INTERDIMENSIONAL SEDITION

The reader should keep in mind when considering the following report that your present correspondent has never directly seen "Dharma" but has only heard on audeo tapes the voice of the spirit guide named "Commander Ceres-Hatonn" as this entity forcefully uses the woman pseudonymed "Dharma" as a communications channel. In this respect, one positive theme in the communications of this peculiar hybrid between the contemporary grassroots political stance of the far right militia movement in the USA and antiquarian concepts of the fusion of the Egyption sun god "Akhnaton" with the Roman prosperity goddess "Ceres" is automatically respected.

At frequent intervals throughout his/her presentation Commander Ceres-Hatonn stresses that we are all beings of light and that issues of race, skin color, creed and national identity are less important than the fundamental light consciousness of the entity as part of the process of cosmic evolution. I do not think any enlightened person could possibly disagree with this basic concept. But, unfortunately, both the specific political and social opinions expressed by the spirit guide "Commander Ceres-Hatonn" and the Commander's slighting references to the physical channel "Dharma" are of major concern to those who might wonder about the actual present day terrestrial connections of those presenting "Commander Ceres-Hatonn" as both a sun god and an extraterrestrial.

At one point in his/her lecture, after discussing concepts of illusion as versus reality, the Commander explains that the spirit medium "Dharma" is wearing sunglasses indoors not because she is a jet set channel like J.Z.Knight (Rama) but because the eyes of the channel are sensitive. The Commander asserts: "This is the real McCoy, and I'm having a hell of a good time here."

The listener experienced in spirit mediumship does not doubt the reality of a spirit guide active in this situation and yet a lingering doubt remains. Why does the sunglasses issue come up at all? Is "Dharma" medicated to keep her knocked out in trance? Or is something else wrong?

The meeting recorded on the audio tapes passed to your present correspondent by a sincerely concerned Oklahoma City Rosicrucian was held at mid-March of 1997 at a deliberately unspecified location in the Southwest area of the USA. The primary speaker is introduced to the audience as the "Oracle Ceres-Hatonn". The voice of this Oracle is a firm, mature woman's voice with a Southwestern accent.

Colloquial phrases such as "hell of a good time" are utilized by the speaker throughout the presentation. This gives the event somewhat of the flavor of a revival speech by a lady preacher. But as the reader will soon discern the content of the lecture is mainly political and not religious. The content of the talk does conform to the idea that a disembodied "Commander" of a military nature is speaking of military metaphysics.

The opening remarks of the Commander refer to three bank accounts scheduled to be opened by the "organization" he/she addresses (the exact identity of this group is cleverly not specified on the tape) in Europe in April of 1997. Then the topic of concern shifts to claims of alliances with several third world militant groups now active in the USA. Yet there is a significant lack of consistency on issues of inter-racial alliance as the Commander later refers to South African leader Nelson Mandela as "a dangerous man" and asserts that "counterparts" of the Commander Ceres-Hatonn organization located near Johannesburg, South Africa are experiencing clandestine telephone surveillance from the authorities there similar to the surveillance experienced by the "Commander Hatonn" group in the United States.

As the alert reader will be able to discern, the following section of the Commander's talk also has the "reversible cloak" quality of the Luciferian numbering 666--999 given as one of the Ceres-Hatonn identities when the Commander was ritually guiding spirit medium Tuella's Solar Cross expedition through areas of California and the Yucatan peninsula.

It was asserted by the Commander in March of 1997 that the United States government was freezing certain Mexican, Iranian and Iraqi bank accounts for irrational reasons since the size of these accounts indicate that the major portion of the global drug trade occurs in the USA. Actually, this is an astute statement and it is exactly for this reason that US authorities would want to freeze foreign accounts connected with the drug trade.

The major question here is simply that since we are listening to an entity which has previously identified itself unfaithfully through another spirit medium as "Lucifer aka 666--999" and also has stated through the present spirit medium "Dharma" that one should "Do things as cleverly as they have done them to you": Is reference to the drug trade issue a red herring in this context?

One of the most important issues for Commander Ceres-Hatonn is the alleged membership of former president and CIA executive George Bush in the "Skull and Bones Society" at Yale University and a speculation upon what sort of covert international allegiances may stem from dark occult practices among members of this Ivy League fraternity.

It is easy to see why the Commander might be concerned about former US President and CIA executive George Bush and other Ivy League graduates in the USA as possible adepts of "black magick". It takes an adept to discern an adept. Only persons versed in sorcery and magickal disciplines are able truly to discern the possible actions and motivations of a Luceferian, trickster entity such as "Commander Hatonn". For this same "Commander Ceres-Hatonn" has made an entire taped presentation through "Dharma" in a strange gibberish language which to the non-linguistic ear resonates somewhere between German and Dutch. One supposes this presentation might be taken as the native extraterrestrial language of the Solar Cross spaceship crew but actually it sounds more like experiments with spirit mediums made by the Nazi black magick group "Anenerbe" under the auspices of the National Socialist government of Germany during World War II. In fact, some occultists argue that Adolf Hitler himself may have been the mediumistic channel for Luciferian forces wishing to wage terrestrial warfare.

GYPSY GOATS IN THE GARDEN

In the book THE GARDEN OF ATON compiled by Nora Boyles in 1993 Commander Ceres-Hatonn is reported as accusing the Masons and Freemasons of unspecified black magickal practices. The centerpiece of these accusations is the illustration of the "Goat of Mendes" as taken from the "Transcendental Magic" of Eliphas Levi. Here the reader is asked to remember the notably strange talismanic placing of white plastic "Philosophical Crosses" which match a symbol in the "History of Magic" by Eliphas Levi under the electric and telephone boxes above the cellar window at the upstate New York residence of your present correspondent.

The same interest group (Solar Cross as guided by Commander Ceres-Hatonn) as has attempted to utilize the talismanic magick of the "Third Temple" published in the compendium of renowned adept Eliphas Levi seems to be directly accusing the Masons and Freemasons of utilizing the symbol of Baphomet rendered by this same adept Eliphas Levi for horrible purposes. Yet there are several flaws in these Baphomet accusations as published in THE GARDEN OF ATON. One of these flaws is actually funny.

Editor Boyles states in describing the Levi Baphomet illustration: "...the lower abdomen shows an unknown (to me) symbol or device--perhaps relating to what Mr. Pike (a Masonic author) calls electromagnetic energy." This "unknown symbol" is obviously a stylized phallus. Baphomet is not in essence a "black magick" goat but is a fertility symbol utilized by those who wish to create a "magickal childe" using the sexual act as a metaphor and/or springboard for interdimensional potency. Anyone who would in the modern day term the Baphomet illustration "evil" simply because it is a raunchy goat is suspect as either being deliberately deceptive and/or having a significant mental blockage as regards physical sexuality.

But all of the confusion about the "Goat of Mendes" is not primarily sexual but perhaps may stem from an initial mistranslation by Eliphas Levi and/or other French writers who followed the fashion of translating Spanish, gypsy and Arabic systems of divination for the amusement of the aristocracy. In a Spanish-English dictionary published in 1941 by the Follett Company of Chicago, the Spanish word for "antelope" is given as "cabra libica". In more modern dictionaries, the word antelope is the same in Spanish and in English. But the word for "goat" in Spanish remains "cabra". A "cabra libica" would be a Libyan and/or lightweight goat. Originally, the antelope was identified as an African animal.

"Mendigo" is the Spanish word for "beggar". So the verbal image translated as "Goat of Mendes" may actually be the "antelope of the Libyan beggars" or "antelope of the gypsies". This, of course, is simply an ancient, horned fertility god such as is still to be seen in the masks of the Tyrolian Alps and elsewhere the nomadic people traveled, leaving behind curious dances and playing cards.

One of the international "laws of the road" is that travelers should always leave behind some indication of a dangerous person or pathway if luck favors them and they walk out of a "devils croft" unharmed.
