

ONE

WHY BE PSYCHIC

When you die, you will ~~be~~ find yourself deprived of physical your body's eyes, ears, mouth and all other/sensations you depended upon during life. Separated from your body, you will be effectively blind, dumb and mute; you will not be able to see or hear anything in your new out-of-body environment, you will not be able to communicate with others. You will be in a totally black place, much like when you are in a deep dreamless sleep, not knowing anything, or even if you are you.

All this will happen to you -- unless you have taken an active interest in the psychic realms, and have worked toward trying to activate your own psychic abilities. For it is with these that you will be able to have senses in the ^{realms} ~~world~~ beyond bodily death. Telepathy will replace your ears; clairvoyance will replace your eyes; With these, even a minimul of them, you will be able to communicate with others and to see the various environments you will encounter. With the little-known art of psychic of "mind-thought-space-time" travelling, you will be able to "travell" at instantaneous speeds to any place you can think of.

With psychic vision, communication and motion available to you, you will be able to find a new body that you prefer, if you want, or remain in the inbetween-lives area for a while. If you are blind, dumb and mute, and have no idea at all what is happening to you, you will merely get sucked into some sex act that results in a new little body, and there you will be, re-embodied at random, for better or worse -- and it is usually for the worse.

So, this is one great big reason for you to ~~XXXXX~~ develop an interest in psychic matters, especially your own potential psychic abilities. There are also other reasons, of course. One is that psychic abilities are very useful even while you are incarnate in your present body. Another is that you stand a chance of changing ~~th~~ your Oversoul's pattern that, to a large degree, predestines your life. Another important reason is that humanity, plunging on without so much as a smattering of psychic awarenesses factored into its general history, is bringing the ~~was~~ whole of the ~~xxx~~ biosphere towards doomsday. Humanity desperately needs psychics, large quantities of them, who can "see through" the barriers and problems that plague us, and create new ideas that can redirect history.

Non-psyhic humanity is locked ~~into destructive paths~~ into paths at the end of which is a self-destruct button. As a whole humanity is non-psyhic -- it can not see through itself, and so it cannot really examine its faults and failures or its good points. The reational minds have to depend on statistics to see anything. And statistics are what you make them and what you make of them.

So, like the blind, dumb and ~~deaf~~ mute stage of the non-psychical developed person upon death, humanity actually is already dwelling in that stage as far as its psychic attributes are concerned. As a whole, humanity has no telepathy, no clairvoyance. It is acting as if it were a rational, physical body that has no needs of psychic attributes. In fact, for the most part, history has been ~~xxx~~ busy cleansing itself of all residues of psychic attributes.

And the "cleaner" humanity gets in this regard, the more directly it cannot foresee the outcomes of its own directions.

So, you see, there are good reasons for studying the psychic and for trying to activate your own dormant psychic attributes.
