercourse which made me susceptible to the virus that causes warts. So, two years ago I was circumcised. I'll never forget masturbating the night before surgery. The soft skin rolling back and forth over my sensitive glans felt wonderful; my orgasm was extremely intense. I studied my foreskin for the last time. Its veins were engorged and seemed to enhance my manhood and both my foreskin and glans were vivid pink which was erotic just to observe. Best of all, I could feel the sensitive folds of skin which always gave me pleasure during intercourse. I watched my circumcision from beginning to end—an erotic, unforgettable experience in itself! Now my penis is much less sensitive and the head has turned to a dull gray color. I miss those folds of skin during intercourse. But, to climax my story, doctor, the venereal warts have returned! Now I wish I had left well enough alone! In retrospect, is it fair to ask you how you would have treated my case? Would you have found it necessary to circumcise me?

Altered Male

Dear Altered Male,

I'm glad you got to watch your circumcision and found it to be "erotic and unforgettable," because that is the only good thing you got out of it. Warts are viral in origin, as you describe, but they are also usually self-limiting, meaning they come and go whenever they are damn good and ready. This happened to you after the high school experience and you were spared their reappearance until age 28. They continue to come and go in susceptible individuals with or without foreskin. Treatment by local application or removal of the warts themselves would have been my choice of therapy and you could have left your delicate and delicious foreskin intact. Some warts are large and ugly. If they defy adequate cleanliness by sheer volume of folds and crevices, you will entice only the most hardened filth freak. If they appear to be coming out of the piss-hole they are potentially dangerous and require urological attention. However, I only circumcise a patient if he feels his foreskin interferes with his ability to attract partners and thus requests circumcision. I must be pretty much convinced of his problems before he can buy it from me!

Dear Dr. Skinnon,

I know I am a brash faggot, but I have to ask you a question, Doc. What is your cock like? I need to know. How long is it? How wide is the head? Mostly, describe your foreskin. All you experts keep telling us to stay home and beat our meat because of the health crisis, but I need fantasy! And I have some great fantasies about you. I dig your answers and can tell you are a sexy dude. So, Doc, tell me about your cock.

An Admiring Reader

Dear Admiring Reader,

Brash faggots have a way of getting what they want. I've had some "great reviews" on my penis, so I'm not reluctant to talk about it. There are "normals" for every part of the human body and that includes the penis...so we will start with averages. The average Caucasian soft penis is four inches long and it stretches to only six inches during erection. Sorry, guys, but that is the truth! The testicles are about two-and-one half inches from top to bottom on most adult men. I am happy to report that I am bigger than the average on both counts. I have a long, loose foreskin with a one-inch overhang (two inches stretched). This always keeps the glans tender, moist and totally covered. With full erection it rolls back to expose the glans tip and meatus. I can get six fingers inside after soaping, and four anytime. My cock is long enough that I suck myself off regularly—two times a week, on the average. After a long day in surgery it's my way of relaxing. It's nice to empty your hot cock into some handsome man's throat, but it is especially nice when it's your own...you can't get disease from yourself. □

SKIN WRAP

Well, if anyone could put together a two-hour package of uncut men from various ethnic and regional backgrounds, Old Reliable could. And they have. VT 38: Arkansas Luggage is a combination of new and familiar material from the vaults of this relentless company.

There are too many men to count on this direct-video cassette, but highlights are in abundance: a three-way jack off by three young men from Arkansas, each sporting ample "luggage"; Tough Little Terry, a 5'4" package of muscle, tattoos, and skin-a-plenty; Dirty Ron's Little Brother (Dirty Ron is a staple of Old Reliable's VT series, sleazy of nature and dirty of mouth), and Leroy Lovejoy and his cheesy foreskin. Add a hairy uncut Palestinian, a thick-tooled Latino, a long-muscled and long-dicked Black; plus a wealth of short takes of the best uncut models from previous Old Reliable videos: that's what you get with Arkansas Luggage.

In case you've never seen an Old Reliable VT number, this company tends to concentrate on non-commercial models (few porn stars here) and goes after street toughs as well as the boys next door. Mostly solo jack-offs, sometimes a duo or group circle jerk, and as of late, specially designed collections featuring men of the same breed (all uncut, all hairy chested, all Black, etc). Arkansas Luggage runs two hours and is priced at $59.00 (plus $2.50 postage/handling), and a signed statement of age is required. Old Reliable, 1625 N. Wilcox No. 107, Hollywood, CA 90028.

HIGH-TECH HARD-ON BLUES

If you've seen the first two video tapes from Adam & Company, Foreskin Fantasy One and Foreskin Fantasy Two, then you'd probably be beside yourself at the prospect of a feature-length project from these foreskin artists. After all, their work in the first two videos was so pure and so fine that the judges for the 1985 Gay Erotic Awards gave them a special award, outside the regular categories, for their unique artistic vision.

The worst possible scenerio might be Adam & Company overreaching themselves with their first feature, biting off more skin than they could chew, so to speak. And they did.

The story of Modern Men, Modern Toys is choice: an evening in the life of a young man whose leisure activities are devoted to sex, embracing and utilizing every facet of the modern computer-inspired technological age: from a voice-activated computer-maintained home to the latest video entertainment hard-and-soft ware. He even has a vid-phone. You can imagine the possibilities.

His computer-maintained home greets him when he walks in the door, tells him who's called, what events have transpired during the day, what plans he's made for the evening—even when his bathwater is ready. Programmed for his personal needs and enjoyment, the computer remembers his favorite boyfriends, reminds him which numbers he enjoyed, who he wants to see again...and when. In sort, a constant companion with a mind like a steel trap in a gutter.

Modern Men, Modern Toys: the men run the gamut, from the dark stranger who appears at poolside, to the clean-cut (and gutter-minded) hunks out to make technology sexual. Photos by Adam & Company

He relaxes in front of a huge video projection screen and watches the latest, newest videoporn; receives vidphone calls (one of which is the hottest obscene phone call ever conceived) and surveys the sexual world around him. He can replay last night's encounter. He can rerun his greatest sexual conquests. All conspires to get him hard, get him off, and keep him sexually enchanted.

Enchanting. Absolutely enchanting. For the first 30 minutes you feel you are in the company of visionaries who have taken every sexual cliché and every aspect of the computer/leisure age and transformed them into a gay man's Valhalla.

The voice of the home computer tells the protagonist that he should start getting dressed; he has an invitation to attend the opening of a new sexspace. You wait with baited breath to see how the rest of the world be will transformed by Modern Men, Modern Toys perspective of the sexual-electronic age.

Unfortunately, this is where the video falls apart. The next hour is taken up with what must be the longest orgy in video-recorded history. Although there are a number of uncut beauties at this mega-event, there is also the tedium of watching a set group of people have sporadic sex for a very long time.

Okay, okay--this isn't billed as another in the Foreskin Fantasy series, so there aren't a lot of uncut dicks around; or rather there are as many cut ones as uncut ones. Democracy in action, and all that. And, okay, so Adam & Company is trying to appeal to a larger segment of the qav video audience.

I can get by with the uncut cocks that do pop up in this story; I watch a lot of porn video and I know that circumcised cocks outnumber their uncut counterparts about 10-to-1.

And while there are attempts made to keep the viewer aware of who is doing what to whom in the long orgy sequence--much of what is being done has been done before and done superbly in the past in features like Closed Set One, Christopher Rage's Orgy, and Oil Rig 99. Ultimately the orgy makes you long to return to the situation at the beginning of the story and stay there.

The reach may have been too far. Although the most complicated aspect of Modern Men, Modern Toys (the space-age home and its owner) is superbly realized, the problem may well be that the story moved on when it should have stayed right where it was and extrapolated the unique environment of the original premise.

Another distraction is the quality of the video itself. The first two titles from this production company were breathtakingly crisp and defined. Here, there is a softness to the look of the video that runs counter to the material being presented. From Star Wars to Dune we have come to expect the future to have hard-edged surfaces and high resolution; both previously demonstrated by Adam & Company and neither beyond their capabilities.

The soundtrack is in keeping with the theme; the casting is fine (Daniel Holt appears during the orgy sequence and demonstrates his expertise at fellating uncut men, a natural choice); the camerawork (save for its overall softness) on par with Adam & Company's usually high standards.

You'll love the first thirty minutes, but you'll probably want to spend the next hour reprogramming your home computer.

Modern Men, Modern Toys stars Max Montoya, Sterling Cox, Jack Black, Chris Allen, Dig Richards, and Daniel Holt. Running time is 90 minutes. Price is $79.00 plus $5 postage/handling, and a signed statement of age is required. Adam & Company, 7985 Santa Monica Blvd, Suite 109/209, West Hollywood, CA 90046.
