O' MAN, THE STRIFE YOU FACE IS YOUR CREATION.
IN IGNORING MY LAWS OF NATURE, YOU HAVE POLLUTED MY WATERS OF LIFE. MY BREATH, THE ATMOSPHERE, IS MIXED WITH THE GASSES OF GREED.

I NEED NOT SUFFER, OR PAY THE PRICE. YOU
ROLL THE DICE IN A LOSING GAMBLE WHERE I HAVE THE ODDS. I MADE THE GAME OF LIFE.
THE RULES ARE MINE.

EACH ACT NOW PLANNED TO CLEAN UP YOUR MESS, IS BLESSED NOT BY ME, BUT BY YOUR MASTERS OF
IGNORANCE AND GREED. YOU CANNOT SUCCEED
BECAUSE YOU EXPECT TO PROFIT BY THE PROCESS OF THE CLEANSING.

SO, I AM FORCED TO UPSET YOUR WAYS, BY MY LAW OF RECIPROCATION, AND WASH THE FACE OF MY PLANET CLEAN AGAIN.

Eighteen Years In Publication

VERIFIED AGAIN

Livermore, California: Scientist Joseph L. Brady and associates Edna M. Carpenter and Francis H. McMahon announced the existence of a planet beyond Pluto. These people are computer scientists at the University of California Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

Brady states intolerable errors in the time table of Halley's Comet indicate there has to be a tenth planet beyond Pluto, the outermost known planet orbiting around our Sun. Mathematical calculations indicate the gravitational action of this tenth planet could account for the unexplained orbital deviations of Halley's Comet.

The team of scientists, led by Brady, named the proposed planet "X". According to the scientists, the planet would be 300 times more massive than our Earth. They calculate it would take 512 Earth years for planet "X" to make one orbit around the Sun.

In the November 1, 1953 issue of the "Proceedings" we printed, on page 2, the location of a planet beyond Pluto. This was 20 years before orthodox scientists verified our data.

The scientists admit it would be like looking for a needle in a haystack to locate it, even with powerful telescopes.

Our information on this "10th planet" is that they will never find it with optical telescopes because the planet does not reflect light. It absorbs light and is filled with massive holes very much like a sponge.

We are gratified to see scientific people of recognition again verify our information.

So let's turn our radio telescopes on the orbit of planet "X" to find it.

Our space friends, who gave us this information in 1953, said they call the planet "Tarr".

CROSSES
CIRCLED - SINGLE AND DOUBLE

Down through history crosses have been used as symbols for religion, danger, and other purposes.

The upright cross  has a background of "the burden of man", "the crucifixion of Christ", and the marker placed over graves as the symbol of eternal rest.

The doublecross is known as the act of deceit and dirty dealing.

Suddenly in this time of world-wide tension and disorder, the circled cross appears, upside down with the horizontal crossbar broken, as a symbol of "peace".

As far back as 60 A.D., the records of ancient Rome show that the Emperor Nero used this symbol as "the sign of the broken Jew", to designate an anti God expression. In the writings of Rudolph Koch, he describes this ancient symbol as "a death symbol of man", "a witches foot" and it was well known as the symbol of Satan. The cross upside down with the arms broken symbolized death and evil, and when enclosed in a circle is supposed to bring grief and destruction to the wearer. This symbol  was branded on the bodies of Gypsies and Jews in 1936-1939, in the Spanish Civil War, and appeared on death certificates of German soldiers under Hitler. It was used by black magicians and was said to have mystical properties.

It is astounding that this symbol of death and destruction has been foisted off on innocent young people and used as a symbol of "peace".

Any major library can be checked in references on signs and symbols and this symbol can be verified as anything but a symbol of "peace". Those who use this symbol have been doublecrossed.

ASTROLOGY - ASTROPHYSICS AND ASTRONAUTICS

Astrology, is defined in the dictionary, as " a pseudoscience claiming to foretell the future by studying the supposed influence of the relative positions of the Moon, Sun, and Stars on human affairs".

Astronautics, is defined in the dictionary, as "the science that deals with the problems of travel in outer space, especially to the Moon and other planets".

Astrophysics, in the dictionary is defined as "the science of the physical properties and phenomena of the stars, planets, etc."

Now the three all have to do with the stars, moon, and planets, except astrology also has to do with human affairs. Human affairs have to do with the other two, especially billions in taxes to make them go; so up until now astrology has been a pseudoscience.

Pseudo, as defined in the dictionary is "to deceive, a combining form meaning, fictitious, pretended, sham, counterfeit, illusory, not corresponding to reality". So according to the dictionary definitions, astrology is an illusory fictitious sham.

The Russian and N.A.S.A. space programs, plus Venus and Mars flights, are beginning to reveal that the "influence on human affairs" of Astrology are not pseudo after all.

Medical science has already established, from past records, that there are more people committed to asylums at the period of the Full Moon than at any other time of the month. Our space program has established the following data. This data is only the released information from American and Russian space flights. You can bet there is much more being withheld.

Grasp the fact that you, and me, and every living thing are influenced by these external forces of the Sun, the Moon, and the Stars.

Nuclear particles coming from outside of our solar system change the weather. Micro radio waves coming from outer space are both essential and detrimental to human health and are bombarding the Earth.

Plants show biochemical changes every 4 to 7 days in monthly cycles. These changes last from 1 to 16 hours.

Russian scientists, Dr. Chizhevsky, discovered that our bodies are a receiver and every cell is in resonance with forces generated by the Sun.

Sun spots and prominences produce cyclic mass mental disorders and other cycles of the Sun produce energies as vital as water, and air.

As we have printed before in the "Proceedings", space is not empty. Now Russian and N.A.S.A. scientists have announced that space has an 8 cycle per second rhythm which is the same resonance as the waves of the human brain.

In the "Proceedings" of December 15, 1953, 18 years before the verification of both Russian and N.A.S.A. space probes, we printed the following, on page 7: "Between the breathing of these two primary forces, He created rhythm. This brings about a wave motion which consolidates the individual lines into 'bands'."

Now we know from the space probes that this rhythm of the waves is 8 cycles per second.

So as the planets, and Moon and Sun have conjunctions, squares, and trines, one can see why "human affairs" are affected.

It has been found that heart transplant recipients have the rhythm of their own heart continue and the rhythm of the transplanted heart overlapping each other. The rejection, by the body, of a new heart results in the death of the patient because these two rhythms are not in resonance, or harmonics with each other. Therefore they set up a gradually increasing discord that results in death when they nullify each other.

We may find in our space research that there is a heart rhythm in space as well as a brain rhythm. In this we may find the solution to the many heart attacks as a result of our space research.

One thing is being established, that humans are as individual as their fingerprints, that we all have micro-wave differences and we are all creations of cosmic influences on a universal scale.

Since astrology says that these external influences start at the place and the time of ones birth, it can be seen why we are all different by a second, or a mile.

If you are born on a train going 60 miles per hour, there is a point on the track, and the clock, where the influences of the Sun, Moon, and Planets start affecting you, relative to the rotation point of the Earth, relative to the influence from other planets, the Sun, and the Moon in their orbit positions at that moment. Science says the Moon raises billions of tons of water in tides in the oceans, so it must have some effect on the plus 70% water makeup of humans.

Space itself has a rhythm that makes it stay space. If this pure eternal rhythm is interrupted by a planet, a sun, or a moon, the reaction will manifest polarity wise in an emission, or interruption, of this space energy. Having got stuck, in the tree of knowledge, on the limbs labeled electricity and magnetism, the scientists haven't developed instruments that work on the life force of the tree, and discount the roots, trunk, and other limbs, which are just as valid as the limbs of electricity and magnetism.

A fish, recently found deep in the Indian Ocean, conforms exactly with fossil forms said to be millions of years old. There was no evolution of the fish for millions of years.

Now that science has not abandoned the evolution theory, from evidence found on the Earth, they are being forced to abandon it by evidence found in space. Everything is what it is by the Eternal Intelligence of the infinite energy of space. Matter manifestations like people, planets, suns and fish, are adaptations of energy, all relative to each other in a universal rhythm of eternity. Anything that is, cannot ever not be. It may change to conform to some other energy, or matter, rhythm, or environment, where it fits for a time. We are stuck with ourselves where we are, in the rhythm of space, and time.

A check back on crop losses reveals that boll weevils, locusts, and moths, come in waves over world-wide areas with outpouring of radiations in high Sun cycles. In between these periods, they disappear as if they never existed.

Scientific instruments, in the deep space flights, have revealed that all planets affect the Sun, and the Sun then affects the "Magnetopause" around the Earth, and the "Magnetopause" in turn affects our weather, all on Sun cycles. This conforms to what Nikola Tesla said, "that we are pawns of external forces".

Back in the "Proceedings" of November 15, 1953 on page 3, we said, "seven stages of universal law apply directly to the being of man". These seven were listed as: gender, cause, polarity, vibration, rhythm, relativity, and mentality. These manifest everything by interchange between them .

The stars, solar systems, and galaxies, are all radiating influences that affect all other bodies like the Earth. We cannot understand these influences by thinking they don't exist.

THE NORTH MAGNETIC POLE

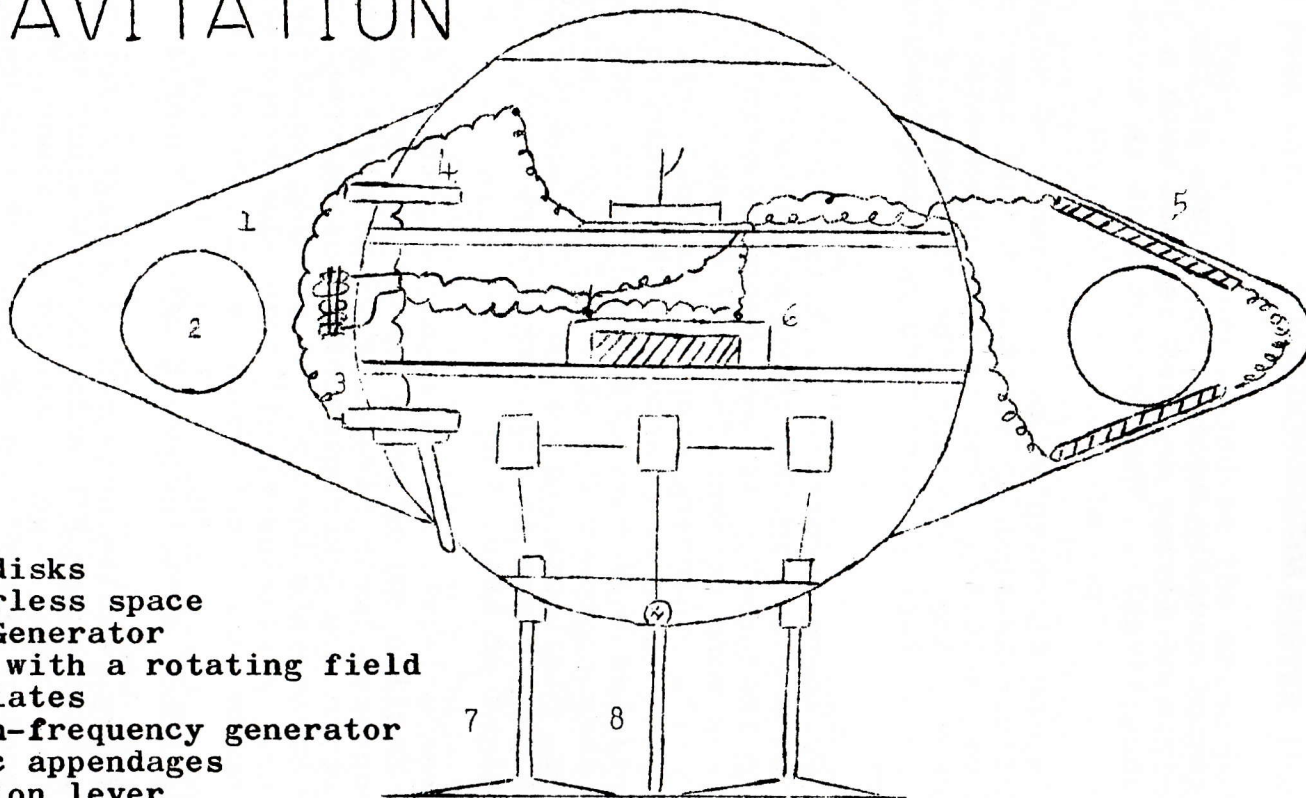

According to the latest maps, the North Magnetic Pole is now at 76° North Latitude and 101° West Longitude. Twenty years ago it was at 72° North Latitude and 98° West Longitude.

Twenty years ago it was on the Northern tip of Prince of Wales Island, now it is on the Northern tip of Bathurst Island. It is now 14° South of the Earth's geophysical North Pole. It is moving 5° every 20 years directly toward the geophysical North Pole.

It is predicted that the movement will accelerate as the two poles get closer together. With 14° now separating them and rate of movement 5° every 20 years, this should bring them together in 40 to 50 years.

According to theory, when they come together, the Earth will tilt on its axis relative to its orbit around the Sun. This could accelerate much faster than anticipated in its present speed. Massive changes of continents will accompany this shift of the poles.

ANTIGRAVITATION

The argument usually used by opponents of the extrastellar origin of flying saucers is that such a journey would be unrealizable. They assert that it would take centuries.

According to Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity, the speed limit is that of light. At that speed mass would become infinite. This is the corner-stone of their argumentation. However, the discovery of new particles in nuclear physics more and more challenges this theory.

Gerald Feinberg, professor of theoretical physics at Columbia University, in New York, published in PHYSICAL REVIEW (1967) his new theory concerning TACHYONS -- a word derived from the Greek 'tachyos', meaning "fast". Feinberg supplied mathematical proof that there existed a counterpart to Einsteinian mass, namely particles that move infinitely fast, but become slower as they approach the speed of light. According to Feinberg, "tachyons" are a BILLION TIMES FASTER than light, yet they cease to exist whence reduced to the speed of light or below it.

Three years later, on the twenty-eighth of August, 1970, two English scientists, John Allen and Geoffrey Endean announced their discovery of an electromagnetic field of which its "characteristics alone would prove erroneous Einstein's theory". According to their observations, particles within this electromagnetic field locomote at a speed about TWICE that of light.

Two BIG HOLES shot through Einsteins theory!

The primary results obtained in Antigravitation research shot another BIG hole through Einstein's theory: Dr. Marcel Pages, born in Perpignon, France in 1904, doctor in medicine and nuclear engineering, in one of his post-revolutionary works wrote: "In only a few months I could give France the number one position in the space race through the materialization of a chemical-utilizing engine (eventually employing nuclear fuel) that would leave cyclopic American or Russian rockets of classical conception far behind: applying the antigravitation principle, this spacecraft could rush into interstellar space FASTER THAN LIGHT".

Dr. Page's works are based on the principal that there is no gravitational attraction in nature, there are only repulsive or 'repellent' forces; contrary to what has come to be considered as one of the essential bases in traditional science, he explains, objects are not attracted by internal terrestrial forces or by any other planet, but rather, HELD DOWN by a force of space. The apparent result is the same and does not, therefore, contradict Newton's law. Newton effectively defined the effects of gravitational action, but he did not explain its source.

The general principle of antigravitation follows:

"A body falls towards Earth or ricochets back toward the cosmos accordingly as its density is greater or lesser than that of the environment in which it ingresses", e.g.; cork in water; hydrogen balloon in air. Consequently, if energy is heavy, it must create around a planet a particular energetic atmosphere analogous to that planets gaseous atmosphere, taking notice, however, of a few fundamental differences. This energetic atmosphere must have a mass represented by W/C^2 . Its mean density is, a priori, inferior to that of matter since the material body falls into it.

On the other hand, if it could be possible to determine an energetic climate of a lesser density than the ambient environment IN the center or heart of our gaseous atmosphere, there would occur the manifestation of an ascending repulsion.

Dr. Pages explains: "We must notice the complete analogy between the Archimedian reaction of an airless balloon in the atmosphere that is crushed by atmospheric pressures of many thousands of tons of which the ascendant force is only due to the weight differences of displaced air, and the archimedian reaction between two hemispheres charged positively and negatively that are crushed by colossal forces but of which the elevating force is solely due to the difference between the mathematical mass of the energy that has been transformed by manipulative interference inside the balloon and that of the ambient energy. Calculating this force becomes elementary when one is acquainted with the knowledge that Mass-energy divided by the speed of light squared; $M=E/C^2$ ".

And Dr. Pages continues: "The gravitational force can be neutralized by producing an inversed field of the electromagnetic nature. Any engine or rocket capable of producing such a field will escape gravity and limitlessly actuate itself, guided simply by field orientation."

Basing his works on this theory, Dr. Marcel Pages has determined the characteristics of an experimental prototype of a spaceship - he is founder-member of C.I.R.G., an international research center on gravitation created at Rome, Italy, in 1961. Following are given the principle headlines of his prototype...

1. Weight cancellation is realizable by causing a charge of electrons, extracted from the body-to-be degravitated to rotate at the speed of light around that degravitated body...
2. This degravitation is, theoretically, accompanied by the neutralization of the efficacious mass, -- thus the inertia of the system. In consequence, a minimal acceleration in this state provokes phenomenal speeds.
3. Proceeding from these notions, a machine based on antigravitational mechanisms will have its external appearance in perfect conformity with the shape of the well known "flying saucer": a central sphere encircled by two inversed disks.
4. Within the central metallic sphere, the pilot's cabin would be situated.
5. Around this sphere would be an internally hollow and airless disk made out of isolating matter, like ceramic.
6. An electron generator with thorium or tungsten filament(s) linked with the sphere and reserved within the space between the airless inversed disks permits the extraction of the charge.
7. A di-, tri-, or polyphase generator fed by high frequency oscillators would drive the charge about the sphere in between the disks.
8. Charged plates would ornament the exteriority of the isolated disks on the top and undersides and, being connected to the ultra-high-frequency generators, will create the polyphase system or a rotating field. According to recent calculations, this field can rotate at speeds superior to C, (the speed of light).

9. The driving-synchronization of the field is obtained by connecting the grills of the power-oscillator to the cavities of a magnetron.

And Dr. Pages resumes: "Thus the system decisively presents itself as an electro-magnetic flying saucer put in ultra-rapid rotation by a ground-to-air spaceship carrying generator.

Theoretically, the thoric electronic field should, once accelerated, maintain its energy for a practically long time, owing to the fact that a circular current contracts and sustains in a ultra-conductive environment.

The degravitative energy so accelerated, we find ourselves in front of a giant hydrogen atom of which the rotating charge should keep up at an energetic level that is adjustable in function to the required acceleration.

We are to note, on the other hand, that the reversal of this acceleration (functioned by the locally obtained energetic vacuum), is possible not only at the terrestrial gradient, but by the theoretical thrust that would push it up to a fantastically high elevation.

It is possible therefore to be ejected out to the cosmos at theoretically illimited speeds; a cubic centimeter of absolute emptiness causing a powerful repulsion of hundreds of millions of tons!

We want to thank those few of our readers who were inspired to send in gifts of money to keep our operations going.

ADDITIONAL PYRAMID DATA

The American Indians knew the powers of preservation of the pyramid principle. No one knows where they found out about it, but it was used by them down through their generations to preserve deer and buffalo meat.

They hung the meat strips in a pyramid-shaped tepee and when the meat was preserved to the right time, it could be stored and used indefinitely without spoiling.

When a rotten piece of meat, with maggots crawling in it, is placed in the small pyramid, the maggots crawl out of the meat, and out of the pyramid, and die around the outside.

One of our associates made a pyramid, big enough to put his head in, and suspended the pyramid from the ceiling by strings, oriented so it maintained the faces North, South, East, and West. When he walked under it and put his head up inside of it, the only results were violent headaches.

The pyramid shaped ray, that extends below the base, fans out on the same angles and goes down through floors and seems to penetrate the very Earth. Vern Cameron found that an invisible pyramid form remains for a week, or more, where a pyramid has sat for a long period of time and then moved to another place.

The rod of force which goes upward from the apex at the top of the pyramid seems to do fantastic things. It has a density that bounces dowsing rods off of it. It will create a static electrical charge in aluminum foil wrapped around a bottle. It appears to have regenerative effects, and as some people have reported who stayed several hours on top of the pyramid at Giza in Egypt, they felt younger. Maybe we have an elderly reader who will make a 24" pyramid, and orient it rigid on the floor, and stand over it every day and see if this regenerative force will bring him added vitality. There are so many things to try. Just remember the bottom forces are detrimental and the top forces are beneficial.

No structure in the world compares with the Great Pyramid of Giza. It is obvious that this tremendous amount of work was not done to make a tomb. It covers an area equivalent to eight square blocks of any modern city. Its mass is composed of about 2½ million separate blocks of stone. Each block weighs 2 to 80 tons.

The Napoleon expedition to study the pyramids in 1799, calculated there were enough stones in the Great Pyramid to construct a wall around the boundaries of France ten feet high.

All of the churches built in Great Britain in the past 1900 years do not contain as much stone as the Great Pyramid does. It is estimated that the weight of the Great Pyramid is about six and one-half million tons.

Anyone interested in reading the amazing data of the pyramid, should study the book, "The Great Pyramid", by Davidson.

IN MEMORY

It is with sorrow that we notify our readers of the death of Vern L. Cameron. Vern died March 28, 1972 at 75 years of age.

Vern was one of our valued associates from 20 years past. He probably did more research on the pyramid principle than anyone else.

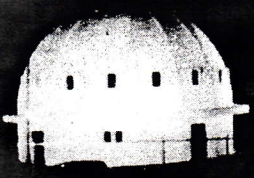

Our condolences go out to his wife Catharine and son Lester.
