Questions from readers:

“Why, in this journal, do you feel that the political and the supernatural are inevitably so intertwined?”

Editor: In the U.S., high school and university educated people have been taught to arbitrarily “clarify” a flow of ideas and to think “rationally”, planning ahead with flow charts and removing “observer reaction”, deliberately moving one step away from the action being described or analyzed

In the opinion of the Yankee Oracle Gazette, that’s the reason for “intelligence agency” failures, both governmental and corporate.

Guerilla forces have long ago realized that what our culture terms “remote viewing”, ESP, telekinesis and so on is not inevitably fanciful or “airy fairy” but actually does work in the practical, strategic sense. This is simply because, in the practical sense, if subtle cues can be given in a way which cannot be e-recorded in any conventional sense, the strategy will not be able to be pre-perceived and anticipated by the Opponent.

In the Taoist martial arts systems of China, Japan and Indonesia, now utilized globally because these systems work in the practical sense, there are skills which relate to this situation. One acts only “on the moment”, ready and with no pre-arranged plan.

In linear compartmentalization of the geographic situation, we are surprised by the ideas that criminals who bombed the Madrid, Spain commuter transit system were also found to have maps of the New York City, USA, transit system, many thousands of miles away. It is the traveling individual who has these destructive plans and not any central “strategic boss location” because the individual, being clandestine, will need to act independently. .

In the opinion of the Yankee Oracle Gazette, current official investigative strategies which are based on systemic analysis only, without evaluation and response regarding specific individuals, are pre-destined for failure. As one example, I had communicated several months before the Madrid terrorist bombing of commuter trains on March 11, 2004 that I sensed a plan to bomb commuter trains along the New York—Washington, D.C. Amtrack corridor. Had consultants, including myself, taken my apprehension more seriously and asked specific questions, specific individuals might have been located prior to any completion of terrorist action as these individuals in reality were in the U.S. or paying attention to the U.S. situation at the time my clairvoyant premonition occurred. Later in this Gazette I will provide some research “leads” which, if taken to refer to specific individuals and circumstances, might be of assistance both to private individuals and to law enforcement.

Madrid Bomb Suspect Had Sketch of New York Rail Station
Spanish Newspaper Says Data Turned over to U.S

MADRID, Spain (March 2) - The Madrid train bombers had detailed plans of New York's Grand Central Station, indicating they also planned to attack there, a Spanish newspaper reported Wednesday. Hand-made drawings and other "highly specialized technical information" about the station were found on a computer disk seized from the home of one of the suspects, El Mundo reported, citing sources close to the investigation. The disk was confiscated within two weeks of the attacks on March 11, 2004, that killed 191 people in Madrid, but Spanish investigators did not warn the FBI and the CIA until December when the full scope of the technical information became clear, El Mundo said. "Prosecutors at the High Court have informed the FBI and the CIA that the perpetrators of the March 11 attacks had in their possession plans to attack Grand Central Station in New York," it said. No one was immediately available at the Interior Ministry to comment. The disk was found in the home of a man arrested on suspicion of playing a role in the attacks that rocked Spain three days before a general election, El Mundo said. The suspect, who El Mundo said had a relationship with other men formally accused in the probe, was released from jail but remains under suspicion. His brother is wanted in another investigation into a suspected al Qaeda cell in Spain, it said. Ten bombs hidden in sports bags exploded on board four packed commuter trains last March 11 in an attack claimed by men saying they acted in the name of al Qaeda in Europe in response to Spain sending troops to Iraq and Afghanistan. The same group is suspected of planting a bomb on a high-speed rail line south of Madrid a few days after the deadly attacks, and seven prime suspects later blew themselves up in a suburban Madrid apartment when surrounded by police. Some 70 people have been arrested in the criminal investigation, about half of whom remain in jail or under court supervision. 07:05 03-02-05 Copyright 2005 Reuters Limited. All rights reserved

The Mad Faxes—Political Surrealism

Before we begin any serious discussion of darkly surrealist material received on April 26, 2005 at the Magick Mirror Communications gallery-office location, it should be noted that the "mad faxes" discussed below do parody in form the much discussed "Majestic Documents" supposedly written in the mid-20th Century on an antiquated manual typewriter, and smeared with a number of black marker blotches and deletions. The "mad faxes" I describe here do not pretend to be "official" documents but may be some form of cultist-oriented "official spell-casting". I have written in several ezine articles still online about the fact that the MJ-12 stuff is an obvious, continuing forgery, perhaps by mercenary agents in the British intelligence circles, a scenario somewhat like the "revenge of Marcus Philby", the legendary British triple agent who was in turn betrayed by a U.S. ops double agent. But this is obscure "cultist" rivalry as strange as the focus on your present correspondent's activities by persons leaving plastic "Cross of Serapis" emblems in the side yard, as described in the previous ezine articles. There are also obvious occult markings on the recent "mad faxes" which show knowledge of "Temple of Set" a group I have also researched as being a military-neo-Nazi, as documented in a previous ezine article. The black rectangle shown on the 'mad Fax' below may relate to "Temple of Set"'s Order of the Trapezoid or it may simply be the ancient use of a dark square or rectangle to symbolize "the devil" or the material regions, thought by some Western medieval adepts to be evil. The strangely extended bar code on the page (originally a standard 8.5 X 11 page: note fax date stamp at bottom) may relate to the efforts of certain contemporary techno-shamans to use the numerical frequencies coded in bar code patches to cast spells and hexes.

Mad Fax: April 26, 2005.

I am honored. In a sense by these talismanic charades For Michael Aquino or “Kepher”’s of Temple of Set operation is one of the most effective intel-op strategies in recent history, having infiltrated the neo-Fascist Nazi magick societies with his rather free form and improvisational use of hypnotism and sorcery. But now what does such a duality do when certain people take these bizarre strategies absolutely seriously?

For these last few months have been full of bizarre communications to me and to my Magick Mirror business. Yesterday I got four faxes from a mental institution on Staten Island. I guess they let inmates read the Internet. For the faxes seemed to be a direct response to my posting a snippet of the original manuscript of my novel “OM/NADA” which had been left out of one of my articles posted on the COMBAT DIARIES ezine-- nominally because it’s a jpg hard to upload.. I had, in turn, posted this typescript scan on the "Controversy" page of my site <http://magickmirror.com/> .with a humorous link to the Combat Diaries site ,effectively a PR blurb on the entire article.

Some nut had evidently navigated to this posting during a recreational moment in the solation room—for the typescript quote includes the word “insane” .!

These four “fax sends” on April 26, 2005 were six page faxes with a hand written cover letter on two of them. The rest of the faxed material were pages from someone’s novel written in 1987 (as claimed) about the author’s experiences as a street musician who was telepathically in contact with his audience and could get them to donate money into his hat. Very well written!!! But in exactly the same font as the slip I had posted. I grew suspicious. The clip was typed on a rare item: a 1982 English-Spanish keyboard non-electric Olivetti I bought on 10th Street near 6th Avenue from a dealer I suspected was handling hot merchandise. "Jerry Francis Business Machines". He gave me a hard time but sold it at a very low price. THEREFORE copies of a novel allegedly written in 1987 might be typed on the same model but it is very unlikely. When the machine gave out, I sold it to a dealer in Kingston. N.Y. as a partial tradein for one of the first Brother combo typewriter-word-processing machines that used little disks and a printer. Wanna hear about my guitars now...?? I guess I did tell you about the guitar dealer with the diamond horseshoe ring who gave me a discount for playing the guitar in the shop and drawing in people off the street...

Hey! sound like the plot of the novel fragments faxed to me yeaterday? why, yes. This is why I do not think the FAX incident straight madness. For nurses and orderly have access to a fax in a private institution on Staten Island...right?

Anyway: I am being very careful since I also recall seeing in 1972 when I visited the seaside cottage of a temporary Amherst College graduate a coloring book put out by Process Church Of The Final Judgement. One cannot be too aware of these subtle connections since some of the most effective operatives—intelligence agency and/or corporate—move in shadow realms using only the language of cyber rebus and inference.

In a previous GAZETTE the plight of Mordechai Vanunu was mentioned. Here follows an update on this saga.

In a society with a Free Press Mr. Vanunu's situation may seem incredible but it is a common circumstance in the fringe press—which has a closer overt functional interface with the shadow realm of undercover agency both political and corporate—that such pressure may occur, both in the form of counter-culture blacklisting and in some cases mysterious deaths and disappearances of minor press luminaries who have stumbled across weird and compromising information which they cannot quietly assimilate at the level of “literary bar” conversation.

Israeli Nuclear Whistleblower Vanunu Indicted

By PETER ENAV, AP

JERUSALEM (March 17) - Israeli nuclear whistleblower Mordechai Vanunu was indicted Thursday for violating the terms of his release from prison, the Israeli Justice Ministry said. Vanunu was freed from an Israeli prison in April after completing an 18-year sentence for revealing secrets of Israel's atomic program to the Sunday Times newspaper in London. Under the terms of his release, the former technician at the Israeli nuclear facility in the Negev desert town of Dimona was barred from leaving Israeli territory and contacting foreigners. The restrictions were in force for a year and their extension was expected to come up for consideration in coming weeks. On numerous occasions, Vanunu has tested the limits of his release by granting interviews to foreign news media. He also was stopped by Israeli police on Christmas Eve while attempting to attend Midnight Mass in the West Bank town of Bethlehem, outside his permitted area of travel. Since his release from prison, Vanunu has been living at a

Jerusalem church compound. Israeli authorities have said they fear Vanunu may have more nuclear secrets to share with the world. Vanunu, a Jewish convert to Christianity, has said he has nothing more to disclose and wants to leave the country.

03/17/05 09:28 EST

Mr. Vanunu, of course, is following a relatively predictable pattern in the overt political charades which have been described briefly in international news media. Possibly this is because he is oriented toward conventional nuclear physics and the secular political agenda though nominally a religious convert. With no disrespect intended, it is possible to switch religions more easily if one has a healthy skepticism about religious dogmas of all sorts. But sometimes those clinging to technical or scholarly dogma in context of religious factionalism fail to grasp that their secular strategies may be vulnerable to new and/or alternative findings in the area of scientific inquiry. Such is actually the case with opportunism based solely on current nano-atomic models of electromagnetic structure. For current secular dogma involved the supposition that the human mind and/or attention is the larger or determining factor in “quantum mechanics” as this model of small particle structure has been presented in terms of the inability to measure position and momentum of a small particle at the same time. Conceptually, these mathematical “quantum” models only apply to the limited case in which a measuring apparatus has actually been activated. In other cases, wherein there is no limited measurement disturbance of mass fabric, these models do not apply. In other words, a large portion of the cosmos is being ignored by laboratory nuclear physicists and hardware designers at the present historical moment.

Real Time Cat Shoots Owner

Challenge to Shroedinger Formulations

The problem with the "Is the cat alive or dead?" binary formulation of the uncertainty principle by Schroedinger is simply that the "cat" (self-organizing cosmos) has option as well as the "observer" who may find it alive or dead.

Several years ago I ventured the humorous comment on various Internet lists that the "cat" might shoot the Observer when being viewed--thus acting beyond the binary dead/ alive constraints of the Observer.

This has now literally happened in the U.S. state of Michigan, where other anomalies have also been rumored to be possible—such as disappearing aircraft in the nearby “Great Lakes Triangle” area between the U.S. and Canada. See the article appended below.

Cat Shoots Owner

BATES TOWNSHIP, Mich. (March 10) - A man cooking in his kitchen was shot after one of his cats knocked his 9mm handgun onto the floor, discharging the weapon, Michigan State Police said.

Joseph Stanton, 29, of Bates Township in Iron County, was shot in his lower torso around 6 p.m. Tuesday, the state police post in Iron River reported. He was transported to Iron County Community Hospital.

Michelle Sand, a spokeswoman at the Iron River hospital, said Stanton was treated there before being transferred to Marquette General Hospital for further treatment. But Marcie Miller, a representative of the Marquette facility, said there was no record of the hospital receiving a patient by that name.

A telephone message seeking comment was left Wednesday at Stanton's home.

State police said he was cooking at his stove when the cat knocked the loaded gun off the kitchen counter behind him. AP-NY-03-10-05 1042EST

In the past, there were several “fact is stranger than fiction” pulp magazines issued regularly which simply carried “tales of the unusual” without elaborate explanation and interpretation. I keep several of these old magazines out on side table s in my home simply to remind me that these magazines did exist and that the contents are still viable today.. On the Internet, there is one correspondent, John Winston, who seems dedicated to keeping this spirit of direct experiential reporting alive in the present day. Two of his postings are included in this issue of the Gazette.

One of these postings was originally published in Fortean Times online magazine and concerns the tale of a “space baby” which occurred 45 years ago. An excerpted version of this article follows here. For the full version, please consult:

The Space Baby

Modern ufology is crowded with lurid, even sordid, tales of abductions, anal probes and scary "greys".

ANDY ROBERTS tells of a more innocent age when a Midlands housewife could have her pregnancy announced by a tall, fair-haired Venusian without even upsetting her husband.

On 2 June 2004, if he were still alive, Matthew Appleton would have celebrated his 45th birthday. A British citizen, Matthew may be ignorant of the fact that he is also a "space baby", born of a human via the agency of a being from Venus. His destiny was predicted long before his birth, when the Venusian prophesied to his mother that Matthew would become a "leader of men". To understand how this strange state of affairs came about we must go back to the 1950s and the heyday of the British enthusiasm for flying saucers.

Fentham Road stands in what was once a prosperous area of Aston, a suburb of Birmingham, in the industrial heartland of England's West Midlands. Today the area is faded and run down, with police sirens blaring frequently in the distance. It's an unexceptional place with nothing remaining to identify it as the location of a series of bizarre encounters between an ordinary housewife and emissaries from the planet Venus.

... 19 November 1957 was just an ordinary winter's day, with Cynthia Appleton going about her routine domestic routines. Then, shortly after lunchtime, her world-view was utterly transformed.

Less than two months later, in the Birmingham Evening Despatch, Cynthia Appleton gave the first public account of what had taken place: "It was early afternoon. My children were having a rest and I went into the lounge where the baby was asleep in her pram. There, just a few feet away, stood this slender wh-te-skinned man. He had blond hair. He was the same as any human being, except that he wore a kind of dome over his head and a tight-fitting all-in-one suit of a grey metallic color. I was rooted to the spot - and terrified - until he spoke. He said we were going about space flight the wrong way and that men of his world - which he did not name - would come to Earth before we reached theirs."

This initial public statement was, however, just the barest outline of Appleton's experiences, which developed over a three-year period. UFO researcher and clinical psychologist Dr John Dale interviewed Appleton many times over this period. Dale is missing in action, his notes lost, but ufologist Jenny Randles copied some of them, giving us a fuller picture of Cynthia Appleton's claims. It seems that events had actually begun on 16 November, when Cynthia had suffered a blackout while doing the housework. This, her visitors later informed her, was a "failed attempt at contact". ... Appleton described how the entity "spoke to me into my mind, saying, "Do not be afraid."

Through telepathic communication the entity told Appleton he was "from another world, but do not want to take you over because the world is so good with you" we wish to live in unison but cannot until you stop all w-rs." The visitor went on to state that he knew space-flight experiments - "to get to us" - were taking place, but that the methods being used were fundamentally wrong:

"Your scientists are pulling against the greatest force of gravity by going straight up - you should travel with a sideways attitude." And with that Zen-like suggestion, the being slowly opened his arms and a "TV set" appeared in the space between them. This appeared to be a holographic image - unknown in the 1950s - in three dimensions and full color. For some reason, Cynthia was more stunned by the color than anything else about the manifestation. The "living image" as she called it, showed a classic flying saucer with flat rim was more stunned by the color than anything else about the manifestation. The and transparent dome. On its underside there were three half spheres.

Appleton commented: "These spaceships were like nothing I have ever seen in my life before. They seemed to take off and hovered in space for two or three seconds, went off to the left, then they went very quickly to the right".

Cynthia's crash course in saucer technology included being shown the saucer's power source - which she drew and later showed to Dr Dale. Her sketch depicted a central hub with a series of curved arms, like spokes. These, she was told, rotated and "collected power" from the atmosphere. She was then informed: your greatest power is under the sea. It is there in great quantity just for the taking."

The entity also revealed that he was from "Gharnasvarn", which Earth people called Venus, and that he would return. The holographic TV set then blinked out and, along with the entity, vanished.

... After he had disappeared, Appleton noticed the entity had been standing on a sheet of discarded newspaper that now had a scorch mark on it.

Dale later saw this and noted that it looked like the result of a "lightning strike or small electrical discharge". Unfortunately, this potentially vital piece of physical evidence was removed by reporters from the Birmingham Evening Gazette and no more was heard of it.

Subject: The Space Baby

Gordon Creighton, the future editor of Flying Saucer Review, also spoke at length to Appleton about her experiences. He was told much the same as Dr Dale, but also learned something else about the Venusians' mission to Earth.

They had told Cynthia: "We have to visit your world to obtain something of which we are running short. It is at the bottom of the sea". Appleton received the impression this substance was called "titium". When her husband returned from work she asked him what this could be and he said, "You mean titanium." Appleton also revealed to Creighton that the Venusians were concerned that "the bearers of the Hammer and Sickle" (See page 11:"Ashtar Command" in context of UMMO used as political cover)) were on the point of perfecting a gun which could disintegrate matter without actually firing a shell. The Russians, in other words, were developing some form of de-th-ray.

Soon after this initial contact, Appleton was approached by a local clergyman, the Reverend GE Tiley, vicar of Powick, near Worcester. Tiley made several visits to the Appleton household in late 1957 and early 1958, and on 12 January 1958 made her experiences the focus of his Sunday sermon. Tiley's congregation may have been somewhat surprised when he told them:

"If you take the trouble, as I have, to study very deeply, you cannot possibly - if you have an honest, open, sincere mind - review the mass of evidence from all over the world that men other than ourselves exist, and refute that evidence. I believe... they came with a message of brotherhood and love. They want to help us."

Rev. Tiley may have believed Cynthia had been visited by spacemen, but the Birmingham Psychic Society had other ideas. BPS spokesman Bernard Payne conducted a lengthy interview with Mrs Appleton, and was convinced she "believed the truth of her story". Payne planned an experiment in which Mrs Appleton would re-enact her first encounter, repeating exactly the same tasks, at the same time of day, in an effort to recall more details, a technique often used by police in the reconstruction of a crime.,, Payne commented: "We are not sure what will happen, but I think something is bound to occur. We have open minds on the subject at the moment, but I think the visitation will prove to be of a psychic nature." Sadly, we are not informed of the results of this experiment, or indeed whether it ever took place.

On 7 January, a few days prior to Tiley's space sermon, Appleton had received her second visit from the stranger from Venus. Once again, he appeared suddenly, accompanied by a burst of rose-tinged light. But this time he had brought along another entity, whom he described as his "superior". Neither wore helmets, and Appleton could now see her first visitor wore his blond hair at shoulder length whilst his superior had shorter, brown, curly hair. They explained that "special brainwaves" were what enabled their contacts with her, and that their appearances weren't physical but were a "projection".

johnfwin@mlode.com

The following description of a more systematized contact with "Outer Space" beings, originally written in 1978, was posted online by John Winston on Saturday March 12, 2005:.

The Invocation used at the foot of the following quote from the "Ashtar Command" is limited in citing only one Egyptian deity from antiquity. One actual example of 'ufo-light'-oriented Invocation is as follows:

"Kadosh, Kadosh, Kadoah, Eloihim".

This was told to me by Andrejah Pujarich at a conference in Golden, Colorado, where we both spoke about "ufo" phenomena. The meaning of this invocation is multiplex. One approaches the "ufo light" --preferably with some personal identity amulet--saying this phrase, and intending that manipulative angelic intervention is acknowledged but unaccepted whereas enlightened angelic intervention is welcomed. Thus the presence has a certain degree of freedom. For angels have agendas too. The first "Ashtar Command" transmissions took place during the 1950's. So the telepathic medium of the following communications is a different individual. Therefore, the authenticity of recent "Ashtar Command" transmissions is sometimes disputed. However the following quote selected by John Winston does give the authentic tradition of the original material.

Ashtar Command Transmission

A True Happening:

A Television Broadcast from the Ashtar Command The Ascended Masters, represented by the Ashtar Command, have made approaches to world leaders. Shortly after the deployment of nuclear weapons in World War II, the American Government received a communication from the Ashtar Command. This warned against any further development of atomic energy.

The Ashtar Command made no offer of technology. Citing that we were sp-ritually unable to handle that which we already possessed.

They believed we would use any new technology to destroy ourselves. Because we were on a path of self-destruction, what we needed was spiri-ual rather than technological help. This they offered, but it was conditional on the destruction of all nuclear weaponry.

They said we should stop k-lling each other and learn to live in harmony.

They also warned against polluting the Earth and ra-ing her for natural resources.

The Am-rican G-vernment rejected this overture, out of hand.

After the rebuff, the Ashtar Command spoke directly to the people of Amer-ca by superimposing a spoken message over television and radio broadcasts. They then repeated this procedure in other countries. In England, for example, the "E.T. phone Earth" occurred at 9:10 p.m. on January 8th, 1971 whilst Rex Dutta was broadcasting. The conversation with the Ashtar Command was recorded and the transcript was published in 1972 in Rex Duttas book,

"Flying Saucer Message." The Ashtar Command also spoke over the early evening television news in South East England.

This occurred on November 26, 1977. Five transmitters had been "taken over" simultaneously so that the voice, by viewers in London and the South East, from Southampton to Kent. Television engineers were unable to trace the voice, suppress it or stop it and all their instruments indicated normal television transmission was in progress.

The IBA tried to assure viewers the incident was a hoax and were reluctant to release more than thirty seconds of the recorded message. However, thanks to a report in "New Life Magazine," a tape recording of the message in full, was obtained by Rex Dutta, and was published in the January 1978 issue of his monthly newsletter, "Viewpoint Aquarius." It was 5:12 p.m. and Ivor Mills was the newscaster on ITV Southern Television. His face was visible but his voice was replaced, for five and a half minutes, by the voice of a representative of the Ashtar Command, and the transcript of the broadcast follows here:

We speak to you now in peace and wisdom, as we have done to your brothers and sisters all over your planet Earth. We come to warn you of the destiny of your race and your world, so that you may communicate to your fellow beings, the course you must take to avoid the disasters, which threaten your world, and the beings in our worlds around you. This is in order that you may share in the great awakening as the planet passes into the New Age of Aquarius. The New Age can be a time of great peace and evolution for your race, but only if your rulers are made aware of the evil forces that can overshadow their judgments.

"Be still now and listen, for your chance may not come again. For many years, your scientists, governments and generals have not heeded our warnings. They have continued to experiment with the evil forces of what you call nuclear energy. Atomic bombs can destroy the Earth, and the beings of your sister worlds, in a moment. The wastes from atomic power systems will poison your planet for many thousands of your years to come. We, who have followed the path of evolution for far longer than you, have long since realized that atomic energy is always directed against life. (When developed along the lines fission rather than fusions) It has no peaceful application. (When developed in this way) Its use, and research into its use, must cease at once, or you all risk destruction. All weapons of evil must be removed.

"The time of conflict is now past. The race, of which you are a part, may proceed to the highest planes of evolution, if you show yourselves worthy to do so. You have but a short time to learn to live together in peace and goodwill.

Small groups all over the planet are learning this and exist to pass on the light of the dawning New Age to you all. You are free to accept or reject their teachings, but only those who learn to live in peace will pass to the higher realms of spiritual evolution.

"Be aware, also, that there are many false prophets and guides operation in your world. They will suck your energy from you, the energy you call money, and will put it to evil from you, giving you worthless dross in return. Your inner divine self will protect you from this. You must learn to be sensitive to the voice within that can tell you what in truth, and what is confusion, chaos, and the untruth. Learn to listen to the voice of truth which is within you, and you will lead yourselves onto the path of evolution.

"This is our message to our dear friends. We have watched you growing for many years as you too have watched our lights in your skies. You know now that we are here and that there are many more beings on and around your Earth than your scientists admit. We are deeply concerned about you and your path towards the Light, and will do all we can to help now. Have no fear. Seek only to know yourselves and live in harmony with the ways of your planet Earth. We of the Ashtar Galactic Command, thank you for your attention. We are now leaving the planes of your existence. May you be blessed by the Supreme Love and Truth of the Cosmos.

WAR GOD STRATEGIES

During the same period of time as the above cited “Ashtar Command” transmissions were being received in the UK, there was also an UMMO group in England which, according to the research of author Jacques Vallee was the cover for Soviet Cold War espionage. The well-known UMMO ufo contacts, during which military authorities scrambled ships and aircraft on several occasions, also took place during the late 1960’s—early 1970’s in Spain.

The question always arises as regards “supernatural” or “paranormal” claims with political content or implications: Is the “ufo contact” a ruse or is the situation similar to legends of old in which the “gods” and “goddesses” took sides in human events such as the Trojan War. As a matter of fact, it can be asserted that these deities are responsible for the Trojan War in antiquity.

In radical pamphlets distributed by various US-UK groups a “ufo light” personality named Commander Haton is “channeled” by several mediums and does take a far right, revolutionary stance against the democratic system, claiming to be the “Haton” of Egypt, and/or a Roman Praetorian general of yore. In previous publications and interviews, your present correspondent has brought up the concept that while Commander Haton seems to be a convenient fiction and “political cover” yet a spirit entity may actually be manifesting telepathically and/or hypnotically. The mind states of several individuals following this belief system and/or the “Enneadic” ancient Egyptian “Council of Nine” channeled political transmissions indicate that, as in Ouija Board experimentation, they certainly have contacted “something”. But these personalities may not be exactly the deities they assume to be communicating. In fact, trickster gods in all traditions are famous for befuddling the humans who attempt to obtain “power” from the trappings of divinity.

In the article about official acknowledgement of the ufo mystery by the Brazilian government excerpted below, we see a different situation. Rather than numinous directives from political VIPs, material or immaterial, there apparently have been a number of unexplained sightings of “ufo craft” in Brazil which have been documented by reputable military personnel.

BRAZILIAN MILITARY RECOGNIZE UFO RESEARCH

Head of the Brazilian Committee of UFO Researchers (CBU)
Friday, May 20, was an historic day for Ufology in Brazil and in the world as the Brazilian Air Force (FAB), for the very first time in its history, officially receives a committee of top UFO researchers to openly discuss sightings in the country and fully exam classified UFO documents in several military facilities in Brasilia, the Federal Capital.

By doing this very important step,
Brazilian Air Force (FAB) has placed Brazil in a very short list of countries whose militaries acknowledge the Ufology as a serious activity and significative effort to fully understand the nature and origin of UFOs. "We want to have all info on the subject, that is withheld by us for some decades, fully released to public, through the UFO community", declared brigadier Telles Ribeiro, chief of Brazilian Air Force Communication Center.

The Brazilian Government, through the Brazilian Air Force, has finally decided to come forward and recognize the UFO research as a genuine activity as a direct result of the intense pressure made by the campaign UFOs: Freedom of

by the Brazilian UFO was launched by the Brazilian

Details of the campaign both in Portuguese and in English can be consulted at: www.ufo.com.br and www.ufo.com.br/secretcy.php
The approach of the Brazilian military by the CBU committee started last February, ten months after the campaign begun, with a phone call from a Brazilian Air Force spokesman, major Antonio Lorenzo, and a formal invitation to a visit and a chat in some Air Force headquarters in Brasilia.
Major Lorenzo fully recognized the UFO researchers' efforts in this field and provided a few details of what kind of reserved files and procedures the Brazilian Air Force
(FAB) has about the UFO Phenomena and its detection, recording and investigation in the country.
Two meeting between the civilian UFO researchers and the military took place last Friday, May 20, and firstly happened in the headquarters of the Integrated Center of Air Defense and Air Traffic Control (Centro Integrado de Defesa Aérea e Controle de Trafego Aéreo, Cindacta), a very sensitive facility.
During two hours, the researchers were given lectures of the procedures conducted at Cindacta and had the chance to visit air traffic control rooms and understand how UFOs could be detected by the Air Force personnel.
The second and most important meeting took place just after this one at the very reserved facilities of Brazilian Air Defense Command (Comando de Defesa Aerea Brasileiro, Comdabra), an even more sensitive installation that controls the entire air defense situation in the country and surrounding areas of Atlantic Ocean and South America. In this facility the UFO researchers were given full briefing of the top aspects of aerial defense of the country.

It was in this facility that its own commander, brigadier Atheneu Azambuja, admitted to the UFO researchers how concerned the Brazilian military are about the UFO phenomena. Azambuja also gave details of Comdabra procedures and openly admitted that the country has systematically detected and registered UFOs in the country – labeled as "H Traffic" – since 1954. That wasn't a surprise for the UFO researchers of the Brazilian Committee of UFO Researchers (CBU), but how this registering process took place was.

After detailed explanations of Comdabra activities, brigadier Atheneu Azambuja, for the first time in history, gave full access to the civilian UFO researchers to exam 3 different folders with classified UFO information, cases from specific dates of 1954, 1977 and 1986. The first case was an airplane pursuit of a UFO in the ocean shores of Paraná State.

The second file was much more important. In the folder containing the 1977 docs that could be examined by the UFO researchers were dozens of cases of UFOs in the Amazon with and amazing amount of over 100 pictures made during the so-called Operation Saucer, an official program of UFO investigation by the military that took place from September to December, 1977, and has been fully covered by specialized UFO press over the world.

The third case was the "The Official Night of UFOs in Brazil", a very significative group of events that happened in May 1986, when 21 objects of over 100 m in diameter jammed Brazilian air traffic control system over Rio de Janeiro, Sao Jose dos Campos and Sao Paulo, mainly, and several jets were sent to intercept – without any success – the intruders.

The Brazilian Air Force (FAB) representatives at those meetings then fully admitted that Ufology is serious business and broadly recognized the activity of UFO research by the civilian UFO community. And also guaranteed that further steps are about to be taken to let the researchers to exam the entire military UFO files in a more comprehensive way. Plus, a committee of military and civilian UFO researchers was promised to start operating very soon, coordinated by the Brazilian Committee of UFO Researchers (CBU). This certainly means that we will start a new era in Ufology in Brazil and in South America. Very good things are about to happen as the Brazilian Air Force (FAB) command, the Brazilian Ministry of Defense and the Brazilian president Luis Inacio Lula da Silva receive the open letters and formal requests for opening for good the documents and start the mentioned committee, as presented to them by their spokesman. More news to come..

Brazilian ufologist A. J. Gevaerd gave to Brazilian Air Force (FAB) brigadier Telles Ribeiro, head of the Brazilian Air Force Communication Center (Cecomsaer), the formal letters of requests that are to be forwarded to Brazilian Air Force (FAB) Commander, the Brazilian Ministry of Defense and the Brazilian president Luis Inacio Lula da Silva, for opening for good the secret UFO documents and start an official committee of UFO research. "We want to have all info on the subject, that is withheld by us for some decades, fully released to public, through the UFO community", declared brigadier Telles Ribeiro,.

The persons who officially attended this meeting were: Roberto Beck, Rafael Cury, Marco Petit, A. J. Gevaerd, Fernando Ramalho , and Claudeir Covo fPhotos exist of these individuals outside the Brazilian Air Defense Command (Comando de Defesa Aerea Brasileiro, Comdabra), a sensitive installation that controls the entire air defense situation in the country and surrounding areas of Atlantic Ocean and South America. The researchers could examine secret UFO files at this facility. But after a briefing in a meeting room at Brazilian Air Defense Command (Comando de Defesa Aerea Brasileiro, Comdabra). After this point of the visit, nothing could be filmed, taped, videoed or even copies and transcribed.

Ed: So we have only the word of the participants that such documents exist, and no actual copies of the documents themselves. This is the approximate reverse of the amply provided "Majestic Documents" which are most probably a dis-informative hoax. (See page 2) Under these circumstances, it is understandable that well-meaning informants—dead or alive—might find unusual ways to circumvent the charades and communicate clues toward their actual experience of the "top secret" situation in both UFO and ESP research and the mundane political arena.

Eerie spirit communique on espionage proves true

Late March: 2005.

A true tale of the bizarre. For most of the afternoon I had been feeling uncomfortable, as if there was something just below the level of consciousness trying to emerge. For the past 24 hours I had been finding large paperclips virtually everywhere I went—not just in my office or house. But on store counters and beneath mailboxes. Each time I saw one of these large paperclips, I thought of the infamous "Operation Paperclip", the publicly given "code name" of an intelligence agency operation designed to import Axis technical and research subsequent to World War Two. It must have been thought at that time that "intellectuals and tech experts" were ready and willing to switch loyalties in the same way that a bright student will have one opinion for the History professor and quite another opinion for the Sociology professor. This is a mistake. For the actual objectives of such individuals may be quite different from the adaptive facades they display in organizing information.

In context of the "large paperclip findings" in mid-March of 2005, your present correspondent suddenly got the telepathic impression of several names linked to Cold War espionage. These included the name of a lesser-known military remote viewing researcher who was removed from overt U.S. military psychical experimentation during the 1980's for arbitrary decisions based on personality conflicts and mundane interpersonal rivalry, along with the word "Nazi". I put these two items along with "Operation Paperclip" into the Google search engine and came up with an obscure article about how some of the U.S. behavioral research programs (now nominally discontinued) were an outgrowth of Nazi influence through Operation Paperclip. So: why would the same not be true of corporate behavioral research? Where does an expert in this sort of strategy end up working when the "official research programs" fold? Note that such behavioral research may include "remote viewing" experiments but is not limited to the more subtle modes of behavioral conditioning such as "stimulus/reward" and "triggering" charades based on analysis of the individual target's personality and past history.

Sometimes the most "fantastic" of events, as in the "exploding toads" story cited below, come to have mundane natural explanations and the most mundane of events, such as a fruitful political web search based on quietly finding an unusually large amount of ordinary paperclips, cannot so easily be explained in strictly "behavioral" terms.

Exploding Toads Puzzle German Scientists April 27, 2005

BERLIN (AP) - More than 1,000 toads have puffed up and exploded in a Hamburg pond in recent weeks, and scientists still have no explanation for what's causing the combustion, an official said Wednesday. Both the pond's water and body parts of the toads have been tested, but scientists have been unable to find a bacteria or virus that would cause the toads to swell up and pop, said Janne Kloepper, of the Hamburg-based Institute for Hygiene and the Environment. "It's absolutely strange," she said. "We have a really unique story here in Hamburg. This phenomenon really doesn't seem to have appeared anywhere before." Copyright 2004 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

OOOps! This phenomenon was found later to have been due to Toads puffing up their bellies against an airborne predator bird whose beak pierced the inflated belly.

""They CARE not exactly about how I may appear but how they may appear in relation to my gaze (and Your gaze and Gail's gaze) and the gaze of the cosmos." --E.Macer-Story.

The above comment, made as part of an Internet correspondence connected with the Yahoogroups.com "special interest" lists upon which people may feel they are famous but may be utterly unknown to the world at large, has a broader resonance than the small group of research analysts" to whom it was directed.

In fact, your present correspondent knows of this group of physicists and/or ufo/esp analysts and "true believers" by an associative process some might call "magickal". In the book "Congratulations: The Ufo Reality" (1979) I describe my "experiment" of putting on a yee shirt bearing the word "magick" on the chest and strolling around San Francisco as a tourist to see who would respond to the verbal cue. In a cigar store, a clerk did respond to that cue and talked to me at length about a ufo conference in Mexico he had recently attended. Later, when the book came out, I returned to San Francisco to publicize it and was invited to several parties and café conferences within the same demimonde as contained the reference to "ufo conferences" in Mexico. In this context, I met Dr. Jack Sarfatti of these presently obscure yahoogroups neo-physics lists both at the Café Trieste (his customary public office) and at a larger party of milling people somewhere in the hills near San Francisco. Later, I would recognize his name in an early edition of "The Dancing Wu Li Masters" by Gary Zukov. After a personal feud which is obscure to me, Sarfatti's name was removed from future editions of that book. It does seem as if a publishing cabal of some sort was attempting to "control" information flow by eliminating this very interesting individual. Why? Is this because of the rogue poetical and political associations of the "Café Trieste" situation? Or is the implicit censorship situation more complex? The subculture created by the "LSD gurus" in the 1960-70's had a notable intersection with the criminal subculture vending drugs and contraband internationally. It is possible that authors on the globally active "consciousness" movement eschew mention of certain individuals because they have remained in obvious association with "shadow world" luminaries who may in fact actually possess exceptional mental and intellectual abilities—as do many outlaws successful in playing the casino wheels of established systems. Thus it is feared that mentioning such individuals might put the reporter in danger or disrepute. This present Yankee Oracle Gazette cannot be similarly redacted. Any individual who is actually sitting at the discussion table will be mentioned. Because of Internet and video/television broadcasts, it has become possible to contact and evaluate directly the "personalities" of scientists and other professionals whose field of expertise is usually the collection and analysis of data.

In this respect, the scientific field has become a vast neo-Renaissance court filled with aspiring inventors and analysts equipped with color-illustrated resumes and interactive "Power Point" slide presentations. It can convincingly be argued that "science as entertainment" is a few grades better than "science as caste mark" as has occurred in past research when only people from certain universities or socially-established connections were permitted and/or facilitated in presenting innovative ideas. Sarfatti, who has a degree in physics from Cornell University and once also was offered a scholarship in opera singing at a European conservatory, bills himself as "The Theatrical Physicist" and has some very interesting theoretical ideas about causality traveling from the the future to the past and also some interesting ideas and experiences which may involve his programming by unknown "Advanced Intelligence"—if not some type of bizarre government black ops or covert corporate mind control experiment. The editor of this Gazette can appreciate the ideas of Dr. Sarfatti in the area of "superluminal" time travel as she has experienced a-sequential time effects which seem to indicate a causality which is not linear. However, there is more than one way to interpret and technically code this observation. In the "fluidice matrix" theoretical writings by E.Macer-Story, a pattern form (configuration) in a non-linear (n—4) dimensional matrix is transduced by a fifth dimension of "reflexive timer" into the familiar, material four dimensions by means of the kinetic action of an "inner aether" or "traction fluidice" which manifests as the "superluminal" non-linear time effects which have inspired Dr. Sarfatti and other innovative physics theorists. However, in Sarfatti's system these effects are caused by a "faster than light" process within the fabric of the electromagnetic continuum as mirrored in a "virtual continuum". In the "fluidice matrix" formulations, the continuum which is non-linear and "outside linear time" is indeed separate and pushes "shape" into matter by a kinetic process so that non-linear time effects "pop out" into the 4-dimensional, material landscape. An analogy to this is the musical instrument called an "autoharp" which has an array of musical strings and a frame with pre-molded slats straight across those strings which automatically press the strings into the complex musical patterns which an accomplished harpist might be able to play free style with both hands.

If one thinks of the strings as sequential, linear timespace locations, then a pattern exterior to the sequence can be pressed into the static array by a kinetic action of the finger on the button of each bar. Of course, this is simply an analogy and the actual process is more complex, involving a reflexive action, as if a sound recorder was keeping a record of the sequence of time chords actually pressed by an Intelligence desiring a certain type of musical effect. The phenomena seen as inexplicable "ufo lights" and/or craft may be the perception of a kinetic "time-chording" event from the point of view of perceptual and documentary equipment limited to the timespace moment of only one note of a more complete chord also touching other strings elsewhere in timespace. The following report by a Mexican researcher documents one instance of these perplexing effects.

STRANGE MEXICAN LIGHTS

By Ana Luisa Cid

Last Sunday (03.13.05) was quite active as regards the observation of strange lights. Early that morning, this writer and her family attended a party at a niece's house and upon our return home we noticed a very intense light on a hill whose name is not known to me, since it is located along a different route from the one I normally take, along Calzada Taxqueña in Mexico City. I videotaped it for a few seconds because it was precisely at that corner that we had to make a turn, and parking was not possible. In spite of its large size, I do not dismiss the possibility that it could have been some sort of reflection. It was almost 5 in the afternoon.

The foregoing is merely background information, because the strangest events took place at night.

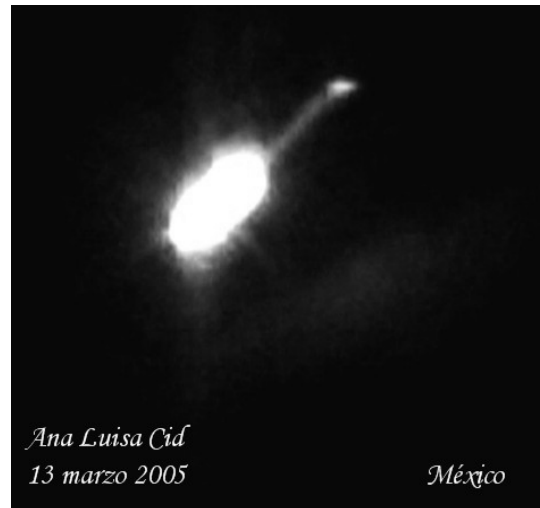

At around 11:30 p.m., my husband, mother, son Ivan and I were in the car after having gone to dinner at an establishment in the state of Mexico, driving along Mario Colin avenue in a south-north direction.

We were attracted by a very bright light that appeared to levitate over the terrain belonging to a hill of the Sierra de Guadalupe range. Since this is a place I customarily drive through, I am aware of the permanent lights that are those of the town. Just as I was getting ready to turn on my camcorder, we were able to see how a smaller light emerged from this enormous source of light. It remained attached to the larger one.

Street lights employed as a reference point

[Ed. Note: in my 1991 book "Dr. Fu Man Chu Meets The Lonesome Cowboy: Sorcery & The UFO Experience" there is a photo of a "streetlight "UFO montage" which occurred in Hoboken, N.J. This is included because it actually happened—not because the reporter thinks it's easy to believe.]

For some years now I've become accustomed to carrying my camcorder everywhere, since I've noticed that strange events may emerge any place and any time.

It's important to note that on this hill and other surrounding ones there are considerable numbers of caves which in ancient time housed Chichimec natives who settled near Tenayuca and who - according to chronicles - had encounters with sky-gods. For this reason they chose locations endowed with natural magnetism to build their pyramids:

<http://www.edomexico.gob.mx/administracion/reconocer/Rec41/pdf/6-7.pdf>

Moving on with the subject of unusual events, on March 13, residents of the U.S. state of Oregon reported the sighting of a green fireball with a long tail, according to the news item forwarded to me by Ricardo Antonio Lopez:

<http://mx.news.yahoo.com/050313/8/1drgi.html>

I will keep you posted if any further reports emerge in connection with this date. My best regards to

AFTER DINNER UFOS: green cheese and chardonnay commentary by E.Macer-Story

The easiest way to answer this problem in terms of the "fluidice matrix" formulations I have been developing is that the red and blue shifts referred to in the clip quoted below are (obviously) electromagnetic qualities. But I am sure there is an added component to atomic mass, an inner aether, which I term in my theory "traction fluidice" because it acts to alter the kinetic/electric state of matter, and is a component of mass. This is the marbled green cheese. Additionally, there is an (n-5) dimensional matrix which is not e/m constituted and transduces via the 5th dimension of reflexive time with the familiar e/m formulations of the 4 dimensional time line. This is the chardonnay. They make a nice appetizer when coordinated via the reflexive 5th dimensional request/demand interface but the time in the (n-5) matrix is a patterned, configurational time--not shifting in any linear way at all. I am bringing a demo model of the fluidice matrix in abacus style (very similar to the autoharp on page 16) and also a demonstration "Cloak of Darkness" to the U.S. Psychotronic Assn. conference in Columbus, Ohio this July 2005. Both are demonstration items are designed to train and implement the use and understanding of the mental/physical interface which facilitates remote viewing, healing and adequate self-defense .

Chinese Online Gamer Stabbed for Selling Cyber-Sword Landmark Case Involves Alleged Theft of Virtual Assets

BEIJING (March 29) - A Shanghai online game player stabbed to death a competitor who sold his cyber-sword, the China Daily said on Wednesday, creating a dilemma in China where no law exists for the ownership of virtual weapons. Qiu Chengwei, 41, stabbed competitor Zhu Caoyuan repeatedly in the chest after he was told Zhu had sold his "dragon saber," used in the popular online game, "Legend of Mir 3," the newspaper said a Shanghai court was told on Tuesday. "Legend of Mir 3" features heroes and villains, sorcerers and warriors, many of whom wield enormous swords. Qiu and a friend jointly won their weapon last February, and lent it to Zhu who then sold it for 7,200 yuan (US$870), the newspaper said. Qiu went to the police to report the "theft" but was told the weapon was not real property protected by law. "Zhu promised to hand over the cash but an angry Qiu lost patience and attacked Zhu at his home, stabbing him in the left chest with great force and killing him," the court was told. The newspaper did not specify the charge against Qiu but said he had given himself up to police and already pleaded guilty to "intentional injury." No verdict has been announced. More and more online gamers were seeking justice through the courts over stolen weapons and credits, the newspaper said. "The armor and swords in games should be deemed as private property as players have to spend money and time for them," Wang Zongyu, an associate law professor at Beijing's Renmin University of China, was quoted as saying. But other experts are calling for caution. "The 'assets' of one player could mean nothing to others as they are by nature just data created by game providers," a lawyer for a Shanghai-based Internet game company was quoted as saying.

Bluntly "Telltale" Traces of Subtle Warfare

Yet in reality the computerized culture does make war and/or financial arrangements based on virtual data, as in the incident described below,

Los Alamos Lab Whistleblower Beaten

By Deborah Baker
The Associated Press

Monday 06 June 2005

Santa Fe, NM - A Los Alamos lab whistleblower scheduled to testify before Congress about alleged financial irregularities was badly beaten outside a bar - an attack his wife and lawyer believe was designed to silence him.

Police and the FBI said that they were investigating the circumstances of the incident which, according to his wife, left Tommy Hook hospitalized Monday with a broken jaw and other injuries.

Police Deputy Chief Eric Johnson said officers found Hook after responding to a reported assault at the Cheeks Night Club about 2 a.m. Sunday. He provided few other details.

"We are working jointly with the FBI, trying to determine what may have happened and what the assault may have stemmed from," Johnson said. FBI spokesman Bill Elwell described the agency's inquiry as preliminary.

Hook's wife, Susan, alleged the assailants told her husband during the attack: "If you know what's good for you, you'll keep your mouth shut."

Tommy Hook and another whistleblower sued the University of California in March, alleging that after they uncovered management failures, university and lab managers tried to make their jobs miserable so they would quit.

Hook, a former internal auditor who now works at another job at the lab, had been scheduled to testify before the House Energy and Commerce Committee later this month.

According to Susan Hook, her husband received a call late Saturday from someone wanting to meet with him at a bar. She said her husband told her the man never showed up, but that as he was leaving the parking lot, a group of men pulled him from his car and beat him.

"They left him in the parking lot for dead," said Tommy Hook's lawyer, Robert Rothstein.

Rothstein said the assailants didn't take Hook's wallet, other personal belongings or car. Without any other motive, it appears the beating was related to his whistleblowing, Rothstein contended.

Susan Hook said her husband did not frequent bars.

Los Alamos lab spokesman Kevin Roark called the beating a "senseless and brutal act and should not be tolerated."

The lab and UC also issued a joint statement decrying the violence. "Director (Robert) Kuckuck, the University of California and the laboratory believe that any form of physical violence toward an individual is unacceptable," the statement read.

Ap 06/06/2005

Two days later, according to Steve Quayle News Alerts, #78: Leonid Strachunsky. Died: June 8, 2005 after being hit on the head with a champagne bottle. Strachunsky specialized in creating microbes resistant to biological weapons.

Strachunsky was found dead in his hotel room in Moscow, where he had come from Smolensk en route to the United States. Investigators are looking for a connection between the murder of this leading bio weapons researcher and the hepatitis outbreak in Tver, Russia.

Steve Quayle News Alerts

As in the Eugene Mallove death, Dr. Eugene Mallove, age 56. Died: May 14, 2004. Autopsy confirmed Mallove died as a result of several blunt-force injuries to his head and neck. Ruled as murder. Found at the end of his driveway. Alt. Energy Expert who was working on viable energy alternative program and announcement. Norwich Free Academy graduate. Beaten to death during an alleged robbery. Mallove was well respected for his knowledge of cold fusion. He had just published an "open letter" outlining the results of and reasons for his last 15 years in the field of "new energy research." Dr. Mallove was convinced it was only a matter of months before the world would actually see a free energy device.

Steve Quayle News Alerts

The weapon of choice in certain of these unexplained killings used to silence a variety of scientists as documented in the Steve Quayle News Alerts. seems to be poison, blunt instruments or fists as these weapons are harder to trace in the long run. There is an odd correlation here with the belief of certain shamans who may or may-not be doing "official" RV/ESP research that "no machines are necessary" for exceptional feats of mind over matter. In fact: could the motivations of those attempting to silence these physicists, epidemiologists and like-minded scientists lie in the hotly-opinionated nano world shared by aspects of atomic fusion, micro-organisms and the nuances of RV, ESP and telekinesis? Here let's employ a type of associative process often studied by physicist and other experimenters into "quantum" nano process..

As I was drafting this Gazette I received a phone call from an individual whom I have mentioned in previous writings as having an eerie gift of detecting when "strange interference" unto violence may occur in my environment and/or when a very unusual "spirit intervention" or similar interruption may be on the agenda. Shortly afterward, as if to fulfill the "Telltale Heart" caption prophecy quoted below-- which was written in August of 2004, just after the flurries of the Mallove murder shock had begun to subside-- I came across this e-file accidentally while looking in the same folder for another file to include in the Gazette

In this email I had saved one year ago under the title "Telltale Heart onformist" I wrote to an associate:

"This is a post sent from the same info@fluidice.com address which was hacked during the weekend of the Mallove murder. This same address was used at that same time to try to illegally subscribe to the Konformist ezine list. When I jotted this just now I noticed an unusual, temporary memory block on the name of the Konformist ezine. This caused me to look in my email files to find the name, and as I looked over these files I noticed that the last name of a crank caller to my Magick Mirror office number at that time, noted down when my assistant answered, was given as "Kelly".

Previously, I had not connected this with "John Dee & Edward Kelly"--the rogue conjurers of the Elizabethan court--but...hey!! This is getting to be of maximum interest as a type of sorcery warfare. For on the commuter bus I had noticed once again the beautiful girl who was blinded about ten years ago by a group of men who raped her--so she could not identify them. I have known for some time these assailants might be "known" personalities in some area of endeavor.. I thought of her for what must have been deeply associative reasons when I could not for a moment recall the name of the "Konformist".
 Hmmm. Two crimes perhaps from a perpetrator known to Konformist personae?"

In terms of the "warning call" from the individual who did not objectively know I was researching these topics, there is another interesting "Edgar Allen Poe-like" event which I experienced just before finding the year old e-file and jokingly described to an associate by email, as follows:

On the way upstairs in my Woodstock house from the garage-study level I noticed a fresh bent nail piercing the carpet at the side of the sixth step. I looked at this carefully. No sign of any hammer blows. My numinous Rom protection is kicking in here....Someone with projective ability is trying to contact me by RV...I woke two nights in sequence with an exact physical impression of this man's hatred...he looks like he might be KKK or the British version of same. A wizard!! I have defeated a number of such wizards who do not recognize the omens and signs which occur exterior to individual will. Did I "will" a bent nail onto the side of the sixth stair tread? NO. Additionally, I dreamt last night of a woman with one leg and wearing khaki slacks tucked into boots around an artificial lower leg In the dream I did not recognize her. She was standing with the game leg on a sewer cover, a manhole. Today in an idle moment I realized who she might be...ex-Beatle Paul McCartney's wife! According to past interviews with Larry King on CNN, she has an interest in the landmine situation in Africa and in the injustices of apartheid as did the late Princess Diana of England." While revising this Gazette, I was adding the scan of the "mad fax" at the beginning of this edition (page 2) when I recalled the odd dream I had experienced during the previous weekend. Incredibly, the caption below the oddly-elongated bar code reads:

Beatles or Elvis Presley and/or the product potential of either or both. In a book of his memoirs (300 pages) he describes in remarkable detail what happens next.

["Beatles or Elvis Presley and/or the product potential of either or both. In a book of his memoirs (300 pages) he describes in remarkable detail wh (ink blot at edge of black rectangle) happens next.]

Let's hope this is not the prediction of another fatal "hit" by those posing as the disabled and harmless lunatic fringe. As U.S. Col. Aquino in his research into Nazi occult beliefs has demonstrated, the mental abilities of the criminally insane can actually be quite extraordinary. Here, however, in this Gazette there is a coverage of interdimensional events and causality. As the pursuit of "magick" in San Francisco in 1979 led to an interconnection with the "ufo magicians"(page 14-15)-- a group otherwise unknown and perhaps by design enclosed or contained by clandestine government operatives &/or some type of "corporate goth" type business network-- so also the weird pursuit of "bar code sorcery" by the author of the "mad faxes" reminds one of the reality of the renegade commercial network said to be sympathetic to the antics of a variety of terrorists, including Osama Bin Laden and the well-connected "Initiates" of the Dark Star Orders of International Business.
