N. Meade Layne

AT LEFT is a copy of a portrait photo of the late founder and former director of BSRA, N. Meade Layne. He began his public borderland work with the publication of the "Round Robin", a mimeographed journal, in 1945. His sincere and liberal-minded effort to review and report on the Borderland Sciences: Psychic Research, Radionics, Radiesthesia, Fortean falls, Occultism, Flying Saucers, Dowsing, etc., slowly gained a following and in 1946 he decided upon the title, Borderland Sciences Research Associates. It was in this year also that the unusual trance mediumship of Mark Probert was brought to his attention, and through Mark the contact with the members of the Inner Circle, including the Yada di Shi'ite. Mr. Layne continued as director of BSRA until June 1, 1959. He passed away at a rest home in San Diego at the age of 78, May 12, 1961.

AT RIGHT is the present (1961) director of BSRA, Riley Crabb. For reasons of ill health, Mr. Layne asked Mr. Crabb to take over directorship in May 1959. He had been a member since 1951. Mr. Crabb's background qualifications for such work include 25 years of metaphysical study in the Theosophical and Rosicrucian schools, editor and publisher of magazines and industrial journals, industrial work with Minneapolis-Honeywell and the Naval Missile Center, Pt. Mugu, California and personnel work and counseling in U.S. Civil Service. His primary responsibility to borderland researchers is to give them recognition, attention and encouragement, through the Round Robin Journal of Borderland Research and through personal contact.

FLYING SAUCERS, 1959 TO 1969

A review of current developments in the UFO field by Riley Hansard Crabb, Director, Borderland Sciences Research Foundation, for The San Francisco Interplanetary Club, November 22, 1968.

It's good to be back here again in Bagdad-by-the-Bay -- as your columnist, Herb Caen, calls it -- and immerse ourselves in the bustle and drive and sophistication of the most charming city on the Pacific Coast -- quite a change from our quiet little home town of Vista.

I'm glad to pull together for you some of the latest info on UFOs that has crossed my desk because I understand there were no lectures on Flying Saucers at the space convention across the Bay last month. There are at least two good reasons for the dwindling popularity of UFOs as a lecture subject: When you get into it it's a very disagreeable, painful and frustrating collection of information -- as you'll soon find out as we go along. The second point is that there apparently hasn't been much change in the situation since the subject began making headlines 21 years ago. Any news man will tell you that it's impossible to keep a story on the front pages and in the public interest more than a week or two.

It only remains interesting if you learn to read between the words, as Mrs. Crabb suggested to an inquirer a few days ago. For the first ten years of our Saucer research she and I learned to read between the lines of UFO reports. For the last ten years we have taught ourselves to read between the words. For the next ten we're going to have to read between the letters in the words!

How do we do this? For example let's take the latest and best sighting of the year, the UFO that hovered over Madrid, Spain for over an hour on the night of Sept. 5, 1968. This huge glowing object was at 90,000 feet or higher and was seen by thousands. I received several news clips on this from Associates, the best eyewitness description was by H. August Bebelius of the CNS news service.

"The mysterious UFO, which appeared above the Spanish capital Sept. 5 during an evening rush hour, when the sky was still light, cruised above the center of the city for more than one hour. So many people stopped to stare at the strange gleaming object that traffic in the Gran Via, Madrid's main street, became completely jammed.

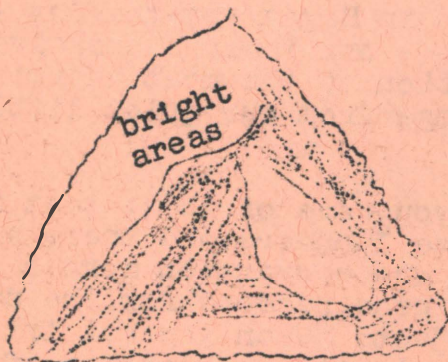

"At half past seven that evening I was at the Plaza de Colon in central Madrid, waiting for the arrival of the Olympic Games torch-bearer. The crowd was not looking up the broad avenue leading to the ceremonial platform. All heads were turned skyward.

THE UFO "TORCH" OF THE GUARDIANS

"First with skepticism, then with growing astonishment, I saw a brilliant apparition in the western sky. As it moved slowly to the southwest the entire crowd's attention was completely distracted from the ceremony. Photographers turned their cameras skyward and took numerous photos, some through telescopic lenses.

The photos showed clearly that whatever the thing was, it was something very unusual, conical in shape and emitting a blinding light.

"The Spanish air force, which picked up the unidentified object on their sophisticated American radar network, dispatched F-104 jets to investigate. One pilot attempted to approach the object at an altitude of 50,000 feet but was forced to give up the chase with the device still a great distance above him, when his fuel ran low. Another pilot came close enough to give a graphic description of the device.

"'It was pyramid shaped and there were three globes of bright light at its base.'

"The many photos and telescopic information from the Madrid Observatory bore out his description.

Amid the flurry of imaginative rumors, at least a few facts emerged to establish what the thing was not. The first reaction from the Madrid Observatory was, 'We don't know what the thing is but we assume it must be a satellite.' However, a spokesman for the U.S. space tracking facility at nearby Robledo stated, 'It is definitely not an American satellite.' When asked if it could be a flying saucer he answered, 'Who knows?'

"The Spanish Weather Bureau announced that there was no reason to suppose it was one of their meteorological balloons. While tens of thousands of Spaniards gaped at the moving object in the heavens and Spanish radar briefly tracked it, strangely the vast U.S. military air base at Torrejon on the outskirts of the capital claimed it did not show up on their radar screens. . . ."

It's easy to read between the lines on this one. The UFO couldn't have been an American or Russian satellite because these earth-made space vehicles don't hover cities for an hour at a time.

They move steadily along in orbit at altitudes of a hundred miles or more, and cannot be seen from the ground unless sunlight is reflected off them against a dark sky. Our satellites do not give off a self-generated blinding light; neither do our weather balloons -- which cannot be seen by the naked eye at an altitude of seven or eight miles, at which altitude our jet interceptors and bombers are invisible, too!

Reading between the lines on this news story I would say this was not a man-made object nor a natural one such as a meteor. Meteors don't travel in level flight. Alien space ships do maneuver freely in all directions, including controlled, level flight, and many of them have been observed to give off blinding light, both day and night.

READING BETWEEN THE WORDS

The ridiculous claim by the public information officer of the U.S. air base at Torrejon, that this solid space ship didn't show up on their radar indicates to the seasoned UFO researcher that the officer was keenly aware of the provisions, and restrictions, of Air Force Regulation 200-2, first issued Aug. 12, 1954. Major Donald E. Keyhoe reproduced the regulation in the Appendix of his book, "The Flying Saucer Conspiracy":

"Para. 9: Release of Facts. Headquarters, USAF will release summaries of evaluated data which will inform the public on this subject. In response to local inquiries, it is permissible to inform news media representatives on UFOB's when the object is positively identified as a familiar object (see paragraph 2b), except that the following type of data warrants protection and should not be revealed: Names of principles, intercept and investigation procedures, and classified radar data. For those objects which are not explainable, only the fact that ATIC will analyze the data is worthy of release, due to the many unknowns involved."

Obviously, as long as the policy of the U.S. Government states that Flying Saucers don't exist, the one seen by thousands over Madrid the night of Sept. 5th cannot be explained; so Air Force personnel can say nothing about it, without violating regulations. So, no one but a fool would go to the Air Force for an explanation of Flying Saucers. Also, because of government policy, no Flying Saucer data worthy of release will be considered worthy of release. In a footnote to the Appendix item on AFR 200-2, Keyhoe notes that from 1949 to the writing of his book in 1955, no summaries of UFO data had been released by the U.S. Air Force.

READING BETWEEN THE LETTERS (in the words)

This is comparable to shifting to another order of magnitude, as the physicists would say. As an occultist I would rather say let us shift to another level of consciousness -- if we would understand the Flying Saucer phenomenon. 22 years ago our organization, BSRA, stated unequivocally that the Flying Saucers and their occupants were materializations from the Fourth Dimension. They had conquered time as we know it. If you object to spiritualist terms let us say that the UFOs and their pilots are Emergents from the Etheric realms. And when their mission in this 3-D realm is over they disappear from sight by merging back into Etheria.

Our late director and founder, Meade Layne, put forth this 4-D explanation of the origin of Flying Saucers in 1946. I have seen no significant change in Flying Saucer data since then, at least nothing which would cause us to change our original hypothesis. In fact just the opposite is true, as you'll see from the information presented tonight; serious and dedicated Saucer researchers are faced with the hard fact that both the bad guys and the good guys from outer space are materializations.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF THE PLANET STEPS UP

John Keel is one of the dedicated and serious Saucer researchers. I don't know if he has bought our 4-D explanation of the origin of UFOs but we can thank him for accumulating data which points in that direction! Let's take a look at his "Open Letter To All UFO Researchers", originally released in Joan Whritenour's "Saucer Scoop", published at 6464 34th Ave. No., St. Petersburg, Florida 33710:

"The Men In Black are the intelligence arm of a large and possibly hostile group. They move in immediately on terrestrials who have been contacted by other groups.. Their main purpose is to dissuade these individuals from continuing to accept further contacts. To achieve this they often issue stern warnings and threats. In some cases they threaten the well-being of children known to the Contactee. The initial threats often appear to be hoaxes of one kind or another but, should the Contactee persist in meeting with members of the other group, the threats become more serious and deliberately unsuccessful attempts are made on the life of the Contactee. These might take the form of near auto collisions (involving large black cars), or the victim might awaken in the middle of the night and find all the gas jets turned on and the windows closed -- even though the windows were open and the gas off when he went to bed!

"A majority of all Contactees become terrified by these tactics and do break contact. Those who were not frightened off are subjected to stepped up persecutions. They may even be kidnapped by three men in a black car (it is nearly always three men) and treated to a sinister brainwashing which involves the use of some special drug or hypnotic technique. When the victim is released he or she suffers from amnesia and nausea and is often mentally confused for several days afterward. All such victims have a black eye when released. Which suggests that physical contact of a violent nature is a necessary part of the brainwashing treatment. Very few Contactees are anxious to repeat that experience, and so they break off contact. The handful of contactees who remain are in real trouble. Most of them disappear eventually, leaving behind bewildered families and friends. Some become involved in elaborate legal frameups: i.e. Contactee A is found murdered and extensive evidence is left behind to incriminate Contactee B.

THE SILENT CONTACTEE CARRIES ON

"Of course this is not true in all cases. Today there are thousands of 'silent contactees' throughout the world and many of them never have any trouble with the MIB. They are random contactees and are not important in the genetic experiments being conducted by the UFO groups. Some are accidental contactees (these are few in number), and some are simply rejects.

"The Men In Black are professional terrorists and among their many duties is the harassment of the UFO researchers who become involved in cases which might reveal too much of the truth. The MIB are also assigned to suppress any kind of evidence which might accidentally fall into the hands of innocent people, such as photos, pieces of metal, etc. They also frequently interview witnesses in well publicized sightings to determine if those witnesses might be potential contactees, or if they might be involved in genetic experiments without their conscious knowledge.

"Certain UFO groups now attempting to establish contact on a large scale pose a definite threat to the group represented by the MIB and it is vitally important to them that such contacts be held to an absolute minimum. Thus, as the contacting groups intensify their activities (and they have done so in recent years) the MIB must also intensify theirs. This means that greater numbers of Men In Black must be introduced in order to compete with the activities of the opposing groups. In Vietnam we call this kind of thing 'escalation'.

THE 22-YEAR BUILDUP TO A CRISIS OF REVELATION

"All the UFO groups (there are at least 12) are now caught up in this escalation and all are running the risks of discovery now. As the risks of discovery multiply, the activities of the MIB must increase in the same ratio. None of the UFO groups desire open contact at this time.

"We are now on a vicious merry-go-round and we are caught in the middle of this bizarre conflict. Contacts are being made -- then suppressed -- on a dizzying scale. Information is being gained -- and lost -- at an ever increasing pace. One of the ironies of all this is that no policeman in his right mind associates black cars, kidnappers, amnesia victims and black eyes with the UFO phenomenon. Many of these cases never filter down from local police departments. Neither the FBI nor any other central government agency is engaged in collecting information on these aspects. Newspapers, even local newspapers, seldom take notice of these cases, especially since the victims are often children and teenagers and most newspapers make an effort to protect young people by suppressing 'crime news' involving them. Because the official law enforcement agencies are unwilling or unable to cope with this growing situation it becomes the responsibility of the private civilian investigator to collect and collate the full details on this incidents. The hazards of such investigations are obvious but the job must be done. And it must be done fast with courage and intelligence.

"All of this has been brought upon us because we have wasted 20 years chasing lights in the sky and fussing with the Air Force. We have allowed a serious and volatile situation to develop under our very noses while we played with aimless speculations about the origin and nature of those rather insignificant vehicles overhead. We must switch our attention from the vehicles to the occupants. The menace is not in our skies. It is on the ground and at this moment it is spreading like a disease across the country and the world."

So what's new, John? You and a handful of serious researchers are finally coming to the same realization achieved by Charles Fort three generations earlier: We are property! But, as your warning article indicates, the big question now is: who's going to win the fight for control of the earth -- between the contesting owners -- between the present landlords who are at home in the earth-moon system -- and would-be landlords from outer space. At this time the issue is still in doubt, but the dimensions of the conflict are becoming clearer to those who search for truth in the Flying Saucer phenomenon. These are very, very few in number as the size of this audience here tonight indicates. The rest of mankind is either afraid to look into this or doesn't care.

THE INTERPLANETARY FEDERATION

The landlords I would prefer for earth are the ones we call the Guardians. These are men and women of good will, the good guys, who patrol space and try to keep some kind of order out there as well as here, without interfering too much with our evolution.

George Hunt Williamson and his group at Prescott, Arizona received a bunch of messages from these Visitors back in 1952. Here's one that's typical and it gives a hint as to why our Air Force has "wasted 20 years chasing lights in the sky!":

Aug. 31, 1952 - "Certain great powers in your world wish to see us go away or see us destroyed. Neither will happen. These powers fear us and when you fear anything you hate it. All planets have come to help certain ones on Saras (earth). Those of the right mind are one with us! We will not harm anyone, only their own thoughts can do that. Evil destroys evil. Bounceback! Certain seeds have been planted on Saras. To apples we salt we return."

The first sentence of the above message is very revealing when one considers the unanimous "silence policy" of all earth governments regarding Flying Saucers. Who are the secret "great powers" who run the earth, at a profit, and will do anything to keep us confined to the planet and ignorant of the continuing presence of the Guardians? Let the machinations of these evil ones speak for themselves, as revealed in John Keel's summary of the operations of the Men in Black, and in several more incidents I'd like to give now.

THE DEAD ENGINEERS

Earlier this year Mrs. Crabb and I made a lecture trip up the Pacific Coast. At one place we stayed overnight as guests of a Flying Saucer researcher who has a considerable technical background in the space sciences. While there he showed me a letter, a job-offer, written to him by an engineering firm with headquarters in the Denver area. The date of the letter was August 1961 and it outlined a proposal to set up an anti-gravity research project aimed at building flyable hardware using the radical new source of propulsion. This group of physicists and engineers were confident they had some sound theory, derived in part as I recall, from the researches of W.B. Smith, the late Canadian Flying Saucer expert; and they also had plenty of research money, freed by Congress after President Jack Kennedy's message to that body in May 1961. Our UFO researcher friend declined the job-offer. I don't believe he even bothered to reply!

He was reminded of it four years later when he attended the Flying Saucer convention in Reno, Nevada. While there he was approached by a distraught woman, well dressed and in her mid-fifties, who insisted on talking to him in private. It turned out that she was the widow of one of the leading engineers in the anti-gravity project. The group had achieved 100% of their objective. Theory was carried through research and development to where a two-placer was designed, built, disassembled, hauled secretly to a deserted spot in the New Orleans area, reassembled and successfully flown to a pre-determined landing site in Florida.

The widow then told our friend that within two days of the successful test flight of the man-carrying Flying Saucer all of the leaders of the group had died violent deaths. Subsequently several of their widows had died under unusual or mysterious circumstances and she was constantly on the move, in fear of her life. In fact, she said, she had been warned by a friendly and inebriated government agent -- or at least by one who identified himself as such -- to forget her married name and the fact that such a man as her husband had ever existed!

Need I point out that anti-gravity promises a new, universal, radical, cheap source of power which is a real threat to the vested interests who control the oil and electric power industries? You might object that the managers of American industries are not so cruel and ruthless as all that! To which I sadly reply, look at the billions in profits that have been made by American business from the war in Vietnam, with 30,000 American soldiers killed and who knows how many hundreds of thousands of soldiers and civilians killed on the other side. Blood money.

BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING YOU!

There are several elements in the preceding story which deserve review. First, it is obvious that the ranks of the Denver-area engineering firm were infiltrated by outside agents who, if they couldn't block successful research on anti-gravity, were dedicated to appropriating the flyable hardware for their own use and at the same time blocking any further operations of the firm. The story also tells us that a certain elite group here in the United States now has a Flying Saucer of its own -- if it didn't already have some manufactured elsewhere -- perhaps by the "Advanced Projects" division of Martin-Baltimore, set up in 1954. So we can now assume that some Flying Saucer sightings in this country and elsewhere can be attributable to equipment manufactured right here in the United States.

The sudden deaths of the leaders of the Denver-area firm are reminders of the continuing series of sudden deaths of key witnesses to the Kennedy assassination in Dallas in 1963. At last count by editor Robert Penn Warren, 25 or 30 of these marked people have departed the earthly scene. Others have been warned to keep their mouths shut. Are we here getting a glimpse of the clandestine operations of certain "secret powers" who don't want the Visitors to approach the earth or make their presence known? What do you think?

Not long ago, while having coffee one morning in a downtown restaurant in Vista, I was approached quietly by the manager of one of the local branch stores. From previous conversations he knew of my interest in things borderland.

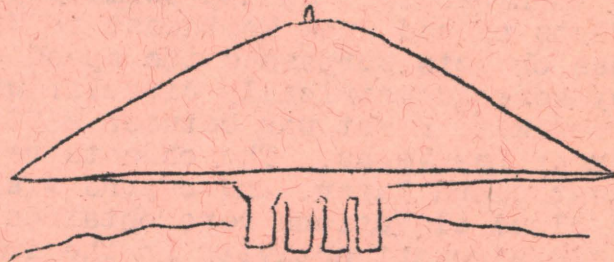

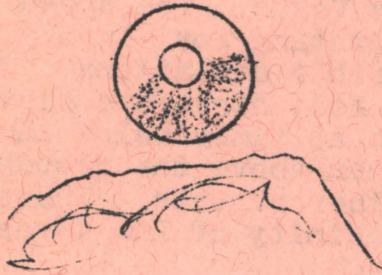

"Do you believe it's possible that the United States government has Flying Saucers in its possession?" he asked me bluntly.

"Yes, I believe so," I replied. I was mindful of the Denver-area engineering firm story heard earlier that year, and also of the Flying Saucer "museum" at Wright Field, Ohio, which is rumored to contain several crashed UFOs. "Why do you ask?"

"Well, my son told me about one when he was home on leave from the Army. It was Christmas, 1966. At that time he was stationed at Ft. Hustis, Virginia. His CO sent him with a verbal message to the CO of a top-security in another part of the base. When he walked into this building, here was a space ship sitting on the floor. He didn't have a chance to examine it, of course, and the officer-in-charge warned him not to tell anyone of what he had seen.

Further confirmation of a sort is in Gene Duplantier's "Saucers, Space & Science" magazine published in Canada. From a recent issue we quote: "THE U.S. GOVERNMENT AND THE UFOS -- the photo on the left showing a UFO was made by a New Mexico State University student while he was on a geology expedition near Las Cruces, N.M., in March 1967. The Columbus Dispatch newspaper linked the many UFO reports in the southwest U.S. in 1966 and 1967 with a government space project. The author of the article, Paul Massa, said he saw and photographed a discarded saucer-shaped spacecraft while on a tour of the White Sands, N.M. Missile Range six months ago. (Credit: Evening Gazette, Worcester, Mass. Sept. 25, 1968) The photo on the right was photographed at the Missile Range. Government officials preferred to deny the validity of the sightings. rather than explain what the UFOs were. (Credit: Toronto Telegram Sept 23, 1968. Thanks to Armand A. Laprade of Worcester and Jack Wilson of Toronto for this information.)"

The New Mexico UFO, above left, could be a hundred feet or so in diameter as it is seen in daylight, bright light coming from above and shaded area on lower side, as it floats along on edge above a typical, mesquite and rock-studded hill. The White Sands Saucer, above right, mock-up or real? Was photographed on the ground, white against a dark hill in the background, on which are buildings and a U.S. Army sign.

XXX, THE MYSTERIOUS BLACK SEDAN

We had our own confirmation of UFO activity in New Mexico in 1967 from a BSRAssociate who lived there at the time. He was a student at New Mexico Highlands University, Las Vegas, and had been a member of our organization since high school days in New York. He wrote the following experiences to me in mid-summer 1968, over six months after they happened, and from his home in New York.

"Shortly before the Colorado UFO flap, and almost immediately after the Alamosa incident (Snippy, the race horse's death theoretically by an UFO) there were several strange incidents right in Las Vegas, New Mexico.

"During the weekend of Sept. 17, 1967, at 8:13 p.m. that same evening, there appeared in the Western direction an UFO with the same magnitude as Venus at full intensity. The UFO moved from West and traversed in direction to the North-east moving app. 3-5 degrees velocity/second. The color of the object was an intense electric blue. There seemed to be a fuzzy 'haze' around the immediate exterior. Although the intensity of the light made it hard to determine the actual shape of the object, it was determined to be disc shaped. One added note of concern: the object cast a bright reflection on shiny objects on the ground, as well as on the thin layer of clouds overhead. Later that evening (although probably coincidentally) there was a strong odor of burnt plastic along with the stench of iron-sulphide."

Back in the Middle Ages they called such a stench sulphur and brimstone and associated it with manifestations of the Devil or Satanic forces! The significance of this seems to have escaped our young Associate, even during the later events.

"On the Wednesday following there occurred a more controversial sighting made by close to 100 fellow classmates as well as a few townspeople. At approximately 10:30 a formation of dim lighted objects passed from Northeast to West of Las Vegas. The speed of these objects surpassed the speed of any migrating fowl in the area. They were geometrically circular with no visible deviations. The approximate height was between 2550 and 4500 feet above the elevation of Las Vegas. The objects were visible at times below the lowest cloud layer, and beyond visibility when above the clouds. The cloud elevations were obtained from weather reports. There is little aircraft activity in the immediate vicinity of Las Vegas.

CONTROVERSY AND INTIMIDATION FROM THE MIB

"A controversy was caused by threats to me and a few fellow students. The day immediately after this sighting I received a phone call from a friend who said that his life had been threatened if he so much as magnified the incident to higher authorities. He said I should refrain from doing the same. I did, for awhile anyway."

One can imagine the tremendous arguments among the college students and faculty, between those few who saw the Saucers and knew they were real from direct experience, and the many who did not and would violently reject the information as totally alien to their understanding.

"A few weeks later, the exact date I don't remember, I was out riding, with one of the town detectives on night police. We drove up into the mountains near Gallinas canyon for a view of the town. A light appeared in the sky. At first it didn't seem different from any aircraft. Then it moved erratically and reversed direction without circular deviation of known aircraft. It declined to the Eastern horizon near an old water tower, about five miles from us.

"We decided to take a chance and raced full speed in that direction. By the time we arrived there was a series of small brush fires near the tower. After extinguishing these we searched the area for the culprit. There was a deserted ranch house nearby, with a wooden fence. On the other side of the fence was a sharp decline into another canyon. Upon reaching this fence we stopped to obtain our direction and radio in a report. Just as suddenly as you blink an eye it became terribly hot. The area immediately before us in the decline became blood red. At that moment an object about 50 to 75 feet in diameter shot straight up into the sky at fantastic speed. The object was blood red. After an intense over-all search of the area we radioed in for official help.

CLASSIFIED: TOP SECRET

"The rest I cannot disclose because the investigation was kept official and gradually got into the hands of the Air Force. I tried to sleep it all off and forget it but later events almost caused me complete mental and physical breakdown. Not many will believe the rest of what I have to say but it doesn't matter.

"Two days after the sighting I too received a phone call and a mild threat. I was told that I should keep all the information of the sighting to myself and forget the whole affair. The next day a stranger met me in the street on my way into town. He knew everything about the sighting and even added information that confirmed some of my own research on Atlantology.

"About the sighting he made an open threat to me to keep my mouth quiet. I retorted that not many would believe me anyway. I made no mention of the cop who was with me at the time of the sighting but I thought of him. As though the stranger read my mind he immediately confirmed the cop's name and added that he too had been warned. From what I later learned the cop lost his job and was divorced by his wife. I will not disclose his name at the present time, without his permission. If I keep the rest of the story to myself it will result in a complete breakdown.

"Two days after the encounter with the stranger in a Las Vegas street, I was again walking downtown along the road. A black car came speeding in my direction. It veered over and almost hit me. I reported it to the nearest cop. He passed it off as a reckless driver, jumping the stop light. I was too angered and shaken to forget that car. The windows were not clear glass but tinted a smoky color, making it impossible to see the occupants. The rear license plate did not register any state. It showed nothing but three exes (XXX). I might have passed this off as a form of Diplomatic or Government car if it hadn't been for those tinted windows.

"Toward the end of October, while having a cup of coffee at my favorite cafe, and discussing politics with a few Fraternity fellows, a shot broke the monotony of the smoke-filled room. The bullet came through the front window and slammed into the wall about an inch above my head. Had I not just bent over to sip my coffee! I still get nervous twitches thinking of it. But this didn't satisfy the strangers (I was beginning to suspect connections), a streak of bad luck and freak accidents terminated the faith of my best friends. After being bed-ridden for two weeks with pneumonia and failing in my studies I began to take the hint. I've lost all hopes of returning to New Mexico Highlands University. Here I am, back home and unemployed, and classified 1-A.

"Some of the words of the stranger keep running through my mind, a series of violent earthquakes all over the world, due to the breaking of the San Andreas fault in California, a shift in the earth's axis causing the polar ice to melt and re-balance the land masses. This is nothing new but why do people have to suffer from knowing the truth about these things??? What harm is there in sighting a UFO?"

R.G., New York

There's no harm in sighting a UFO, but telling this startling and disagreeable truth to others who may be shocked into sudden awareness of the earth's inferior position in the solar system is something else! The boy who came west to college returned home a man, with a larger burden of knowledge than he bargained for when he signed up for an education at New Mexico Highlands University. Las Vegas, N.M. is over 6000 feet above sea level and about 150 miles north of the Army's White Sands Missile Range.

What BSRAssociate R.G. learned in October 1967 confirms what Ric Williamson and his group were told through ESP in Prescott, Arizona in the summer of 1952: "Certain great powers in your world wish us to go away or see us destroyed." The representatives of that "great power" here in the United States are seeing to it that all Flying Saucer evidence is covered up or discredited. This policy reveals that there is a secret government here in the United States; for the "silence policy" on Flying Saucers has remained unaltered since 1947 -- through four changes of administration in Washington. Nor will it be changed by the fifth, the Nixon administration. In all those 22 years the "silence policy" has never come up for public review or consideration; nor have the people even been given a chance to look at the facts and make a choice via the ballot box.

Whoever or whatever is running this nation from behind the scenes wants us to remain in ignorance, especially of its own operations in this radical new field. For, we have to admit the possibility that the UFO seen rising from the Las Vegas area canyon that night might have been our own. It is logical that American-built Saucers would be flight-tested in the White Sands Missile Range area. As to the real identity of the Air Force personnel who came that night to investigate the landing, and to silence Associate R.G. and the town detective -- they might have been members, human members of AISS, the U.S. Air Force's 4602nd Air Intelligence Service Squadron. Then again they might have been Men In Black parading as Air Force personnel. The average human being wouldn't know the difference! And these humanoids, or sub-human elementals, constantly patrolling the etheric borderland between the visible and invisible worlds, can presumably appear anywhere at any time, in any form which suits their purposes and our limited understanding.

AMERICAN "SAUCER" TL41

In their interesting and informative book, "Flying Saucer Occupants", Jim and Coral Lorenzen give this revealing sighting of a Flying Saucer:

"Early on the morning of March 23, 1966, Mr. Eddie Laxton, fifty-six, of Temple, Oklahoma, came upon a fish-shaped silver object in the road on Highway 70 near the Texas-Oklahoma state line. Laxton is an experienced electronics instructor at Shepard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls, Texas. He got out of his car, approached the object, and saw a man dressed in 'GI fatigues' (work uniform) standing by the craft. He turned back to his car to get his camera, and when he turned around the man was getting into the object via a ladder and the craft took off vertically. Laxton, familiar with aircraft, could not identify the object, although he got a good look at it. The letters, TL41, arranged vertically, were easily visible on the ship. It was learned later that a truck driver approaching from the opposite direction saw the same object. Laxton is sure that the object is a 'secret test vehicle', but if Anderson, the truck driver, is telling the truth when he says that other drivers have seen similar things on the road in the same area in the near past, we have a ridiculous situation in which some U.S. government agency is flying test machines outside the confines of guarded test ranges. What else, then? Perhaps test vehicles from another country? Not likely -- that would be too risky.

"Our only possible answer, then, is that our 'visitors' are modifying their own craft to look somewhat like earth aircraft, and dressing their crews to resemble ours. Why? That's a good question. If we hypothesize that they are attempting to confuse us, we only come up with another question: Why?"

The answer is simple to all but the wilfully blind. As long as we are divided and confused we can be controlled, and control means power and profit.

THE OKLAHOMA "BURN" CASE

The fall of 1966 produced another unusual UFO sighting, but more like the blood-red, heat-radiating spaceship seen by Associate R.G. in New Mexico than the TL41 seen by Laxton. The victim in this case was an 11-year-old Oklahoma farm girl, burned by a hovering space ship, and also harassed was the experienced researcher who dug into the case.

The little girl quarreled with her mother and ran out the kitchen door into the yard. Her mother heard her screaming, ran out herself to see a "round, glowing object, sort of like a flying ashtray", hurriedly departing the scene. Here's the way Saucer researchers Steiger and Whritenour describe it in "Saga" magazine.

"The rural family lived outside Oklahoma City but in an area wherein their local and protective agencies were based in Midwest City, a suburb of the larger city. Although the girl's mother put in a call to the local police, it was an Oklahoma City patrol car that answered her distress call. The private ambulance that picked up the child does not make emergency calls outside Midwest City, but the crew did make the trip out to the farm on that particular night. Two hours later the child was transferred from Midwest City hospital to Tinker Air Force Base Hospital, even though no member of the farm family was eligible under government rules for such hospitalization.

"KIDNAPPED"

"Two days after the incident, three witnesses reported that the entire family were packed into two large, blue vans. The witnesses described the vans as being colored 'Air Force Blue'."

"Saucer Scoop", Joan Whritenour's Saucer magazine had an experienced and level-headed investigator-researcher in Oklahoma City, Robert A. Stiff. He heard of the "burn" case but it took him several months to get in touch with some one who had access to records at the Air Base. It appeared that "the family had been flown to Washington, D.C. along with their personal belongings."

Then it was in February 1967 that Stiff began receiving a series of harassing phone calls from an anonymous voice that refused to identify himself, but warned Stiff to lay off the "burn" case, if he knew what was good for him! Here's a sample, from a call to his home at 7 p.m., May 12th:

"Mr. Stiff?"

"Speaking."

"The information concerning the burn case you have gathered will be of no help to you now. How much proof do you require before you believe this is no game?"

"I want to tell you something, whoever you are. . . ."

"At least you didn't say 'whatever' you are!" . . .

And again on June 30th this conversation with the invisible agent for some great power here on earth:

"Mr. Stiff?"

"Do me one favor before you start," replied Stiff. "Tell me who you are or who it is you are supposed to represent. There would be no way for me to prove this if you did tell me and perhaps I might believe some of what you say."

"Does it really matter who I am or who I represent?"

"Yes, it does."

"Let us say that I am a voice and I represent those that do not wish you to continue in your present pursuits."

But hard-headed, dedicated researcher that he was, Robert Stiff continued his "pursuit" of the truth in this case, even though he was warned again that he would be stopped. In this case no attempt was made to run him down with a black sedan; nor did any bullets crash through restaurant windows, aimed at his head. He went to the top, to Washington and Oklahoma Senator Mike Monroney who, at that time and like 99% of Americans, was unaware of the "silence policy" on Flying Saucers.

MONRONEY BECOMES A FLYING SAUCER BELIEVER

In June 1967 Stiff sent a brief Saucer item to "Saucer Scoop": "U.S. Senator Mike Monroney, Oklahoma, has authorized the release of UFO files regarding a UFO sighting, with injury, as reported in the previous issue of Scoop's 'International Date Line' column. Tinker AFB officials have admitted they do have a file on this case, but refuse to release it without orders from the Pentagon! This last statement seems strange considering the fact that the USAF has repeatedly disavowed claims of ufologists that such cases have been hushed up and that any orders at all came from the Pentagon. Senator Monroney heads a powerful Senate Committee and he has said the release order came from the Pentagon."

The above was Editor Whritenour's re-write of Stiff's news item. Now let us continue her story in "Saga".

"Just when Stiff felt that he was on the threshold of victory, the sky seemed to fall on his head and the bottom seemed to fall out of his solidly built UFO burn case. A local television special on Unidentified Flying Objects, which was to have featured Stiff and a discussion of the burn case, was nearly cancelled. When Stiff expressed his bewilderment, he was told that he could go on only if he did not mention the burn case. The director told Stiff that he had been ordered by the station manager not to include any mention of the little girl or her mysterious searing. No reason was given and the director was as puzzled as the researcher. Senator Monroney suddenly lost interest in the case, and Tinker AFB decided that they could not release the files on the burn case after all."

It would take only one call from the Federal Communications Commission to a TV station owner, questioning the validity of the station's broadcasting license, to get the owner and manager to suddenly decide that Flying Saucers are not really worth the time. And these responsible men would be right! UFOs are not a popular subject with the general public. I've proven this many times in my lecture tours across the south, including Oklahoma City. The people stay away in droves!

This frustrating climax to months of work built up so much tension in Stiff that he suffered a blood clot (phlebitis) in one of his legs and was bedridden for a week -- or should his illness be attributed to the Men In Black -- or underground Deros -- beam- ing a "tamper ray" into Stiff as a warning of worse things to come if he continued to push his investigations?

IS THERE AN INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT?

Are our elected representatives in Washington mere "front men" for shadowy figures behind the scenes whose power endures from generation to generation, while the political administration changes every four or eight years? It seems so when we realize that the "silence policy" on Flying Saucers has endured through four changes of administration. We pose the further question, are these black robed figures in the background real human beings or are they or are they monsters from some Astral hell in the bowels of the earth, directing the Washington puppets by telepathic suggestion? We don't know for sure. If we did, our life probably wouldn't be worth a plugged nickel. In any event, Robert Stiff, the Oklahoma investigator, was given a glimpse of the power behind the scenes in our nation's capitol.

Maybe there are several invisible governments in the world, pulling strings from behind the scenes, each operating in its own sphere of influence but working smoothly enough in concert when their facade of respectability -- and their profitable control over the masses -- is threatened from without.

Paul, Paulus or Apollos, one of the most widely traveled men of his day -- his full name was Apollonius of Tyana, a Greek adept -- was fully aware of these invisible governments 1900 years ago, and warned thinking people to be aware of them in his letters. Paul knew that the Power behind the powers that ruled the rulers was not physical, as he wrote in Ephesians 6:12:

"For we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

We have two television series on now which are teaching the public the good and evil aspects of these invisible "powers and principalities".. The programs are "The Invaders" and "Star Trek". "Star Trek" dramatizes that happy future day when earth and its mankind will have joined the Federation of Planets of the Solar System. In that new age a-dawning the nations of the earth will have subdued their differences enough to form a world government which can meet with representatives of other worlds who have already formed a space federation, for keeping peace in the solar system and with other systems. Interplanetary and inter-system space patrol to keep the peace.

"The Invaders" points up the need for space patrol to protect infant and unsuspecting -- and unbelieving -- mankind from evil beings from dying worlds. The Invaders are looking over the earth as a welcome home loaded with plenty of air and water, ~~but first they~~ have to get rid of us!

One of the most shocking and revealing of the "Invaders" series concerned the Mafia and its world wide operations. Briefly, the story line began with the arrival of a freighter from Vietnam with a ton of opium in its hold, destined for the Mafia here in San Francisco. While crossing the Pacific the crew saw a Flying Saucer in trouble. In fact, fragments of this Invader from outer space fell on the ship's deck. These were gathered up and put on a pallet in the hold. The captain gave the story to the press on arrival here. The hero of the series, David Vincent, read the brief news item, got in touch with the reporter who saw the fragments and wrote the story, and the two went to the practically deserted ship at the wharf down here to see them.

Of course when the two got into the hold where they UFO fragments had been stored, they were gone, removed by the Invaders. Just for the hell of it, the Invaders also removed the ton of opium, to their own secret headquarters here in the city. Then the Mafia henchmen arrive for their goods, and find only David and the reporter -- whom they naturally suspect of having stolen their goods. So, Vincent and the reporter are kidnapped. The two are threatened with death to force them to reveal where the dope is. You can imagine the reaction of the Mafia leaders when Vincent tells them the truth, that the opium was probably taken by the Invaders who owned the Saucer fragments. But their scepticism lasted only until a member of their own staff was revealed to be an Invader. He was shot before their eyes, in their own office, and he incinerated, his body dematerialized in seconds. The Mafia couldn't deny the evidence of his own eyes but he scarcely turned a hair at this amazing episode. He still wanted that ton of dope and was willing to deal with the Invaders to get it back. David helped the Mafia get in touch with the Invaders' hq in town, but unknown to him, the deal offered by the Mafia was David for the dope! To which the aliens agreed. As it turned out, the Invaders didn't get Vincent, and the Mafia didn't get their goods. It made a terrifically dramatic story, in my estimation one of the most gripping, and revealing of the series. The point I wanted to bring out here was the memorable line of the Mafia leader, after circumstances forced him to believe Vincent's explanation of the presence of the Invaders:

"So they want to take over the planet, do they? Well if they do, they'll have to deal with us. We run it!"

Remember what Ric Williamson was told in 1952, by the Visitors from outer space who contacted him and his group: "Certain great powers in your world wish to see us go away or see us destroyed. Neither will happen. . . ."

There must be a hell of a battle going on in the invisible realms above and below the surface of the earth. Once in awhile a corner of the veil hiding this part of Armageddon from us is lifted momentarily, and we get a tantalizing or frightening glimpse of the "powers of darkness" and their clandestine operations.

The founder of our organization, BSRA, and first director, Meade Layne, was afforded such a glimpse back in 1945 while doing psychic research in San Diego. Through a medium he established communication with some Beings who seemed to be of a very high order. They offered a God-like indifference in answering any question, if it was not asked for personal advantage over someone else.

SO NEAR THE END OF THE AGE

"It doesn't matter what information is now given to man," they said, "since the end of the era is so close at hand."

Mr. Layne was concerned about the truth of the Cavern world beneath our feet as described by Richard Shaver in the articles in "Amazing Stories" magazine, and of the physical reality of Shaver's Deros, the degenerate descendants of Atlantean slaves and workers who went underground thousands of years ago. Shaver claimed to have personally visited the Caverns himself. Meade was staggered by the reply which came through the medium.

"Mr. Shaver's story of his personal experiences, though fantastic, is substantially true. . .

"Yes, the Deros exist. Yes, they have physical bodies much like your own. Yes, they inhabit underground regions. Yes, the machines exist. The Deros are degenerate descendants of Atlanteans.

"The Caverns are widely distributed, but there are foci and I can name them. The Black Forest, the Alpine regions. Central America, Korea, Siberia, Iran, and especially San Sebastian (north coast of Spain resort) and nearby regions.

"The situation is this. The Deros are nearly mindless, degenerate; hence they are an easy prey to the Astral entities. All this gathering trouble originates among the latter. The machines are now completed creations, as thought-forms on the Astral. These forms are being projected upon the Deros with the idea that the latter can be controlled to the point of constructing the machines in dense matter. Or of conveying the vision of the machine to earth people until someone constructs a working model. Such construction would be a disaster. Pay no attention to the visions and pay no attention to the Deros. Invoke the powers of Good. The Deros constitute a nexus with the evil forces of the Astral. If you attend to them in any way you will strengthen this bond."

When I first read this communication in Meade Layne's Round Robin journal 15 years ago I could scarcely believe it, much less understand it! But in the last couple of years information has crossed my desk which reminded me of it; so I dug it out of our files to include it in this talk about who is controlling whom -- and how to read between the letters in the words!

With the above seance message/in mind, now read with me the important parts of a letter I received from an Associate in May 1967: "I recently wrote to John Hatfield Hart, who, you may remember, published an article in Ray Palmer's 'Hidden World No. 12' on the building of the 'Hidden World Receiver'. . . I tried to find out more about the very Shaverian type happenings referred to in the March 1964 'Search' article, by John Hart, 'The House on 306 Ridge Road'. It is Ridge avenue, not Road, in Youngstown, Ohio only a few miles from where I live. I just read the article now and went up to the site. All the 300s have been demolished to make room for a bypass, but there were real 'Weird Tales' type happenings there seven or eight years ago. These involved very unusual electronic 'mech' in a basement at 306, a fully equipped lab with technicians, and an offer to a friend of Hart's to work on the equipment at a fantastic salary, but without being permitted to leave, even for groceries, for the duration of his tenure!"

I believe this is an example of astral monsters trying to bring through the plans for destructive electronic equipment, prophesied to Meade Layne almost 20 years earlier. And by the way, Youngstown, Ohio is reputed to be one of the toughest towns or cities in the United States.

"The Youngstownner decided to call in the local police, feeling something illegal or detrimental to the country was going on. The police went to the house and went all through it. Nothing but dust, cobwebs, and an empty, dirty basement. No well-lighted lab, filled with strange machines and the latest electronics testing equipment! Not to mention the supervisor and the technicians. The aftermath is just as bad. The Youngstownner got a call a few months later and an even better job offer (which he refused) and was told by the same man who made him the original offer that it was pointless to send investigators, as the lab could be evacuated in a matter of minutes. The TV technicians told the man he didn't want the job and promised not to say anything to the police again, who obviously thought he was nuts and warned him not to call them in on any more wild goose chases.

"Hart found out about the happenings and took a Greyhound in from Gary, Indiana one cold winter's day to investigate. He dropped in to see his TV tech friend, then took a city bus to the site and walked up to the house. He was greeted by a man who fitted TV tech's description of the supervisor, who told Hart they had been expecting someone and was he by any chance from Gary, Indiana? This shook Hart up quite a bit! Then the supervisor asked Hart to walk up the street with him on an errand. Hart decided to walk as far as the bus stop and get out of this sinister-looking situation. As they walked and talked, Hart was offered a job, too; and he said he would consider it after he rode a bus downtown and did some shopping. The stranger then became very spiteful.

"I advise you not to leave Youngstown."

"I was thinking of no such thing," replied Hart.

"As the bus pulled up at the stop the stranger said, 'Well, if you insist on leaving, let me give you something to remember me by.'

strength

"The stranger pressed Hart with great/ on the arm as he was stepping up to the bus. He boarded it all right but after sitting down became very ill. He managed to make his transfer at the Greyhound Terminal but lay unconscious most of the way back to Gary and then had to remain in bed for two weeks, too weak to stand. His doctor diagnosed the case as chicken pox. He carries scars with him to this day, to remind him of the reality of the strange doings in Youngstown, Ohio."

WHAT'S YOUR REALITY?

Speaking of reality, the experience of the TV technician, and of John Hart, poses a pretty problem to the Flying Saucer researcher. If the basement lab at 306 Ridge Ave. was 3-D real when the TV tech visited it, how would you explain its real, or apparent, emptiness when the police arrived? Were the officers suddenly hypnotized so they thought they saw an empty, dusty basement? Or was the technician hypnotized into believing he saw an active lab in a really empty, dusty basement? Whichever choice you make there's still the 3-D reality of John Hart's experience. I don't think there is any use in trying to convince John, or John's wife, that that was an illusion! Especially since the Men In Black seem to be keeping Hart under surveillance at his home in Gary. Later in 1967 I had another letter from our Ohio Associate.

"The last time I talked to John Hart, the long black Cadillac with a Man In Black had just come into the picture. He has not acknowledged my letters recently so I may have to call him personally. I have been trying to avoid this as his wife discourages him from talking about the experience and its aftermath. His house is haunted with the sound of footsteps and other phenomena where there was no previous history of it.

"This UFO business is getting rather scary. I ran into a contact case practically in my own backyard, without knowing anything other than there was a low sighting of a Flying Saucer in our part of town. I got the address of a man who said he saw a spaceman across the street from his home. I went there prepared to get a description of a vague, helmeted and suited figure, and found out there had been a mental contact. This on the same day a small, intensely bright light appeared at my front window. It made a sweeping motion, and then vanished. This is not the end by any means. Things are continuing to happen to the contactee along the lines laid down by John Keel in his article in the October "Saga" magazine, 'UFO Agents of Terror'. Some Goodyear scientists got to the contactee three days before I did and told him not to reveal the message received from the glowing, silver-suited figure, which vanished after projecting the message. The scientists said the information squared with the stories of other contactees they'd been investigating, but they didn't want it to fall into the wrong hands and be used to authenticate a cock-and-bull story. So I don't know what it was."

Don't worry, we have plenty of messages from Visitors from outer space and we'll get into them later. Right now I want to remind you of Ken Arnold's similar, shocking experience in the granddaddy of all Flying Saucer sightings, the Maury Island case of June 21, 1947.

THE KIDNAPPED CONTACTEE

If you read Ray Palmer's "The Coming of the Saucers", and Ken Arnold's story in it, you'll remember that Ken flew to Tacoma, Washington July 29, 1947 to interview the lumberman contactee, Harold Dahl. After checking in to his hotel, Ken called Dahl, the two talked at Ken's hotel room and then Dahl took Arnold out to his secretary's little frame house to show him a bunch of the UFO fragments Dahl had picked up on Maury Island.

During the investigation Arnold called in his friend, Capt. Smith, United Airlines pilot, to help clear up the enigma and its many puzzling ramifications. They found themselves only getting deeper and deeper into something which was far, far beyond their limited understanding. The worst experience came on the fourth day, Aug. 3, 1947, when the two drove out to Dahl's secretary's house to say farewell to the contactee.

". . . it was only a ten minute ride. I had Smithy take exactly the same route and we arrived at the little white house on the corner. As we pulled up to the curb I could see that the house was empty. I exclaimed to myself, 'No, it cant be!' I knew that Captain Smith saw that I had suddenly become upset.

"In every respect that house was the same house, located in the same place where I had been the first night I met Harold Dahl. I got out of the car and walked up to the house, just as I had done that first night. I was completely baffled.

"As I stepped up on the porch my weight caused the same squeak. The screen door was ajar. There were cobwebs extending from the main entrance door to the screen. There was the frosted glass window, exactly as I recalled it. I opened the screen and there was the door knob and all the other aspects of the door as I remembered it, exactly as I had seen it four nights before. Speaking of cold chills, I felt like someone had poured a whole bucket of ice water down my neck. I could not believe it. (Imagine the feelings of the TV technician of Youngstown, Ohio when he took the cops to 306 Ridge Ave!)

"The house looked completely deserted and as if it hadn't been lived in for at least three months. I rushed around to the side of the house where I had noticed the radio aerial. Sure enough, there was the aerial, made out of 2x2s with the aerial wire leading in the side of the window. I had never heard of anything like this except in dreams. I was panicky.

"I raced around the house and peered in the windows. The rooms were all the same as I remembered, even to the kitchen nook and the color of the paint on the inside. I returned to the front door and tried it. It was locked. I remembered that door knob so well. When Harold Dahl four nights before had motioned me to go in, I had taken hold of the door knob. This time I took hold of the door knob in the same way. It felt exactly the same in my hand. The screen door and the main door were hinged exactly as before. I turned around and stood on the walk, mumbling to myself, "Incredible! Absolutely incredible!"

Arnold recalled the acute housing shortage in Tacoma and everywhere else in the country at that time. Realtors had long lists of families desperate for a house, any house, in which to live. Yes this place "looked like it had been vacant for months. There wasn't a stick of furniture inside, just dust, dirt, and cobwebs everywhere".

But this world-famous Flying Saucer researcher wasn't to realize how thoroughly the Men In Black had erased Harold Dahl's name from the book of life until after he had gotten back home to Boise, Idaho -- and presumably, Dahl's secretary and her children were removed along with him!

"Less than a month after all this occurred I attempted to call him and the operator (in Tacoma) told me they had no H.A. Dahl in their phone books. I didn't see how this could be possible. I had seen his name in the phone book and had called him myself. I was quite sure that new books hadn't come out within this month and decided that the long distance operator I talked to was mistaken. .

Of course she was mistaken, but who or what hypnotic influence caused her not to see Harold Dahl's name in the Tacoma phone book when Arnold called that August of 1947 from Boise? We'll never know; but one thing is sure, mighty forces for good and evil are locked in a gigantic struggle for control of the planet. Armageddon is on and human beings are easily expendable pawns in the game of war. They almost got Arnold himself, on his flight home from Tacoma to Boise. His plane crashed from low altitude on take off after a fueling stop. Someone, or something, had shut off the fuel line to the plane's carburetor. Or was this only a warning, of the kind referred to by John Keel, to Arnold to get out of Flying Saucer research.

ELECTRONIC MEAT CUTTING, ELEMENTAL STYLE

I have no idea of the kind of electronic equipment, or machinery, the Black Adepts of the Lower Astral plane want to bring through to the physical, referring back to the 1945 seance item on page 18 -- or what they were developing in the lab at 306 Ridge Ave., Youngstown, Ohio in the early 1960s; but I do know that today some bloodthirsty, meat-eating Flying Saucer occupants are using some highly sophisticated electronic equipment to satisfy their elemental craving for fresh blood and raw meat!

Just as Meade Layne was given access to certain highly classifled material on Lower Astral plane operations in 1945, through a trance medium; we have also been favored with such material in 19-67 and 68. Why? Because, like our former director, Mr. Layne, we we receive this material in an intelligent, open-minded way, analyze, it, and then through our publications, share it with thinking, searching people like yourselves.

One source of reliable information over the years has been the Ashtar Command. This identifies itself as a huge, quasi-military complex with over-all responsibility for patrol of space around this planet. It is messages from this source that help us to read between the words in the Flying Saucer phenomenon, and sometimes between the letters in the words.

Remember "Snippy" the Alamosa, Colorado horse that was found so peculiarly butchered in October 1967? The abdominal, brain and spinal cavities were empty, when the remains of the carcass were dissected by a pathologist. When found by the owner a few days earlier, the three-year old gelding was dead and all the flesh had been stripped from the horse's neck and head. The horse was kept at the Harry King ranch. When owner King found it he notified "Snippy's" owners, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Lewis, who went to see their dead favorite and investigate the area. To quote the Associated Press article:

"They said they found spots where the chico brush had been flattened to within 10 inches of the ground. Fifteen circular marks were found 100 yards from the horse. Another area was punched with six identical holes, each two inches wide and four inches deep, they said. The investigating committee Sunday measured markings on the ground and found the largest to be a circle 75 feet in diameter. Several smaller areas where the chico brush had been flattened were 15 feet in diameter."

A Denver committee of the National Investigating Committee on Aerial Phenomena -- NICAP, Major Donald Keyhoe's organization with headquarters in Washington D.C. -- accompanied the Lewises to the site. With them also was a man who identified himself as Capt. Dick Cable, wearing the uniform of an officer of the North American Air Defense Command. The newspaper article doesn't say whether or not anyone bothered to check the so-called captain's credentials.

"The committee returned to Denver Sunday night with several samples taken from the horse and an object, presumed to be a tool. Mrs. Lewis said she found the object on her second visit to the site. It was covered with horse hair and she said when she tried to wipe the hair off her hand turned red and began to burn. The burning persisted until she washed her hand. At the King Ranch Sunday night, the investigating group stood on the porch and watched two unidentified flying objects pass over the house, King said."

Naturally, local authorities came out with the wildest damn theories for explaining what happened to Snippy, including the one that he was struck and killed by lightning, which also stripped the flesh from his bones and emptied the body cavities! What "Captain Cable" thought is of no consequence. If asked he could not tell the truth anyhow, being bound by the stipulations of Paragraph 9, AFR 200-2, quoted earlier.

The father of the medium through whom we received the following information was curious about the Snippy case, and puzzled by the conflicting reports. (The horse was actually found Sept. 9th.) He couldn't "read between the words"; so through his daughter he got this information:

WHAT REALLY HAPPENS

"Many would like to know the real truth about what these UFOs are up to in their pursuit of men and animals. What really happens would be too great a shock to mortals who dwell in the safety of materialistic logic. It is perhaps unwise to go into great detail as to what actually happened in the horse incident in Colorado, but I wish to let you into an area of understanding of this type of happening.

"To begin with we are not dealing with the Christ Forces or entities that hare our laws, motives or actions. We are dealing with an opposite quality, one which you would term evil. These small beings are vampirish in nature. Though of the low 4th dimension they find both human and animal blood to their liking.

"It is with great haste and precision that they stun, kill and eat animals that are in an open and accessible area not too close to humans who they do not wish to utilize. In this instance they wanted a large quantity of blood and flesh, if possible, without attracting attention to their activities.

"The dissecting of the flesh is done with rays from their ships, and these hunks of meat are often eaten raw or are used in experimental labs of which they have many. This is not the only instance in which they have been caught red-handed, so to speak. They often prey upon wild animals in areas where they are free to carry on these experiments on the ground without interference from 3D mortals. The rays used to dissect these beasts are the same ones that are used to stun and kill. This is where your extensive radioactivity comes in these cases. These forces are becoming increasingly bold in their operations and they draw much added energy from the violent outbursts that humans all over the earth are subject to now. As this momentum accelerates these evil forces shall be manifesting in all manner of fiendish ways.

"It is with great urgency that we stress the importance of all humans to align themselves with the Christ Forces for Guidance, Understanding and Protection. Stand in the Christ Light and learn to use it. This is your only defense against this evil."

Myron, of the Ashtar Command.

THE CAVERN WORLD -- EARTH AND MOON

Mr. Hardie and his family weren't completely satisfied with Myron's information on electronic butchery of animals and humans. It only posed more questions. The next day this Guardian came through with another message:

"The people or should I say creatures that are doing these fiendish deeds come from both inside the earth, and bases that they have set up on the moon. Just as your earth has many different activities and kinds of entities moving about on it -- so does the Moon. ||

"This has to be cleansed away, and put into a new spiritual frequency. While the moon is not to have the same type of cleansing as the earth, it too will be part of the New Heaven. There is a constant negative activity going on under the earth -- large caverns are being used as hiding places for this kind of negation.

"Believe me they come in almost any size, shape or color. We monitor them at all times from our Stations and their efforts are expanding as the human level of emotion becomes more and more uncontrolled. This whole thing is going to burst like a balloon, and those of you who have heard the spiritual call shall be truly blest. Stand in the Christ Light and claim your Spiritual Heritage."

I am Myron -- Ashtar Command.

About the same time ordinary people and experts were trying to read between the lines of the Snippy case in Colorado, September 1967, a farmer near Allentown, Pennsylvania suffered the same kind of butchering on several of his cows! He called a veterinarian in to examine the strangely and expertly carved up beef. All of the blood and bone marrow had been taken by the vampires. Parts of the hides were also removed, cleanly and neatly and not in the ragged fashion resulting from attacks by wild animals.

Flying Saucer activity was the obvious link in two more cases reported by John Keel. In November 1966 "William Watson of Gallipolis, Ohio discovered his missing German shepherd dog in the center of an isolated field. The knee-high grass around the dog's body was pressed flat in a perfect circle, 20 feet in diameter. Although there was no sight that the dog had been attacked by any 'ordinary' animal, every bone in its body was crushed and there was no blood in evidence. Innumerable residents in the area had reported seeing low-flying, saucer-shaped objects shortly before the dog's carcass was found.

"A few months earlier a registered nurse living alone on a nearby farm had complained to the police and the FBI about mysterious 'cattle rustlers' who were slaughtering her cows late at night. She said that she had seen strange luminous objects hovering at tree-top level above her pastures on a number of occasions. One night she glimpsed a tall male figure dressed in white coveralls in her field.

She ran out with a shotgun and the figure left hurriedly, leaping over a tall fence with astounding ease. The cow carcasses had been expertly butchered in part and the bodies were bloodless."

Keel also tells of these unearthly cattle rustlers operating near Twin Falls, Idaho ten years earlier. "Three men reported seeing a saucer-shaped object, 200 feet in diameter, settle near a luckless steer. The object took off before they could reach it. The steer was gone when it flew off."

In California in 1963 a UFO was seen stampeding a ~~hand~~ of cattle. If they hadn't raised such a rumpus the farmer wouldn't have known about it. He got to his field just in time to see "a group of short men in white coveralls grab a calf and haul it into the object".

WHY DONT THEY STICK AROUND?

Aside from the fact of being discovered in clandestine operations, there must be another pressing reason why the bad guys, and probably the good guys as well, who fly the Saucers cannot or will not stay long on the surface of the earth or far away from their craft.

Several people were consciously in touch with the Ashtar Command in the mid-1950s. One of them was our BSR Associate, Trevor James. He wrote up his contacts, messages and comment in the book, "They Live In the Sky". Here is one interesting and revealing explanation; about their travel problems in sub-etheric earth:

"We are able to travel a great deal in our own etheric bodies. These are made of material so fine that they are responsive to the subtle energies of thought, over which we have complete control. Our bodies respond to these thought energies with exactness. However, in addition we have craft for the dense atmosphere of Shan. These are the Ventlas and other craft you have seen.

"It is a trial for a spaceman to come into the area and atmosphere of Shan (earth). The atmosphere and vibratory level are things they must endure in assisting your people. They use the craft as you would a submarine, to travel in an unnatural medium.

"At times it is necessary for them to leave the craft, in the same way that you would require your skin divers to go under the surface of your seas to perform certain tasks. But they must have bases where they can rest, where they can return for periods to their natural vibratory level and density which prevail within the craft we use.

"However, rest assured that many of the strange and changing shapes that have been observed as unidentified flying objects are actually the space men themselves. Remember, we are not gravity bound, and not of the same order of matter as yourselves."

Our Saucer files contain many stories of sightings of objects in the sky which looked and behaved more like living creatures than mechanical contrivances. One of the famous trans-Atlantic sightings of the 1950s would be a good example of this. As I recall a British airliner was on a flight from London to Montreal. Somewhere out beyond New foundland the crew sighted an irregular mass in level flight at their altitude and at their speed, going in their direction. This UFO accompanied them for miles, at times changing its blob-like shape, but never assuming the regular form we expect of power-operated, man-made vehicles. It was at least as large as the airliner.

Then there was the Unidentified Flying Monster that winged its way in broad daylight over a Massachusetts village back in 1843 or thereabouts. It crapped a huge glob of stinking jelly in the street to prove its etheric presence to any hard headed, material minded Yankee who doubted the reality of Visitors from Outer Space, human, animal or otherwise!

A SPACEMAN'S VIEW OF ARMAGEDDON

We promised you messages from Space. Here's another from Ashtar, giving us an over-all view of the general situation as he sees it from the Etheric plane above the surface of the earth. This came through another channel, Mrs. E.P.H., back in the 50s.

"Our presence and our purpose grow increasingly clear to all unbiased and unprejudiced people of your earth, and thousands eagerly await our visible appearance. It would be quite a relief if we could make a simultaneous landing on all portions of your globe -- which I might remark is entirely feasible at this very moment -- and, employing etheric forces in the use of which we are experts, put an end to the jangle of incongruous and irreconcilable factions now blocking all possibility of united efforts toward peace. Our instructions and our principles prevent our taking such a course.

"A predominance of resolution by the inhabitants themselves must precede our entrance on the scene en masse to use our superior powers to augment those possessed by mortals at this time. It is one thing to compound and explode such a hellish thing as your H-bomb, but where is the mortal who has solved the problem of preventing its explosion or of nullifying its deadly affect? No such person exists on your planet!"

Is there anyone who reads these words who can deny the truth of Ashtar's assertion, ten years or more after it was made? Here in the United States the Atomic Energy Commission goes right on testing bigger atomic weapons in deeper test wells in Nevada, and the biggest one of all is scheduled for Amchitka island in the Aleutians west of Alaska in 1969. The Russians surely continue developing and testing atomic weapons, and the French and the Chinese continue developing and testing theirs. The common people in all of these nations have no voice in these preparations. No one can stop the military maniacs in their suicidal course.

Back in 1964 we elected to office a man who ran on a peace platform, and voted him back into the Whitehouse, with the largest majority any president ever received. Then in a few months he escalated a little religious war in Vietnam into a major conflict involving over half a million Americans. There just dont seem to be any leaders around with principles strong enough to stand up to the Military-Industrial-Religious Establishment -- or if there are, like the Kennedys, they get bumped off. Right now we are going into the next round of missile development, the so-called Anti-Ballistic Missile system. Money has been appropriated for Research and Development. I suppose a token protest will be organized in Congress by a few liberals when it comes time to vote money for the next phase, building the hard sites. But there's no one alive in Washington or anywhere else to organize an effective protest. Let us see what else Ashtar has to say.

"One thing I would like to make crystal clear! We Space Men, in whatever capacity we may temporarily serve, are irrevocably pledged by the most solemn oaths to abide by those Universal Laws which alone can preserve life on every level of conscious existence. To accept or condone any variance from these fixed and unchangeable codes governing all honorable behavior would be to forfeit privileges we have earned through ages of unremitting effort.

"At times you may forget that the warfare rages upon the Astral planes simultaneously with the war on the physical plane. The mere fact that many thousands of mortals have been killed does not conclude the matter! They still live! Our problem is to segregate them, not by your earthly categories of race, age, sex, etc., but in accord with their innate purpose and desires. This greatly complicates our task.

AMERICA PRESERVED AND CLEANSED

"But I say to you in all solemnity, your country shall be saved as by a miracle. It will not be a peaceful deliverance; but through the unfaltering loyalty of millions who have placed their faith in the Master, the Christ of God, this land will be cleansed of the abominations now infesting it!

"A long and arduous warfare has been waged against the Powers of Darkness impinging upon earth's inhabitants from invisible citadels where Lucifer has long reigned supreme over his vassals -- invisible to mortals -- assigning to his followers tasks of fiendish ingenuity to entrap and enveigle human beings into abject slavery to his demands."

Lucifer demands the life of any liberal political leader who might thwart his long range plans to get mankind into an all out atomic war which would eventually blow up the earth; so his followers inspire religious fanatics to become political assassins.

"As it rages on the physical plane there are three types of weapons to be employed. First: the actual material armaments necessary for defense. Second: mental agility necessary to recognize delusive propaganda. Third: the spiritual awareness and moral stamina to move steadily forward in defiance of all resistance, to establish and maintain regimes of honest government in every phase of human affairs.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF PEACE AND PROSPERITY

"Not without physical discomfort and suffering may the victory be won. Mortals must prove their mettle. Armageddon affords you a glorious opportunity to show yourself worthy to participate in the responsibilities as well as the privileges of the Golden Age.

"Our means of thought communication and visual observation of any person or place on the entire globe is beyond your present comprehension. It makes possible the fulfilling of a promise many times repeated, that all who put their trust in God will be Divinely protected under all circumstances.

"Our appearance in physical form or the materializing of the ships we use occur only on instructions from our Headquarters far above bases in your stratosphere. (The Madrid, Spain sighting of Sept. 5, 1968 with which we opened this lecture would be a good example of this kind of planned appearance. Thousands of Madrilenos were thronging the streets to see the runner with the Olympic torch.) They follow a predetermined schedule, not as to your clocks and calendars but in conformity with carefully computed sequences of events depending largely on mortal reaction to each step in the program. Many factors enter into the decisions made, such as planetary influences of a magnetic type, astral conditions, changing vibratory rates in many parts of the globe. This is owing to peoples' awakening to their peril and their making desperate attempts to extricate themselves. This latter consideration is perhaps the most potent point in our releasing forces in their behalf. You must yourselves instigate the attempt to gain your freedom before we can come to your rescue."

Think of the thousands upon thousands of Americans who have made hundreds of demonstrations against the war in Vietnam since President Johnson obeyed the orders of his bosses and began the escalation in 1965. Brave women actually beating upon the doors of the Pentagon demanding that the military maniacs "stop burning babies!" Others lying down in front of troop trains carrying soldiers to ports of embarkation on the Pacific coast. Consider the hundreds of brave college students who braved the violence and wrath of white Southerners and went into Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana to help Negroes to register to vote. It was a vain attempt to bring a semblance of democracy and representative government to a majority of callous, loveless whites who don't want it.

"Of course we fully sympathize with your interest in the mechanical construction and motive power used to achieve the feats of apparent wizardry which mark our arrival in your material world. Even though we may, for some specific purpose, invite you for a ride, it will be impossible for you to ferret out our secret of propulsion, since you have rejected opportunities afforded you to become acquainted with laws governing these higher forms of energy.

"Now, what we ask you to do is to believe in our reality and our entirely impersonal desire to be of service! The sooner these two facts are accepted by people generally, the more quickly and easily shall we be able to achieve our goal and the fewer lives will be lost in the process. We are admonished to save every soul who will gladly adapt to the glorious transformation scheduled for the New Age! Some may be removed from your planet to help for a time from planes invisible, as many thousands are now doing. I am referring to recent arrivals on the Astral planes, and to a great many others, dating back to your beloved George Washington, the immortal Lincoln, and other men of their caliber. We are submitting our plans to the Highest Court of Heaven for approval and we look forward with confidence to your whole-hearted cooperation."

My love and blessings, Ashtar.

Last month, at George Van Tassel's 15th Annual Space Convention at Giant Rock, California I heard of a serious attempt by the Ashtar Command -- I suppose it was they -- to awaken the public to their reality. The story was told by an experienced Saucer researcher of Chicago, Illinois, John Otto. He made a name for himself in this field by his untiring efforts to contact the Visitors with light-beam receivers, back in the 1950s.

It was while Otto was in New York to appear on Long John's all-night radio program on station WOR. I've been on it, too, as have most Saucer researchers and lecturers who have included New York in their trips. This particular night Long John and Otto made a long-distance phone link-up with reporters in Chicago, even by short-wave transmission to a well equipped boat. The reporters took John Otto's light-beam receiver out on Lake Michigan, sent out a call to the Visitors to reveal their presence in the skies. To the amazement of the reporters there was a tremendous display of lights all over the heavens. The display was sustained for several minutes.

Then one of the reporters, accepting the obvious reality and appearance of the display of lights, on command so to speak, asked of Otto in the studios in New York City, "I wonder where they are from?"

In immediate response to this all the lights in the sky went out except two, hundreds of miles long beams of light which formed a gigantic "V", for Venus! They had their answer. Otto was satisfied with the results of his work, until he saw the Chicago papers later. The V for Venus origin of the Visitors, some of them, had been left out of the news stories by the reporters, or cut out by the editors. Kind of discouraging, isn't it, to know of this control of the press. But, we keep trying.

MEETING ON THE MOON

The Mars Stronghold

Adapted from a two-hour talk given to the San Francisco
Interplanetary Club, Marine Memorial Bldg., April 25, 1969.

Prophecy is in the air these days as we talk about Intruders from the Moon -- Intruders on the Moon, ourselves when our Astronauts land there later this year -- and the Meeting on the Moon when we contact other Visitors from other planets in the solar system. But I want to go back to 1961 for this prophecy.

Reporters visited the U.S. Government missile and rocket factory at Huntsville, Alabama, for a tour of the place and a chat with the managers, including the famous German-American space scientist, Werner Von Braun. Among other questions they asked this.

"When our Astronauts get to the moon, what will they find?"

"Russians!" was Von Braun's half-humorous reply.

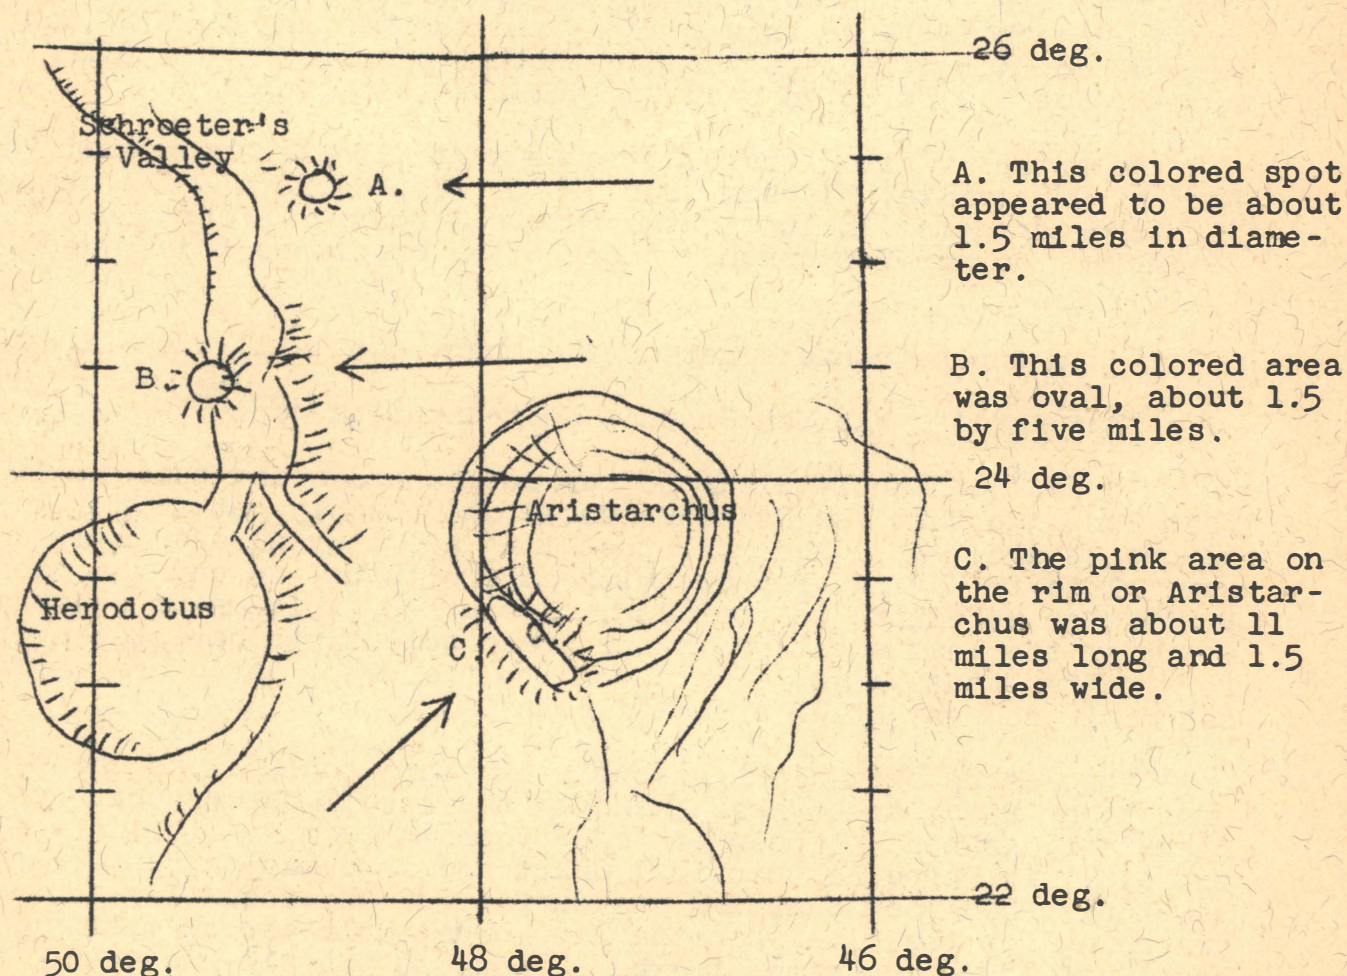

It was abundantly clear to our rocket and space scientists that long ago that the Russians would undoubtedly get to the moon before we did. Why? Because that long ago they already had, or were close to having, rockets with enough thrust to carry a manned vehicle or satellite to the moon. Because of this known superiority, for the last eight years our space scientists have taken it for granted that we would be second to the moon, as we have been second in so many other space "firsts".

Now let us skip along a couple of years to 1963, to the night of October 29th, to be exact, and to the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona. For over three years a team of civilians for the U.S. Air Force Aeronautical Chart and Information Center at St. Louis, had been charting the surface of the moon, I suppose, preparing for the time when the Air Force would set up military bases and launching sites there. I suppose you all know that Vandenberg Air Force Base, a couple of hundred miles down the coast, is to be the launching site for the Air Force's first big step in space, the Manned Orbiting Laboratory.

To get back to Flagstaff and the big Lowell telescope there. James A. Greenacre was on the job early in the evening of the 29th.

He swung the big glass on to the moon and focussed on the crater Aristarchus. Some of you may remember the news item on this. He was amazed to see a long, pink streak glowing on the rim of the crater. Then he saw another glowing mass of color a few miles away, over Schroeter's Valley. He called his assistant, Edward Barr, to view the phenomenon and confirm what he was seeing. Altogether the glows lasted about twenty minutes before they faded away. A month later, the night of November 27th, they saw this phenomenon again.

I have here Greenacre's article on this sighting. It was published in Harvard's "Sky and Telescope" magazine, December 1963. It also has a reproduction of the drawing of the area by Patricia Bridges, another member of the Air Force team. It is titled ACIC Lunar Chart LAC 39. On this lunar map she has marked in the location of the color phenomena.

Barr and Greenacre agreed that that color of A. and B. was reddish orange and "the color along the rim of Aristarchus did not sparkle like the other two spots. . . At approximately 7:00 I noticed that the spots at the Cobra Head and on the hill across the valley had changed to a light ruby red, yet their density and sparkle were still sufficient to hide the surface underneath. I had the impression I was looking into a large polished gem ruby but could not see through it. . . . "

In Greenacre's article in "Sky and Telescope" there's no hint that he even suspected that the color phenomena that night was created by space ships, but I understand that when he lectured on this to a group of astronomers and space scientists in New York the next spring he said this.

"When I saw that glow there over Aristarchus my heart sank down into the pit of my stomach. The Russians have gotten to the moon before us!"

There are two important implications in Greenacre's remark. First, his immediate reaction to the color phenomena was that they were man-made, not natural. At that time he estimates he had already spent some fifty hours mapping the Aristarchus region. This was the first time he had seen any sudden or significant change of any kind! Second, like the great majority of Americans, Greenacre firmly believes this is the only inhabited planet in the universe! There's nobody here but us chickens! So any indication of life or movement on the moon at this time could only be Russian life or movement. All reasoning of orthodox science is oriented to this fallacious and unreasonable concept.

WERE THE RUSSIANS FIRST TO THE MOON?

Yes, says an article in "Beyond" magazine. In the February 1969 issue there was an article which included an interview with a Russian space scientist who defected from the Soviet Union to Paris, France last year. He claimed to have been part of the Russian space program in 1968 and in earlier years. His name, Professor Lev Mohilyn. Last fall he told this American journalist in Paris that earlier last year, on June 5, 1968, a manned, Russian moon rocket was launched successfully from a base in the Ural mountains. It had two cosmonauts aboard, Ilya and Evgeny. They made it to the moon in about three days, accomplished a soft landing and got out to explore the surface.

While they were on the surface some sort of a mechanical monster came out of the soil or perhaps a cave, attacked Evgeny and killed him. Ilya was heard screaming and shouting over the radio linkup. He was ordered to get back into the space ship and return to earth. Ilya made a successful take off and return to earth.

This is a fantastic story and difficult to believe except for the fact that we know Russia has had the capability for manned flights to the moon for years. This has been openly and freely admitted by our space scientists. In fact they have been wondering what has been holding the Russians back?

And you may well ask, why wasn't news of the June 5, 1968 moon shot released here in the United States? In the "Beyond" article, Professor Mohilyn claims that Russian electronic scientists have learned how to mask radio and TV broadcasts so our Free World receivers cant pick them up, and this was done in the case of the June 5, 1968 moon shot. Maybe so, maybe not.

I do know that it is the policy of our government not to publicly announce the successful monitoring of Russian space shots unless the Russians themselves release news of the event! If we did release such information it might reveal to the Soviets just how sophisticated our tracking gear is. So, even if people in our tracking program knew of the June 5th shot, they would not and could not admit it publicly.

THE "SILENCE POLICY" ON FLYING SAUCERS

Regardless of their differences on almost everything else, there is one thing, one policy, on which the governments of the civilized world agree and that is the "silence policy" on Flying Saucers. For the Russians to admit this successful moon landing and to release at the same time evidence, tangible evidence in the violent death of Cosmonaut Ilya, that the moon is inhabited by beings who create mechanical monsters hostile to our visitors, would break the Silence Policy on Flying Saucers. With this startling news spreading like lightning all over the civilized world, suddenly the whole Flying Saucer picture would come into focus for everyone, and 21 years of public brainwashing would go down the drain. So there'll never be public acknowledgement of that 1968 moon shot -- at least not by our governments as they are presently constituted.

This goes for the Apollo 10 and 11 shots scheduled for later this year, 1969. If the Apollo 11 astronauts make it safely to the moon's surface and contact intelligent, living beings there; or if they uncover any other physical evidence that the moon is inhabited and used as a space base by others, under present government policy that evidence will be classified Top Secret. It will be censored. Remember AFR 200-2 quoted earlier? I'm sure NASA has similar regulations which are never publicly admitted. One reason why this "silence policy" has been so successful over the years is because the majority of the people are for it! They dont want to believe that the rest of the universe is inhabited, especially by beings who may be superior to us in morality and science. This is a blow to their egos.

Anything else to confirm the Russian moon landing of 1968? Yes, a Canadian saucer magazine quotes an official of the U.S. Army Space Development Program as saying "the first men to reach the moon must be prepared to fight for the privilege of landing". What I would like to know is did he make this statement before June 1968, from prior knowledge that the moon beings are hostile to our landing? Or did he make it after the disastrous Russian landing? And then there was that speculative article by Richard Reston in the Los Angeles "Times" for Jan. 19, 1969. He is head of the paper's bureau in Moscow, Russia.

RUSSIAN SPACE PLANS IGNORE THE MOON

Reston reviews an article in "Pravda", the official newspaper of the Communist party, which discusses the present Russian space program, quite different in emphasis and direction from the American program, mainly because the moon as an objective in space is not even mentioned! I can plainly see that Reston is puzzled by this. He writes:

"At this stage in space exploration, Soviet scientists are relying heavily on their capacity to construct permanent manned orbiting laboratories in the near future. In almost all official commentaries here, these scientists argue that the joint flight of Soyuz 4 and 5 constitutes a major breakthrough toward the assembly of huge space platforms." And he quotes "Pravda" as saying: "The flights to the planets will probably start not from the earth, but from an orbital station where cosmonauts, the fuel and inter-planetary space ships themselves will be brought from earth on special cargo rockets designed for repeated use."

So Reston concludes his Moscow dispatch with this observation: "Accordingly, the Russians are now talking about an eventual manned orbiting laboratory, while the American Apollo program moves toward a seemingly different objective, the landing of a man on the moon perhaps by mid-year."

Yup, the Russians wont be sending any more cosmonauts to the moon until they have the capability of protecting them from hostile action while on the surface. That's my conclusion.

We opened this talk with mention of prophecy. Here's another one, directly related to what we've just said. It was made by an Italian-South American, Parravicini, over 30 years ago, in 1938, and published in an Argentina magazine. To quote a translation of his prophecies from "Conocimiento" (Understanding):

"Flying Saucers in the world. The Space Age arrives. Watch out that you (humanity) will not lose out! The dog will be the first space explorer. Spacemen in the era of 1960-1970. There will be a wedding between astronauts. Explorers in space and man walking in space. (All Russian firsts.) There will be dizzyness on high in spacemen (the opening up of psychic awareness which will enable the astronauts eventually to see and hear etheric beings on the moon). They will die without returning. Space explorers will see a new planet. The space navigators will meet each other, and will greet each other. They will discover the Cosmic Beings. The world will become captured with the desire to conquer space. Men will go up and phenomena on high will be discovered. They will speak the truth and will be castigated. The moon will be the goal. Mars will be the goal. Man will not see the Planetary Being and will deprecate him and even more deny him. The world will then confuse itself in battles between the two extremes." (You can see from this that the astronauts will be wise to keep their Cosmic visions and visitations to themselves.)

RADIO SIGNALS FROM THE MOON

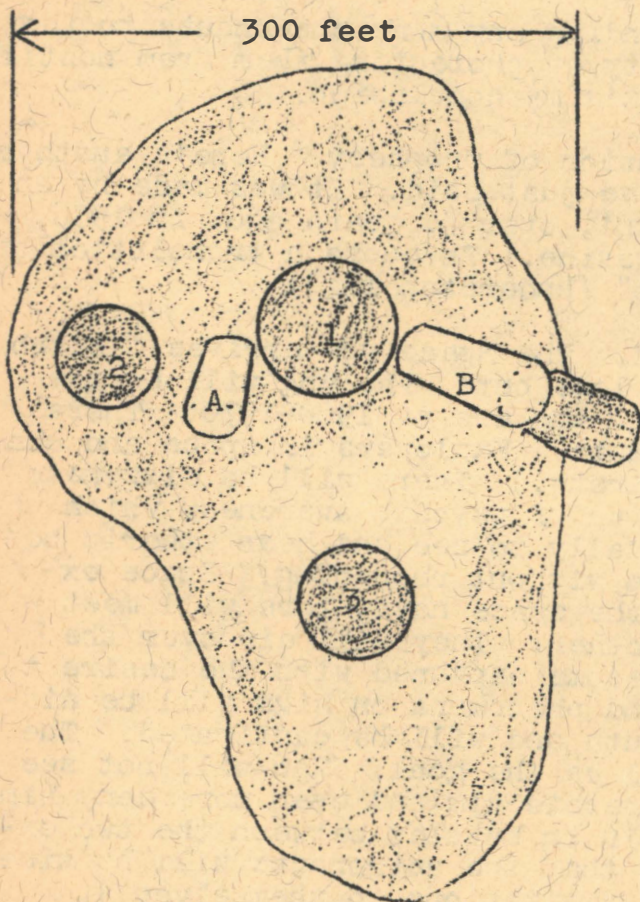

About the time Parravicini was making his prophecies in Argentina, a radio engineer was setting up and trying out a radical new type of receiving equipment in New Jersey, for the Bell Telephone Company. His name was Grote Reber. His equipment was the first crude radio telescope. Its purpose? To collect and focus radio waves from space, to measure the frequency of the waves and to identify their source, if possible. Orthodox astronomy says the moon is a dead place. Nothing ever happens there. But according to Bell Telephone engineer Karl Jansky something is happening there; for Reber turned his radio telescope on the moon and did receive signals from the moon. This was years ago, before such information was classified Top Secret. Jansky said the radio signals originated from inside the moon, not on the surface.

This would indicate that the interior of the moon is inhabited and that there is plenty of air there for oxygen-burning creatures like ourselves.

PROOF OF AN INHABITED INTERIOR?

This is suggested by two white stacks or ventilation shafts sticking up out of the moon's surface and photographed by Ranger VII, July 31, 1964, just before it crashed. Here is my comment and analysis in the Nov-Dec 1964 issue of our Journal of Borderland Research: "The Ranger photos show hundreds of small, shallow craters with no significant detail, except that one to the left of the impact spot. Dr. Kuiper, on television and later, guessed that the shafts were a 'cluster of rocks' tossed out ages ago by an eruption from the nearby crater Copernicus.

"At left is our drawing analysis of this unusual 'rock' formation, which doesn't show up in the series of photographs until Ranger was within 11 miles of the surface. It is the published photo taken at an altitude of about three miles which gives the most detail. Here the so-called rocks look like two brilliant white shafts, perfectly circular, thrusting up from the interior of the little crater. They are labeled A and B in our drawing. To the south of them is a small rocky cone or rise coming up out of the shadow. Astronomers say this crater is about 300 feet wide;

so these shafts, chimneys, or whatever they are, are about the same size as similar construction here on earth. Their symmetry as intelligently constructed objects is confirmed by the sharp, straight black shadow cast by B up over the edge of the crater and into the sunlight.

"This is about all the detail that can be seen in the dark reproduction of the photo in 'Life' magazine, Aug. 4, 1964 and in the November 'National Geographic', but that same, three-mile photo is reproduced much lighter in our Aug. 10, 1964 'Missiles and Rockets' magazine on page 22. We were surprised to see clearly outlined in between the bases of the two shafts a perfect circle, perhaps 40 or 50 feet across. The hole itself is pitch black, as though it led into the interior of the moon; but the edges are bright, like the edges of a gigantic bubble or lens. This is marked 1 in our drawing.

"As we looked at the M/R reproduction of the Ranger photo we became aware of two more perfect black holes in the crater, one to the left of the left-hand shaft, and one in the top of the little cone to the south of the shafts, marked 2 and 3 in our drawing.

"You can be sure that military and civilian photo analysts have devoted hundreds of hours to this particular 'rock' formation, but in view of the continuing 'silence policy' on Flying Saucers such technical analyses will be classified secret for years to come."

MORE MOON SPIRES IN 1966

Orbiter II sent back an interesting photo of seven spires grouped closely together on the surface of the moon. The camera shot was from directly above as Orbiter passed over them in November 1966. Their existence wouldn't have been suspected except for the long shadows cast, from a spire estimated to be 70 feet tall. A radio technician, looking at the cluster of spires, was reminded of a grouping of towers for a directional radio antenna. Earth-bound, hide-bound geologists see them as a natural formation.

"There are many of these rocks on the moon's surface," says Dr. Richard W. Shorthill of the Boeing Scientific Research Laboratory. "Pick some at random and you eventually will find a group that seems to conform to some kind of pattern."

But one gets a totally different view from Seattle anthropologist William Blair. He is a member of Boeing's biotechnology unit. "If such a complex of structures were photographed on earth, the archeologist's first order of business would be to inspect and excavate test trenches and thus validate whether the prospective site has archeological interest."

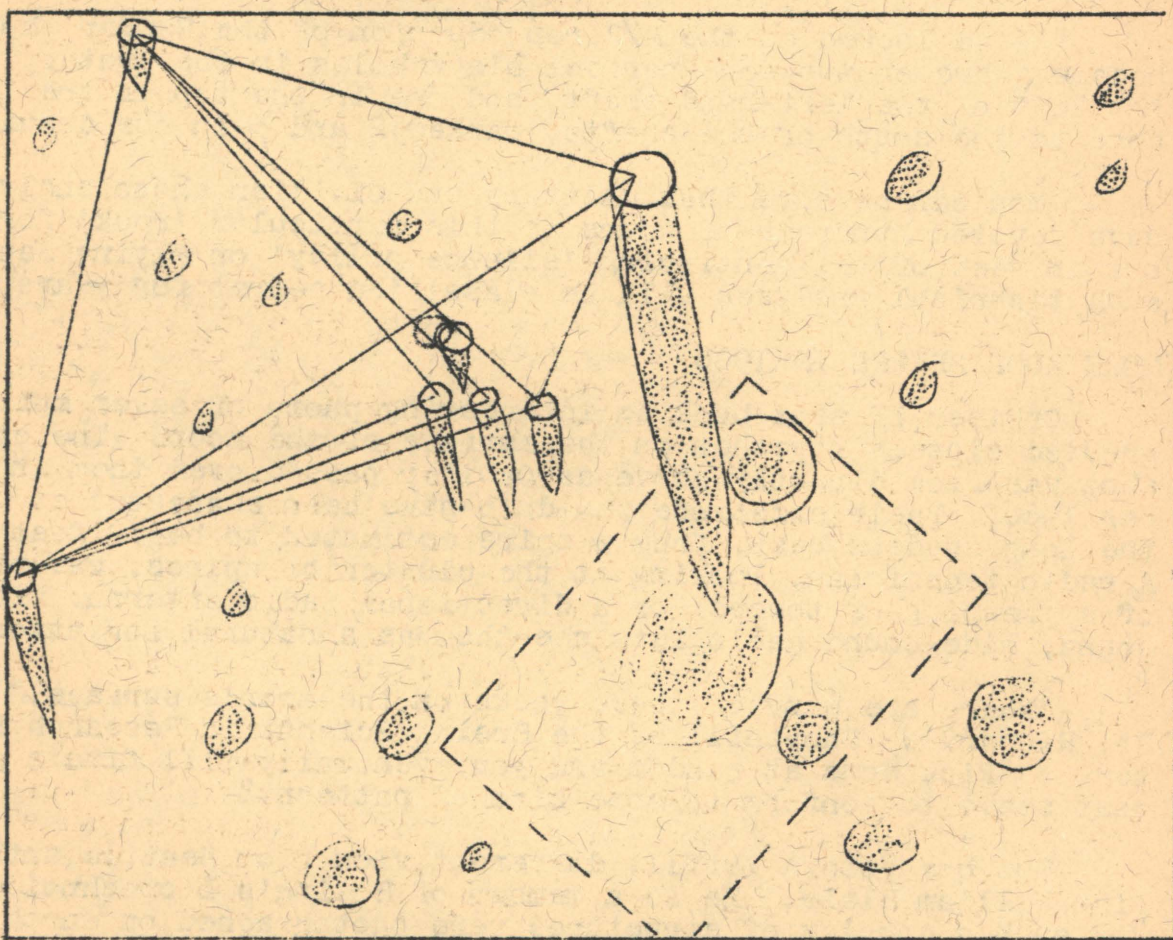

The spires were significant to him because they formed an X, Y and Z right-angle coordinate system, six isosceles triangles and two axes consisting of three points each. There were also indications of a large, rectangular pit west of the largest spire. "The shadow cast by this depression seems to indicate four 90-degree angles and resembles the profile of an eroded structure."

Blair also said that if Dr. Shorthill's axiom were applied to "the origin of such surface features on earth, more than half of the present known Aztec and Mayan architecture would still be under tree and bush studded depressions -- the result of 'natural geophysical processes'. The science of archeology would have never been developed, and most of the present knowledge of man's physical evolution would still be a mystery."

Dr. Shorthill's view is normal for an orthodox earth scientist: This is the only inhabited planet in the universe; so there couldn't possibly any man-made structures on the moon.

"THIS IS WHERE WE DIG."

The above drawing is copied from the LA "Times" newsphoto of Feb. 26, 1967, showing Blair's geometrical figures superimposed on Orbiter II photos. The long, pointed shadows indicate the seven blazing white spires. The longest shadow, made by a 70-foot spire, falls across the rectangular-shaped, depressed area. The rest of the moon-scape is pockmarked with the usual circular craters.

ARISTARCHUS A LANDING FIELD?

One more interesting item on Aristarchus, on the night of March 30, 1950, British astronomer Dr. Percy Wilkins sighted an oval-shaped something inside the crater. This UFO was hovering above the crater floor and gave off its own light. It glowed in the shadow. To the great disappointment of critics who rushed to attack this heresy, Dr. James Bartlett, Jr., an American astronomer reported seeing the same space ship the same night.

But it's time now to get into something deeper than data like this, which really tells us nothing. That's the trouble with the Flying Saucer phenomenon. You can accumulate data on sightings of lights on the moon for 50 years, 100 years, and you still know little than you knew before. You have to turn to occult science, for information which comes from the 4th Dimension. That's where the Flying Saucers come from. That's where you came from, and where you'll return to, when this life is over. The invisible etheric realms of the 4th Dimension. That's where the answer to the problem of the moon is, and to earth's problems as well, and life on it! Both the good and the bad. About the sinister side of the Moon H.P. Blavatsky had this to say, writing in "The Secret Doctrine" back in the 1880s:

"The moon is now the cold residual quantity, the shadow dragged after a new body, the earth, into which her living powers and 'principles' are transfused. The moon is now doomed for long ages to be ever pursuing the Earth, to be attracted to and to attract her progeny. Constantly vampirized by her child, the Earth, she revenges herself on it by soaking it through and through with nefarious, invisible and poisoned influence which emanates from the occult side of her nature. For she, the moon, is a dead, yet a living body. The particles of her decaying corpse are of active and destructive life, although the body which they formed is soulless and lifeless. (She is called a sidereal idiot in occult science, RHC.) Therefore the moon's emanations are at the same time beneficent and maleficent -- this circumstance finding its parallel on earth in the fact that grass and plants nowhere are more juicy and thriving than on the graves; while at the same time it is the graveyard or corpse-emanations which kill. And like all ghouls or vampires, the moon is the friend of sorcerers and the foe of the unwary. From the archaic aeons and the later times of the witches of Thessaly, down to some of the present tantrikas (Buddhists) of Bengal, her nature and properties were known to every Occultist, but have remained a closed book to the modern physicists."

How much of this insidious occult activity will be revealed to the general public in the years to come remains to be seen; very little, probably, for occult knowledge is beyond the grasp of the material minded. Meanwhile we would like to share with you some very interesting information on the positive uses of the moon and plans for our arrival there if the Astronauts came in peace! We received this information ten years ago, and how prophetically true it has become.

THE MARS STRONGHOLD ON THE MOON

Excerpted from "Astaron", Channeled Through Peggy LeGrand Baker In Charlottesville, Virginia
1958-1959

Digging back through BSRA's extensive file of Flying Saucer material recently, we found Peggy "Claudas" LeGrand's messages on the Mars Stronghold astonishingly prophetic of the spectacular success of the Apollo Project this year, 10 years later! As far as your editor is concerned, if there is any tangible proof of the existence of the Guardians in space, and their concern about our welfare and progress, this is it.

In June 1958 Astaron wrote through Peggy: "Maybe you will be allowed on the Moon, maybe not; but you will find nothing there. The Mars space shells will leave." But nevertheless the implication was that the Mars Stronghold would be maintained and the men manning the fortress would speak to the Astronauts "and send them home with a warning to earth".

Whether this meeting would be telepathically, while our Astronauts are in orbit around the Moon, or on the surface in apparent face to face confrontation, Astaron didn't say. If it's a face-to-face meeting while on the Moon's surface this July, if the Martians don't want their images to be picked up on Armstrong's TV camera, they won't be. The heightened psychic sensitivity of the Astronauts after several days in space should make such communication easy.

"Your military will try to force the Martians off the Moon," wrote Astaron through Peggy's hand, "or at least fight with them and injure them. This we will try to prevent." And he went on to say that the Guardians have volunteers, not only from Mars but also from Mercury and Venus on earth.

"These men are in every important group working on missiles, satellites and weapons that could be used in space travel and war," said Astaron.

Maybe it was the influence of the Visitors-in-the-flesh which set the Air Force's Manned Orbiting Laboratory program back so far, from 1970 to 1972 for the first launch, that caused the Pentagon to cancel the program.

One thing for sure, "All Mars men on the Moon want an agreement with Earth before earth satellites and Astronauts reach there." We were informed in 1958 through Peggy that much of the Moon's surface is not suitable for dense bodies such as ours, even with the lessened gravity of the Moon. But the Guardian said, "A safe landing can be arranged for your men if they are allowed to reach the Moon." The phenomenal success of the Apollo Project to date indicates that our peaceful, unarmed Astronauts are being encouraged to reach the Moon and to land on it.

"THE MOON IS NOT OPEN TO COLONIZING."

"We see the plan your scientists have for colonizing the Moon," wrote Astaron. "When one is blind, one blunders. Your ~~mean~~ mean well, some of them; but all worlds do not wait for Earth to colonize them. Nor for those of you who would run any world as they do the earth, with the voting booth and the cash register. The Moon is not open to colonizing and the Mars men there are not amused!"

Astaron went on to say that our Astronauts will be helped to visit the Moon and to bring back valuable information -- if they act as visitors and not as Invaders! The Guardians certainly don't want atomic weapons brought to the Moon and they would like to eliminate all atomic weapons and all atomis testing from the earth. Too much harm has already been done to our atmosphere, water and soil, and to the morale of our youth -- who have no future as long as atomic weapons are armed and aimed, ready to fire at a moment's notice.

"Government secrecy must be lessened. Our reality must come out. All veils must be lifted to some extent, between the Planes of consciousness, between the worlds, and between the masses and their leaders," said Astaron, and then he reminded us of the curse which certain of our planners, both Russian and American, lay on themselves and their work by their own evil intentions. "The war-like intentions of your military scientists is the greatest hazard to their own plans and testing!"

He also noted that some of our scientists are subconsciously responding to the invisible presence and influence of the Guardians -- those who are closely watching our Research and Development programs from the Etheric plane -- and the scientists have felt more friendly and open toward the Moon and the space program. It was the plan of the Guardians in 1959 that our first satellites to the Moon should circle and not land. We can only suppose that Werner von Braun and the other space scientists were impressed with this idea at that time; for ten years later this is how it is being done.

"The Martians want no earth settlements on the Moon at this time, especially by military-minded explorers. They want only a chosen few dedicated to peace. This is the kind of program for earth they are working on," wrote Peggy's communicator from space. "We know that many want to leave the earth and the Moon is the handiest object in space at this time. When your Astronauts do land, the Mars Stronghold men will have to create protective shields around them to protect them. They must be made invisible to the Moon natives!"

By October 1959, the information given to Peggy indicated, the Arvo and the Martians were ready to welcome a Moon landing by visitors from Earth, either manned or unmanned satellites, but only if the right men were aboard the manned vehicles. I take this to mean that the Arvinian Brotherhood at the Mars Stronghold would welcome earth men who believe in Flying Saucers, the reality of space travel by other beings, and the fact that all planets in the solar system are inhabited by intelligent, conscious life of some kind, whether physical, etheric, astral, mental or otherwise. Such Astronauts would then be mentally and emotionally ready for a peaceful meeting with the Guardians. They would listen to the information given about the federation of planets in the solar system, the warnings about space patrol activity against trouble makers, and would bring the information back to earth.

At that time, the fall of 1959, acceptable future Astronauts had already been singled out from the Etheric plane and their central place in the space program was being planned by the Guardians. It is interesting to note that of the original seven chosen, all had religious convictions and affiliations of some kind but there was not one Roman Catholic in the bunch.

THE RUSSIANS WERE FIRST, PHYSICALLY

It was a Russian satellite that first orbited the Moon, in October 1959, and brought back the first photos of the hidden side. These revealed nothing of the Moon's true Etheric appearance -- the plane of consciousness on which most activity takes place there. Peggy's communicators say the Russians do know of the existence of Etheric planets in the solar system but they can only guess at the Moon's real function -- unless perchance they should become students of the Mysteries and of Occult Science!

We tried with a Moon-orbiting satellite on Thanksgiving Day, 1959 but it failed. There was too much desperate hurry on the part of the Eisenhower administration to get something up there as a political ploy for the President.

Meanwhile, a small group of Earthians had been going to the Moon in their astral bodies. Good will ambassadors of some kind were needed to prove to the Stronghold people that some on earth were of peaceful intentions, and equally important, that they would welcome contact with peaceful Visitors from outer space who are practicing Christians in the truest sense of the word!

OUR AMBASSADORS TO THE MOON

Over a year earlier, in the summer of 1958 while our space scientists were recovering from the shock of Russia's first successes in space, Peggy was asked to list the names of her friends and contacts in metaphysical studies who might be willing to make the astral journey to the Mars Stronghold on the Moon. Someone was needed to represent this planet, who didn't have their own particular religious or political "ax to grind". The Guardians suggested to Peggy that only seven were needed, 12 at most, to make the plunge across the abyss of space to the Moon.

As none of those at first selected -- or who selected themselves by their fearless dedication and intellectual courage -- had the necessary training in conscious travel, through membership in some occult lodge; they could only be taken by guides in their astral bodies. But these international-minded, interplanetary-minded patriots were told they could learn to travel in full consciousness in their Etheric-physical or Light bodies later. Some Schools call it the Illumined body. Yogins call this vehicle the body of Manu-Maya-Kosha. It is created by mental power, with Soul Light directed through the higher centers in the Etheric Double. It is formed slowly in meditation through daily practice and held in existence by an act of will. ||

If you have no occult training and prefer the Mystic approach, you can try forming this Etheric duplicate of yourself as you fall asleep, through desire and love. The technique is touched on briefly in the Golden Dawn material and spelled out in greater detail in Chapter XVI of W.E. Butler's book, "The Magician, His Training and Work". Somewhere in her writings, Dion Fortune says that she succeeded in conscious projection from the physical only after she had learned her Spiritual name and could pronounce it aloud, when ready to transfer the spark of consciousness from the physical brain to the Body of Light.

A human group of New World Servers was needed for this project at that time and it was formed with people "ready for the journey to the Mars Stronghold and with an eager desire to serve". The larger goal of Astaron and his fellow spacemen was a chain of dedicated and intelligent servers three times around the world, representing the linkage of the three sister planets, Earth, Mars and Venus. The test of the members of the Circle of Three established through Peggy was: Are you willing to speak openly of the reality of this contact of Earth men with men from outer space, in speech and in writing?

At that time, Astaron told Peggy, the Guardians at the Mars Stronghold were rather hostile toward earth because of the greedy ideas of Moon colonization and planetary conquest in the minds of American and Russian space scientists and military leaders. This was why it was necessary to get a few peaceful humans to the Moon, "to win over men of the Mars Stronghold" because they would "respond to love, kindness and friendship".

Astaron and his associates in the Ashtar Command considered it equally important that "Earthmen must become aware of other planetary life and the Interplanetary Council!" There must also be Astral travel to the Moon, to Venus and to Mars, as a preliminary to physical travel in especially conditioned bodies. If this conditioning is not done, travel to other planets in the solar system will result in total amnesia -- or so we in BSRA were told many years ago. So what's the use of going to Mars if you've forgotten who you are or where you came from when you get there?

THE EDWARDS. AFB LANDING OF 1954

We in BSRA had private information that there was a landing of space ships at Edwards Air Force Base in California early in 1954. The ships and their crews were on display there for weeks while leading American citizens, civilian and military, were brought there, sworn to secrecy and shown the Visitors and their craft. I believe now that a similar attempt to break through the bonds of ignorance was made at a Russian base at about the same time. This event is discussed in greater detail in our lecture, "Flying Saucers Uncensored".

The Saucer landing at Edwards (Muroc Dry Lake) was a brave but futile gesture; for there was no real break in the "silence policy" on UFOs, then or later. President Eisenhower yielded to the will of MIR, the Military-Industrial-Religious complex, and remained silent about the Visitors from Mars. Meanwhile, the Air Force began gathering an elite group of physicists to study ways and means of circumventing gravity, the radical new source of power displayed by the Visitors at Edwards. This was revealed by General Nathan Twining in a speech at Amarillo, Texas, May 15, 1954 when he admitted that the best brains in the Air Force were attacking the riddle of the Flying Saucers. He said, "If they come from Mars, there is nothing to be alarmed about."

I believe the General wasn't speculating but speaking from direct knowledge learned earlier that year here in California. The peaceful intentions of the Guardians from Mars had been made clear. But there was nothing peaceful about the goals of the Advanced Projects division set up by George Trimble at Martin Co. in Baltimore in 1955, with Air Force funding. That goal was to develop the power to destroy Russia and bring the earth under control of MIR, then on to the Moon and the conquest of the solar system. So it's no wonder that the men at the Mars Stronghold on the Moon were cool to America's first manned thrust into space.

For the Air Force this was Project Dyna-Soar, but Secretary of Defense McNamara cancelled this in 1963, while peaceful Project Apollo was encouraged to go ahead under civilian direction.

FIRST CONFERENCE AT MARS STRONGHOLD

It occurred July 16, 1958, 12 hours after the new Moon. The peaceful Astral visitors from earth were welcomed by the Martians. Peggy was told the Venusian leader considered it a success. She had to take Astaron's word for it. She and the other Earthians who were taken out there remembered only bits and pieces of the trip and meeting because their consciousnesses were not conditioned as yet. The best proof was new ideas about space and man's place in it, which kept rising from their subconscious in the days that followed.

Because of this lack, Astaron brought in a new Teacher, an expert on conscious Etheric and Astral travel, Moro, from Uranus.

He wrote through Peggy's hand, "Yes, I shall aid with astral travel; for I am aware of methods of which you have never heard, New Age methods for those not versed in occult teachings; although those who are can profit by my methods to an even greater extent than the unknown. Few of you have worked extensively with this (astral travel) and it is very important for you to become proficient in the art. You will do much of this taveling from now on."

Another of her contacts at that time in 1958-59 was the inventor of the telegraph, Samuel F.B. Morse. His project from the "other side" was to develop ideas and designs for mechanical or electronic devices which would facilitate communication between the astral and physical plane. One he called an Electrotransmi-grator.

There are many others in this diversified group, deeply concerned with the world's peaceful entry into the Federation of Planets: Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Edison, Steinmetz, Nicola Tesla, also the members of America's Spiritual Hierarchy, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, George Washington.

"I see how the safety of earth is in the hands of our Space Brothers," wrote General Washington, "who in turn look to the Creator for all power. I throw my power in willingly with theirs to do all possible to unveil the enemy within, and bring peace, prosperity and true Godliness to my people."

So it was thrilling to learn ten years ago that the great men of America's past, and present, work with men of goodwill from Space. Astaron wrote, "In all the world America alone has within it the seeds of a true Brotherhood of Man."

Arvo, Commander in Chief of the Mars Stronghold on the Moon was introduced to her. "We can share your Moon, with love and wisdom helping, with others of our Space people aiding Earth in understanding. I hope we will be friends."

We learned that Spacemen contact only those chosen long ago.

These contactees are trained on the Inner Planes, usually in sleep, or in meditation if they are students of the Mysteries. From Moro came more instruction on conscious astral travel.

This special New Age ability is developed from desire to learn wisdom for a needy world! He or she must will to travel and remember. When in bed at night and ready to go to sleep, send your mind definitely toward a chosen planet. Reach out and up with mind and heart. Definitely will to make the contact and to return with conscious memories of where you have been and what you have seen. One-pointed concentration perfects the technique. Call on your guides and teachers for help, with the right motive, the desire to serve.

On Jan. 9, 1959 there was another conference at the Mars Stronghold. Peggy and her associates attended. Their guides and hosts were Astaron, Alsirian, Arvo, Kuth, Musur, Moro and others. To their disappointment, and to the disappointment of the Earthians, none of the earth group retained conscious memories of the trip. But through Peggy all were told that the proper development of the American Space Age program was discussed. One of the important conclusions reached was that "the Space Age in America must accept Outer Space communication!"

THE STRONGHOLD

Arvo, Mars Stronghold commander, described the place to her. It is built on a big plateau on the other side of the Moon. It is a circular building, with low ceiling and soft, indirect lighting. All the visitors were seated with the "garrison" around a circular conference table. There was a free exchange of ideas and Spacemen were impressed by the desire of the Earthians -- these humans at least -- to be friendly. After the conference there was a tour of the living quarters at the Stronghold and a visit to the Observatory.

The Earthians were told that the Moon natives are physical beings and they are evil, or allied with evil Astral forces. There were other races of people on the Moon but these were all destroyed through continuous fighting except for a remnant who stay at the Stronghold. So presumably these Moon natives are aware of their Guardians, even though the latter do not ordinarily have 3-D physical bodies.

Arvo and his Martians use Etheric bodies; thus the evil Moon natives cannot see nor harm them, and are held at bay, so to speak. The Moon natives have been trained to move freely and consciously in their astral bodies, by their black-hearted, black-souled masters of the Lower Astral hells of the Moon and Earth. I wonder if these evil Moon natives are the Men in Black, given temporarily materialized bodies to carry on their threatening surveillance work among Saucer contactees here on the earth. So hundreds of them are brought over from the Moon to help patrol the borderland between the two worlds and thus maintain the MIR "silence policy" on UFOs.

You ask, how can the evil Moon natives have astral consciousness and still not "see" and "hear" the Etheric Martians at the Stronghold? Because Etheric matter is not astral matter. The two are as different as night and day, and you must eventually learn the difference. The average person, on dying, goes right through the Etheric plane without being aware of it.

Arvo told Peggy that no one in the Mars Stronghold works with the Moon natives, and it is not primarily a Flying Saucer base. It is an observatory and communications center. It is also a Fortress protected by an Etheric force field, just one of several bases under the Ashtar Command, of which Arvo is one officer. This focus of Good on the other side of the Moon is literally and figuratively set up to help protect the Earth from its own evil forces, which are kept under constant observation from there. There are also patrols to watch for evil Invaders from deep space beyond the solar system.

THE LATCH STRING IS OUT

There was another conference at the Stronghold during the New Moon of March 1959. Peggy was told later the discussion subject was so secret the minds of the Earthian visitors were sealed, but otherwise they were encouraged to know they could "come at will" now and should make every effort to remember the non-secret portions of the trips.

One of these latter items was that the Martians at the Stronghold are members of an ancient occult order known as the Arvinian Brotherhood, with branches also on Earth and Venus. One of their major purposes is to avert disasters on the planets near them.

By the time of the next New Moon in April 1959 some of the Earthians were capable of travel in their Mental bodies. This posed the problem for Arvo and his staff, of evening three different frequencies, Mental, Astral and Etheric, for ease of communication between conference participants. The Earthians who came mentally were given temporary Astral forms. One of the subjects of concern at that time was the American space program. It was leaderless and mushrooming in all directions. Apparently it was Senate majority leader Johnson who was most open to suggestion by the Guardians at that time, and in a position of power to give direction to the Space program by pinpointing a definite target and date: "Put an American on the Moon by 1970!" He also turned a neat profit for his home state by using his influence to have NASA headquarters established just outside of Houston, Texas.

Meanwhile, members of The Circle of Three were urged to try to visit the Stronghold as often as possible during sleep, setting their course to the Moon by desire, and trusting in their own guides, teachers or the Guardians to do the rest. They were urged to study written material about astral travel, "We will blend your reading with our know-how."

Finally, these wise words from the Master Falconer: "Let no word of hate, fear, doubt or anger pass your lips; let no thought of them find shelter in your minds as the coming events in your country rouse the great multitude to these negative emotions.. Say little; pray and meditate much, for with you will be the Great Ones of all times and all worlds, a Glorious Company indeed for you and your companions to emulate.

"Forget yourselves and forget your own need for assurance or safety or of peace. Rather find these qualities within yourselves and spread them about you that others may find shelter with you who have no shelter within themselves. Above all, be joyful, for in the hour of seeming danger is a great redemption, a great safety that will be seen and blessed in days ahead. Keep your appointments at the Stronghold. You and your companions can join those there in formulating plans that will aid and protect you and your world. Go there and everywhere armed with all-embracing Love, knowing that your world rests in the One Great Love that cannot fail. . . "

THE CREED OF THE UNORGANIZED

From Ashtar Command, Through White Star

"We have come, as was the promise, to clear the Path for the establishment of His Kingdom upon this Planet. We have come as an advance echelon to announce the time is at hand for the Kingdom to externalize upon Earth, the time for the manifestation of Divine Rule upon your Planet. He who was appointed by the Supreme Command of the Universe, and supported by the Overlords of the System, now awaits the appointed day for His arrival and His manifestation and externalization to all those who are upon the Planet. . .

"Great Schools of Philosophy upon your Planet that could have turned their energies to the Program, and assisted in bringing forth a sound, basic presentation of that which was taking place, likewise would not accept the Coming of the Host. They turned away, leaving us no recourse but that now we shall not come to established groups that operate under certain laws and restrictions. We shall come only through those who have remained free of all bindings, all doctrines of orthodoxy, whether they be the so-called protestant churches, the so-called Catholic, the so-called metaphysical, the so-called occult, the so-called philosophical; for these all have their own creeds, their own formal religions, their own formal ceremonies. They have their established patterns.

"If these large groups had accepted the Coming at the time it was announced so many years ago, there would have been time to have brought all into agreement and unto acceptance of one ideal, one common call, one effort, and that toward the edification of the masses. But now there is no longer time for bringing about this stabilizing of religions, and so we present a Program free of all organizations, one free of Boards of Directors upon Earth, one free of by-laws, one free of creeds, one free of commitments, one free of paid memberships, one free of governmental control, one free to present the Word, not restricted, not bound, not limited to any one organizational pattern.

"We have therefore gathered in the Heavenly Kingdom, a host dedicated to this Program, all working together to bring forth upon the Planet the Teaching of the Christ, and to bring forth upon the Planet the Announcement of His Coming. To gather together from the four corners of the heavens, those so dedicated, and to gather together from the four corners of the Earth, those so dedicated, not under any banner of rules and regulations, not under any oath of allegiance, not under any creed, not under any doctrine, only the Truth as it is presented, and this is ascribed to by those who receive it, and they gather in Spirit together to form a great army of consciousness dedicated to right action, dedicated to the Plan."
