PREFACE

This work provides the reader with a brief introduction, Greek text, and English translation of the fascinating though difficult document known as the Mithras Liturgy. I initially prepared an introduction and translation of the Mithras Liturgy for a seminar on the Hellenistic mystery religions; the seminar was convened by Dr. Hans Dieter Betz during the fall semester of 1975 at Claremont Graduate School. My thanks to the participants in the seminar for their helpful comments. In particular I thank Dr. Edward O'Neil of the University of Southern California for his perceptive suggestions.

INTRODUCTION

The so-called Mithras Liturgy is included in this series of texts and translations for several reasons. The Liturgy is frequently mentioned in secondary literature, and has been partially translated into English upon several occasions, but it has not previously been available in its entirety in English translation. Furthermore, the Mithras Liturgy deserves the attention of students of early Christian literature and the history of religions, particularly Graeco-Roman religion: the Liturgy reflects an important religious tendency of its day, a syncretistic piety utilizing astrology and magic and emphasizing the ecstatic ascent of the individual soul. Of additional interest is the relationship of the Mithras Liturgy to the previously known Hermetic literature and the recently discovered tractates from Nag Hammadi (cf., for example, page 3, note b, below).

The Mithras Liturgy is part of the great magical codex of Paris (Papyrus 574 of the Bibliothèque Nationale). Presumably compiled in the early fourth century C.E., this codex contains a variety of tractates, hymns, recipes, and prescriptions, which were apparently collected for use in the working library of an Egyptian magician. Lines 475-834 of this codex constitute the Mithras Liturgy; these boundaries for the Liturgy are suggested by the continuity of thought within the Liturgy, by the punctuation utilized by the scribe, and by the apparent transition to a different section (lines 835-849: astrological calculations). Interestingly, lines 467-474 parallel lines 821-823 and 830-834: thus the Mithras Liturgy is placed between two closely related versions of spells utilizing lines from Homer.

The Mithras Liturgy received its name and fame from A. Dieterich. In 1903 Dieterich published his valuable book, Eine Mithrasliturgie, in which he proposed that the text in question contains an official liturgy of the Mithras cult, a Mithraic ritual for the ascent and immortalization of the soul. Although the Mithras Liturgy had been later adopted and somewhat adapted by Egyptian magicians, Dieterich concluded, the text still preserves the highest sacrament in which the Mithraic initiate could participate. However, since the publication of Dieterich's book, F. Cumont, R. Reitzenstein, and others have expressed skepticism concerning the Mithraic origin of the Liturgy. Thus, such scholars have suggested that more significant parallels to the Liturgy can be found in the Hermetic writings, or in individualistic and private mysteries, or in Graeco-Egyptian syncretism, magic, and solar piety. Yet the evidence amassed by Dieterich cannot be easily dismissed, for he highlights important echoes of Mithraism in the Mithras Liturgy: particularly striking are the mention of "the great god Hēlios Mithras" (line 482), the invocation of the elements (lines 487-537), the description of the fire-breathing god Aiōn (lines 587-616), and the portraits of Hēlios (lines 635-637) and the highest God (lines 693-704). Furthermore, the accounts of Celsus (in Origen, Contra Celsum, 6. 21-22) and Porphyry (De antro nympharum, 5-6 etc.) on Mithraism verify the fact that such a liturgy for the soul's ascent as the Mithras Liturgy could be quite compatible with at least some expressions of Mithraism.

Consequently, it is advisable to conclude that the Mithras Liturgy may indeed represent some variety of Mithraism--though not, to be sure, Mithraism as it is usually presented. If there is Mithraism in this papyrus, it is a Mithraism on the fringe, a Mithraism preoccupied with individualism, syncretism, and magic. The Mithras Liturgy may thus illustrate a direction taken by those carrying on the Mithras tradition in Egypt.

The text of the Mithras Liturgy is composed of two main parts: a liturgical mystery of ascent (lines 475-750), and a set of instructions (lines 750-834) for the use of the mystery. After the brief introduction (lines 475-485), the mystery of ascent presents the seven liturgical stages for the soul's ecstatic journey: the soul thus encounters the four elements (lines 485-537), in their generative and regenerative aspects; the lower powers of the air (lines 537-585), including the winds, bolts of thunder and lightning, and meteors; Aiōn and the Aionic powers (lines 585-628), as planetary guardians of the heavenly doors; Hēlios (lines 628-657), young and fiery; the seven Fates (lines 657-672) and, next, the seven Pole-Lords (lines 673-692), both groups from the region of the fixed stars, and both depicted in Egyptian fashion; and finally the highest God (lines 692-724), portrayed like Mithras himself. After the conclusion (lines 724-750) to the mystery of ascent, the instructions for the use of the mystery present a scarab ceremony of the sun (lines 750-798), provide instructions for the obtaining of the kentritis herb and the fashioning of amulets (lines 798-830), and append two additional spells (lines 831-834).

The predominant place of magic within the Mithras Liturgy deserves special mention. The entire text of the Liturgy is permeated with magic, including breathing techniques (cf. lines 537-538: drawing in breath from the rays), special recipes (cf. lines 750-755: preparing the cake for the scarab), magical rituals (cf. lines 767-769: burying the scarab), amulets (cf. lines 659-660: kissing the amulets), and magical formulae. The magical formulae themselves are diverse in character: some seem onomatopoeic (cf. line 488, P̄P̄P̄: making a popping sound, possibly like thunder), symbolic (cf. line 487, AEĒIOYŌ: using the seven vowels in a series), or perhaps glossolalic (cf. line 492, ĒY ĒIA EĒ); some seem derived from or imitative of Greek (cf. line 562, PROPROPHEGGĒ: Primal Brightener?), Egyptian (cf. line 672, ARARMACHĒS: Horus of the two horizons; and line 717, PHRĒ: Re, the Sun), or Semitic words (cf. line 591, SEMESILAM: Eternal Sun; and line 593, IAŌ: Yahweh).

The Greek text which follows is that of K. Preisendanz, though a few minor changes have been made (e.g., the paragraphing). Regrettably, only a few notes can be provided here; for additional information the reader is referred to the following selected bibliography:

1. The goddess Psychē, "Soul." Dieterich and Wessely read Τύχη, "Fortune."

2. The term ᾶπρατα may mean "unsold," "unprostituted," or "undefiled"; Preisendanz suggests "unverkäuflich." Dieterich takes the πρατα of the MS as the Doric of πρῶτα, "first."

3. Dieterich: ἀξίῳ μύστη, "an initiate worthy (of)."

4. Dieterich emends the αιητης of the MS to αἰητός, the Doric of αἰτός, "eagle." On the possibility of the eagle as an initiatory grade within Mithraism, cf. Porphyry, De abstinentia, 4. 16.

 of herbs and spices, which will <be made known> to you at the end of my holy treatise), which the great god Hēlios Mithras ordered to be revealed to me by his archangel, so that I alone may ascend into heaven as an

c. Apparently used here as part of the magical utterance, ἐνάρχομαι is Greek for "I begin."

Draw in breath from the rays, drawing up three times as much as you can, and you will see yourself being lifted up and (540) ascending to the height, so that you seem to be in mid-air. You will hear nothing either of man or of any other living thing, nor in that hour will you see anything of mortal affairs on earth, but rather you will see all immortal things. For in that day (545) and hour you will see the divine order of the skies: the presiding gods^a rising into heaven, and others setting. Now the course of the visible gods will appear through the disk of god, my father; and in similar fashion the so-called "pipe" (550), the origin of the ministering wind. For you will see it hanging from the sun's disk like a pipe. You will see the outflow of this object toward the regions westward, boundless as an east wind, if it be assigned to the regions of the East--and the other (viz. the west wind), a. Moving, revolving heavenly bodies, which may influence human affairs and preside over the days.

similarly, toward its own (555) regions.^a And you will see the gods staring intently at you and rushing at you.

So at once put your right finger on your mouth and say:

"Silence! Silence! Silence!

Symbol of the living, incorruptible god!

(560) Guard me, Silence, NECHTHEIR THANMELOY!"

Then make a long hissing sound, next make a popping sound, and say:

"PROPROPHEGGĒ MORIOS PROPHYR PROPHEGGĒ

NEMETHIRE ARPSENTEN PITĒTMI MEŌY ENARTH

PHYRKECHŌ PSYRIDARIŌ (565) TYRĒ PHILBA."

Then you will see the gods looking graciously upon you and no longer rushing at you, but rather going about in their own order of affairs.

So when you see that the world above is clear (570) and circling, and that none of the gods or angels is threatening you, expect to hear a great crash of thunder, so as to shock you. Then say again:

"Silence! Silence! (the prayer)

I am a star, wandering about with you, and shining forth out of (575) the deep, OXY^b

O XERTHEYTH."

Immediately after you have said these things the sun's disk will be expanded. And after you have said the second prayer, where there is "Silence! Silence!" and the accompanying words, make a hissing sound twice and a popping sound twice, and immediately you will see (580) many five-pronged stars coming forth from the disk and filling all the air. Then say again:

"Silence! Silence!"

a. Or, with slightly different punctuation: "For you will see it hanging like a pipe from the sun's disk, toward the regions westward, boundless as an east wind, if it be assigned to the regions of the East; but if the other (viz. the west wind) be assigned, similarly, to its own (555) regions, you will see the reverse of the sight."

because, (605) on account of the pressing and bitter and inexorable necessity, I invoke the immortal names, living and honored, which never pass into mortal nature and are not declared in articulate speech by human tongue or mortal speech (610) or mortal sound:

ĒĒŌ OĒĒŌ IŌŌ OĒ ĒĒŌ ĒĒŌ OĒ EŌ IŌŌ OĒĒĒ ŌĒĒ ŌŌĒ

Say all these things with fire and spirit, until completing the first utterance; then, similarly, begin the second, until you complete the (620) seven immortal gods of the world. When you have said these things, you will hear thundering and shaking in the surrounding realm; and you will likewise feel yourself being agitated. Then say again:

"Silence!" (the prayer)

Then open your eyes, and you will see the doors (625) open and the world of the gods which is within the doors, so that from the pleasure and joy of the sight your spirit runs ahead and ascends.

So stand still and at once draw breath from the divine into yourself, while you look intently. Then when (630) your soul is restored, say:

"Come, Lord, ARCHANDARA PHŌTAZA PYRIPHŌTA
 ZABYTHIX ETIMENMERO PHORATHĒN ERIĒ PROTHRI
 PHORATHI."

When you have said this, the rays will turn toward you; look at the center of them. For when (635) you have done this, you will see a youthful god, beautiful in appearance, with fiery hair, and in a white tunic and a scarlet cloak, and wearing a fiery crown. At once greet him with the fire-greeting:

"κύριε, χαῖρε,

"Hail, O Lord,
Great Power, Great Might, (640) King, Greatest of gods, Hēlios, the Lord of heaven and earth, God of gods:

mighty is your breath;
mighty is your strength, O Lord.
If it be your will,
announce me to the supreme god,
the one who has begotten and made you:
that a man--

I, _____ whose mother is _____, (645) who was born from the mortal womb of _____ and from the fluid of semen,

and who, since he has been born again from you today, has become immortal out of so many myriads in this hour according to the wish of god the exceedingly good-- resolves to worship (650) you,

and prays with all his human power (that you may take along with you the horoscope of the day and hour today, which has the
name THRAPSIARI MORIROK, that he may appear and give revelation during the good hours, EŌRŌ RŌRE ŌRRI ŌRIŌR RŌR RŌI (655) ŌR REŌRŌRI EŌR EŌR EŌR EŌRE!)."

After you have said these things, he will come to the celestial pole, and you will see him walking as if on a road.

Look intently, and make a long bellowing sound, like a horn, releasing all your breath and straining your sides; and kiss (660) the amulets and say, first toward the right:

"Protect me, PROSYMĒRI!"

After saying this, you will see the doors thrown open, and seven virgins coming from deep within, dressed in linen garments, and with the faces of asps. They are called the Fates (665) of heaven, and wield golden wands.
When you see them, greet them in this manner:

"χαίρετε, αἱ ζ' Τύχαι τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, σεμναὶ καὶ

There also come forth another seven gods, who have the faces of black bulls, in linen (675) loin-cloths, and in possession of seven golden diadems. They are the so-called Pole-Lords of heaven, whom you must greet in the same manner, each of them with his own name:

"Hail, O guardians of the pivot, O sacred and brave youths, who turn (680) at one command the revolving axis of the vault of heaven, who send out thunder and lightning and jolts of earthquakes and thunderbolts against the nations of impious people, but to me, who am pious and god-fearing, you send health and soundness of body (685), and acuteness of hearing and seeing, and calmness in the present good hours of this day,

O my Lords and powerfully ruling Gods!

Hail to you, the first, AĪERŌNTHI!

Hail to you, the second, MERCHEIMĒROS!

Hail to you, the third, ACHRICHIOYR!

(690) Hail to you, the fourth, MESARGILTŌ!

Hail to you, the fifth, CHICHRŌALITHŌ!

Hail to you, the seventh, EORASICHĒ!"

Now when they take their place, here and there, in order, look in the air and you will see lightning-bolts going down, and lights flashing (695), and the earth shaking, and a god descending, a god immensely great, having a bright appearance, youthful, golden-haired, with a white tunic and a golden crown and trousers,^a and holding in his right hand a golden (700) shoulder of a young bull: this is the Bear^b which moves and turns heaven around, moving upward and downward in accordance with the hour. Then you will see lightning-bolts leaping from his eyes and stars from his body.

And at once (705) produce a long bellowing sound, straining your belly, that you may excite the five senses: bellow long until the conclusion, and again kiss the amulets, and say:

"MOKRIMO PHERIMOPHERERI, life of me, _____:
stay!

Dwell in (710) my soul!

Do not abandon me, for one entreats you, ENTHO
PHENEN THROPIŌTH."

And gaze upon the god while bellowing long; and greet him in this manner:

"Hail, O Lord, O Master of the water!

Hail, O Founder of the earth!

Hail, O Ruler of the wind!

After you have said these things, he will immediately respond with a revelation (725). Now you will grow weak in soul and will not be in yourself, when he answers you. He speaks the oracle to you in verse, and after speaking he will depart. But you remain silent, since you will be able to comprehend all these matters by yourself; for at a later time (730) you will remember infallibly the things spoken by the great god, even if the oracle contained myriads of verses.

If you also wish to use a fellow-initiate, so that he alone may hear with you the things spoken, let him remain pure together with you for <seven> (735) days, and abstain from meat and the bath. And even if you are alone, and you undertake the things communicated by the god, you speak as though prophesying in ecstasy. And if you also wish to show him, then judge whether he is completely worthy as a man (740): treat him just as if in his place you were being judged in the matter of immortalization, and whisper to him the first prayer, of which the beginning is "First origin of my origin, AEĒIOYŌ." And say the successive things as an initiate, over his (745) head, in a soft voice, so that he may not hear, as you are anointing his face with the mystery. This immortalization takes place three times a year. And if anyone, O child, after the teaching, wishes to disobey, then for him it will no longer (750) be in effect.

Instruction for the ritual:

Take a sun-scarab^a which has twelve rays, and make it fall into a deep, turquoise cup, at the time when the moon is invisible;^b put in together with it the seed of the lotometra, (755) and honey; and, after grinding it, prepare a cake. And at once you will see it (viz. the scarab) moving forward and eating; and when it has consumed it, it immediately dies. Pick it up and throw it into a glass vessel of excellent rose oil, as much as you wish; and (760) spreading sacred sand in a pure manner, set the vessel on it, and say the formula over the vessel for seven days, while the sun is in mid-heaven:

"I have consecrated you, that your essence may be useful to me, to _____ alone, IE IA Ē EĒ OY EIA, that you may prove useful to me (765) alone.
For I am PHŌR PHORA PHŌS PHOTIZAAS (others: PHŌR PHŌR OPHOTHEI XAAS)."

On the seventh day pick up the scarab, and bury it with myrrh and wine from Mendēs and fine linen; and put it away in a flourishing bean-field. (770) Then, after you have entertained and feasted together, put away, in a pure manner, the ointment for the immortalization.

If you want to show this to someone else, take the juice of the herb called "kentritis," and smear it, along with rose oil, over the eyes of the one you wish; (775) and he will see so clearly that he will amaze you. I have not found a greater spell than this in the world. Ask the god for what you want, and he will give to you.^c a. The scarab, the Egyptian god Kheper, represented the rising sun.

b. Literally "at the seizure of the moon." This interesting phrase probably designates the new moon.

c. For examples of Jewish and Christian parallels to this familiar statement, cf. Matthew 7:7, and H. Strack and P. Billerbeck, Kommentar zum Neuen Testament aus Talmud und Midrasch (München: Beck, 1926), vol. 1, 450ff.

ἡ δὲ τοῦ μεγάλου θεοῦ σύστασις ἐστὶν ἡδε· βαστάξας κεντρίτιν τὴν προκειμένην (780) βοτάνην τῆ συνόδῳ τῆ γενομένη λεόντι ἄρον τὸν χυλὸν καὶ μίξας μέλιτι καὶ ζμύρνη γράψον ἐπὶ φύλλου περσέας τὸ ὀκταγράματον ὄνομα, ὡς ὑπόκειται, καὶ πρὸ γ' ἡμερῶν ἀγνεύσας ἐλθὲ πρωίας πρὸς ἀνατολάς, (785) ἀπόλειχε τὸ φύλλον δεικνύων ἡλίῳ, καὶ οὕτως ἐπακούσεται τελείως. ἄρχου δὲ αὐτὸν τελεῖν τῆ ἐν λεόντι κατὰ θεὸν νομηνία. τὸ δὲ ὄνομά ἐστὶν τοῦτο·

"ἰ εε οο ἰαῖ."

τοῦτο ἐκλειχε, ἵνα φυλακτηριασθῆς, καὶ τὸ φύλλον (790) ἐλίξας ἔμβαλε εἰς τὸ ῥόδινον. πολλάκις δὲ τῆ πραγματεία χρησάμενος ὑπερεθαύμασα.

εἶπεν δέ μοι ὁ θεός·

"μηκέτι χρῶ τῷ συγχρίσματι,

ἀλλὰ ῥίψαντα εἰς ποταμὸν

<χρῆ> χρᾶσθαι φοροῦντα τὸ μέγα μυστήριον (795)

τοῦ κανθάρου τοῦ ἀναζωπυρηθέντος διὰ τῶν

κ̄ε ζῳων ὄρνεων,

χρᾶσθαι ἅπαξ τοῦ μηνός, ἀντὶ τοῦ κατὰ ἔτος γ', κατὰ πανσέληνον."

ἡ δὲ κεντρίτις βοτάνη φύεται ἀπὸ μηνὸς Παῦνι ἐν τοῖς μέρεσι τῆς (800) μελάνης γῆς, ὁμοία δὲ ἐστὶν τῷ ὀρθῷ περιστερεῶνι. ἡ δὲ γνῶσις αὐτῆς οὕτως γίγνεται· ἴβεως πτερὸν χρίεται τὸ ἀκρομέλαν χαλασθὲν τῷ χυλῷ καὶ ἅμα τῷ θιγεῖν ἀποπίπτει τὰ πτερά. τοῦτο τοῦ κυρίου (805) ὑποδείξαντος εὐρέθη ἐν τῷ Μενελαίτῃ ἐν τῇ φαλαγρῷ πρὸς ταῖς ἀναβολαῖς πλησίον τοῦ Βησάδος βοτάνης.

Now presentation^a before the great god is like this: obtaining the above-mentioned herb (780) kentritis, at the conjunction (viz. of the sun and the moon)^b occurring in the Lion, take the juice and, after mixing it with honey and myrrh, write on a leaf of the perseia tree the eight-letter formula, as is mentioned below. And keeping yourself pure for three days before, set out early in the morning toward the East, (785) lick off the leaf while you show it to the Sun, and then he (viz. the sun god) will listen to you attentively. Begin to consecrate this at the divine new moon,^c in the Lion. Now this is the formula:

"İ EE OO İAİ."

Lick this up, so that you may be protected; and rolling up the leaf (790), throw it into the rose oil. Many times have I used the spell, and have wondered greatly.

But the god said to me:

"Use the ointment no longer,
but, after casting it into the river, <you must> consult while wearing the great mystery (795) of the scarab revitalized through the twenty-five living birds,^d and consult once a month, at full moon, instead of three times a year."

The kentritis plant grows from the month of Payni, in the regions of the (800) black earth, and is similar to the erect verbena. This is how to recognize it: an ibis-wing is dipped at its black tip and smeared with the juice, and the feathers fall off when touched. After the Lord (805) pointed this out, it was found in Menelaïtis in Phalagry, at the river banks, near the Bēsas plant.

a. Presentation or introduction to the great god for the sake of attaining friendship and communion with the god.

b. That is, at the new moon.

c. The new moon according to the heavens, made by god, in distinction from the new moon according to the calendar, made by man.

d. This allusion to the birds is somewhat obscure.

ἔστιν δὲ μονόκλωνον καὶ πυρρὸν ἄχρι τῆς ῥίζης καὶ τὰ φύλλα οὐλότερα καὶ τὸν καρπὸν (810) ἔχοντα ὅμοιον τῷ κορύμβῳ ἀσπαράγου ἀγρίου. ἔστιν δὲ παραπλήσιον τῷ καλουμένῳ ταλάπη, ὡς τὸ ἄγριον σεῦτλον.

τὰ δὲ φυλακτῆρια ἔχει τὸν τρόπον τοῦτον· τὸ μὲν δεξιὸν γράψον εἰς ὑμένα (815) προβάτου μέλανος ζμυρνομέλανι, τὸ δὲ αὐτὸ δήσας νεύροις τοῦ αὐτοῦ ζῴου περιῆσαι, τὸ δὲ εὐώνυμον εἰς ὑμένα λευκοῦ προβάτου καὶ χρῶ τῷ αὐτῷ τρόπῳ. εὐώνυμον τ>οῦ "προσθυμηρι" πληρέστατον (820) καὶ τὸ ὑπόμνημα ἔχει·

"ὡς εἰπὼν τάφροιο διήλασε μώνυχας ἵππους·"

"ἄνδρας τ' ἀσπαίροντας ἐν ἀργαλέοισι φόνοισι·"

"αὐτοὶ δ' ἰδρῶ πολλὸν ἀπενίζοντο θαλάσση·"

"τολμήσεις Διὸς ἅντα πελώριον ἔγχος ἀεῖραι·"

(825) ἀνέβη Ζεὺς εἰς ὄρος χρυσοῦν μόσχον ἔχων καὶ μάχαιραν ἀργυρέαν· πᾶσιν μέρος ἐπέδωκεν, Ἀμάρᾳ μόνον οὐκ ἔδωκεν, εἶπεν δέ·

"ἔξαφες, ὃ ἔχεις,

καὶ τότε λήψει ψινωθερ νωψιθερ θερνωψι"

(κοινόν).

(830) "τλῆ μὲν Ἄρης, ὅτε μιν ὦτος κρατερός τ' Ἐπιάλτης·" θυμοκάτοχον·

"τολμήσεις Διὸς ἅντα πελώριον ἔγχος ἀεῖραι·"

πρὸς φίλους·

"αἰρεῖτω, μὴ χάρμα γενώμεθα δυσμενέεσσιν·"

It is of a single stem, and reddish down to the root; and the leaves are rather crinkled and have fruit (810) like the tip of wild asparagus. It is similar to the so-called talapēs, like the wild beet.

Now the amulets require this procedure: copy the right one onto the skin (815) of a black sheep, with myrrh-ink, and after tying it with sinews of the same animal, put it on; and copy the left one onto the skin of a white sheep, and use the same procedure. The left one is very full of "PROSTHYMĒRI" (820), and has this text:

"So speaking, he drove through the trench
the single-hoofed horses." (II. X. 564)

"And men gasping among grievous slaughters."
(II. X. 521)

"And they washed off their profuse sweat in the sea." (II. X. 572)

"You will dare to lift up your mighty spear against Zeus." (II. VIII.424)

(825) Zeus went up the mountain with a golden bullock and a silver dagger. Upon all he bestowed a share, only to Amara did he not give, but he said:

"Let go of what you have,
and then you will receive, PSINŌTHER NŌPSITHER THERNŌPSI" (and so on, as you like).

(830) "So Arēs suffered, when Ōtos and mighty Epialtēs ... him." (II. V. 385)

Spell for restraining anger:

"You will dare to lift up your mighty spear against Zeus." (II. VIII.424)

For friends:

"Let ... seize ..., lest we become a source of joy for our enemies." (II. X. 193)
